Ag heads consider PRV program

BY SHEILA MILLER

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture Penrose Hallowell met with U.S. Secretary of Agriculture John Block in Washington D.C. on Wednesday to discuss the current pseudorabies outbreak in the state's southeast corner and a possible USDA-funded pilot project for eradication.

According to Hallowell, Secretary Block said he understands the problems facing Pennsylvania hog producers because he, himself, is a hog farmer from Illinois where pseudorabies also is a problem.

Hallowell reported PDA will be applying for a grant of less than $100,000 for the pilot project to eradicate pseudorabies in the concentrated Lancaster County area. He expressed optimism concerning the application and stated Pennsylvania "stands a chance — we will use the funds in a limited, small-size area where the problem is severe." He added Pennsylvania and North Carolina are the most logical states for the pilot projects and are in the upper 3-4 of the states that have applied.

In addition to soliciting aid from USDA through Animal Plant Health Inspection Service, Block suggested:

— enforcing the present federal interstate regulations controlling movement of hogs;

— promoting proposals for new state regulations, including intrastate movement of both breeding and feeder swine;

— exploring and promoting the eradication of the disease in known herds;

— maintaining quarantines until herds are depopulated or tested pseudorabies free; — eartagging all feeder pigs sold at auction;

— enforcing dealer market laws so that no slaughter hogs can be sold as breeding stock; and — advising swine producers to buy only swine that are certified pseudorabies free.

But how and when?

BY DICK ANGLESTEIN

LANCASTER —How does the popular nursery rhyme go?

"This little piggy went to market."

"This little piggy stayed at home."

Well, this rhythmic choice learned as a child might be applied to those thousands of big piggies that go to market weekly in Lancaster County as hogs to end up as hams, bacon, pork chops or whatever in the supermarket.

Also, this choice and the route that hogs travel between county farms and the supermarket shelf is causing several ripples of concern and controversy presently in the local swine industry.

Several questions being raised due to these ripples include:

–What long-range impact will be felt if last week's "indefinite" closing by Penn Packing Co., of Philadelphia, develops into a definite cessation of operations?

–Are prices reported from some local auctions ever inflated, with lower figures being dropped from the ranges that are quoted?

–Do some buyers pull too many of the marketing strings, even to the point where they can get auctions to back down on requiring prompt daily cash payments for the hogs purchased?

Among these questions, the Number One topic of conversation in recent days centered on last week's Penn Packing closing.

On the average, approximately 2,000 head of hogs had been moving weekly through Penn Packing's receiving station at Ephrata's Green Dragon Market. And across the state, the Philadelphia packers generally bought some 4,000 to 5,000 head, including those out of markets in the western part of the state, some directly off farms and those contracted through feed mills.

Although Penn Packing closed its doors on Thursday, June 18, the Ephrata receiving station remained open this week with the hogs going to A & B Packing in Allentown.

The station will continue to receive hogs next week for slaughter at A & B, according to Henry Gruber, of the Allentown packing firm.

"It will take a few weeks until the situation shakes down," Gruber said.

"Someone will kill the hogs and they will find channels to go through. We've seen it before with Consolidated and others."

Lawrence Lipoff, of Penn Packing, said the closing was due to economic conditions in the industry.

He described Penn Packing losses recently as "staggering."

FEC denies dairy Co-op's request

BY DONNA TOMMELLEO

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Federal Election Commission, last Thursday, voted 4-2 against Land 'O Lakes Cooperative's advisory request to solicit indirect members for political contributions.

However, a spokesman for the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives said Thursday, a change in the federal regulation governing member solicitation is being considered.

"There was an indication that some commissioners felt there was justification for a change in the regulations that would permit Land 'O Lakes to solicit," said Associate General Counsel Jim Krzyminski.

Under current federal regulations, Land 'O Lakes, a highly diversified cooperative, can solicit individual, direct members, but cannot draw contributions from incorporated membership in the form of local co-ops. Krzyminski explained the co-op is also prohibited from soliciting from individuals within the locals.

In a similar action last year, the Commission ruled against an advisory request from Midstate, a

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

JUNE 29-JULY 5, 1981

Warm and hazy, makes one lazy.

Beware of lightning this week . William Booth founded Salvation Army July 5, 1865 New moon July 1 (Wed.) Average length of days for the week, 15 hours, 13 minutes . . Morrill Act established land-grant colleges July 2, 1862 Frogs are adults now and pursue romance . Many a man's tongue has broken his nose

Ask the Old Farmer: Is dew a weather indicator? F J., Milwaukee

For the very short term Dew on grass at night or in early morning is a sign of fair weather It forms only when the air is dry, skies are clear.

Home Hints: After your next painting job, wash your paint roller with a fabric softener The roller cover will dry soft and fluffy, just like new.

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECASTS

New England: Heavy rain and cool temperatures prevail throughout week, weekend becoming colder and clearing.

Greater New York-New Jersey: Week starts warm with storm arriving, heavy rain, cool, partial clearing at end with mild temperatures

Middle Atlantic Coastal: Some hot showers, rain, heavy on coast, cooling, weekend is partly cloudy.

Piedmont & Southeast Coastal: Showers turn to rain and cool, cloudy throughout week.

Peoria Cattle

Thursday, June 25

Report supplied by USDA

51 WEEKLY CATTLE SUMMARY: Trading on slaughter steers and heifers was moderate for the week. Slaughter steers through Wednesday, .50 to 1.00 higher. Heifers .50 higher. Cows and bulls weak to 1.00 lower, but not too well tested due to small supply. Best demand for steers early in week centered on YG 2-3 over 1150 lbs. with some lots carrying several good grade selling at or near the top of the market. Good grade steers and heifers were under pressure on Wednesday as a result of a wider price spread on Good and Choice carcasses. Receipts this week about 2700 as compared to 4246 a week ago and 3046 a year ago.

SLAUGHTER STEERS: Choice 2-4 1050-1250 lbs. 68.00-70.00, mostly 68.50-69.50. Load Choice 3 1160 lbs. 70.25. Some loads mixed Good and Choice 2-3 1100-1225 lbs. 70.00 on Monday. Mixed Good and Choice 2-4 1000-1250 lbs. 66.50-68.50. Good 2-3 900-1200 lbs. 62.00-66.00. Load Standard and Good 2 1300 lbs. Holsteins 59.00.

SLAUGHTER HEIFERS: Choice, few Prime 2-4 900-1025 lbs. 64.00-67.00, load Monday 1050 lbs. 67.50. Mixed Good and Choice 2-4 875-1000 lbs. 63.50-64.50. Good 2-3 60.00-63.50.

COWS: Utility, few Commercial 1-3 42.00-45.00. Cutter 1-2 40.00-44.00.

BULLS: YG 1-2 1100-1900 lbs. 48.00-52.00.

Thursday, June 25

Report supplied by USDA

Through midweek slaughter steers and heifers 1.25-1.50 higher. Cows 50-1.00 higher. Bulls steady.

Four day receipts 10,881; last week 14,634; year ago 13,963.

Steers made up 50 pct of week's receipts, heifers 27 pct, cows 10 pct, feeder 9 pct.

In spite of sharp declines in the carcass beef trade, live cattle prices ranged higher for the week; as Omaha terminal receipts numbered 35 pct less than a week ago and buyers were forced to compete actively for close-up slaughter needs. Choice steers 1100 lbs. and up and Choice heifers 950 lbs. and up again enjoyed the best demand. As lighter weight offerings carrying a considerable percentage of good grades. continue to be present in increased numbers. Yield Grade 4-5 cattle present a minimal problem at this time.

STEERS: Earlier in week load Choice, few Prime mostly 3 1281 lbs. 72.25, at midweek part load Choice 2-3 1125 lbs. 72.00. Choice 2-4 1075-1300 lbs. 70.50-71.75. Mixed Good and Choice 2-3 1050-1250 lbs. 69.00-70.50, few Good 67.00-69.00. Few lots Mixed Good and Choice 2-3 1250-1400 lbs. holsteins 62.00-63.00.

HEIFERS: Load Choice 2-3 1025 lbs. 69.00. Choice 2-4 925-1050 lbs. 67.00-68.00. Mixed Good and Choice 2-3 900-1025 lbs. 65.00-66.50. Good 64.00-65.00.

Average of LS 214 detailed quotations for Choice 900-1100 lbs. steers this week 70.40, 1100-1300 lbs. 71.05. Average cost steers this week 69.46, average weight 160 lbs. as compared 68.28 and 1151 lbs. a week ago. Average cost heifers this week 67.00, average weight 990 lbs. compared 65.95 and 977 lbs. a week ago.

COWS: High Cutter, Utility and Commercial 1-3 42.50-44.25. Canner and Cutter 40.50-42.50.

BULLS: Few 1-2 1200-1800 lbs. 51.00-55.00.

Get concerned about PRV

After a year and a half, the wheels of government are squeaking ahead on the road to helping Pennsylvania swine producers combat the contagious disease, pseudorabies, which has been slowly growing like a cancer in Lancaster County.

Why has it taken so long to act on this problem?

Government red tape is often blamed for most of the time lags. But, the real problem might be seated a little uncomfortably in the laps of the state's hog producers.

Disinterest in a disease that seems to be concentrated in one county — actually in one 50 square mile radius — may be stifling concern.

How quickly hog producers seem to forget the devastating effects of cholera that swept through the state not too many years ago. Although cholera has been brought under control in the U.S., this dread disease and another known as African swine fever lurk on our doorsteps.

Just across the border and a few miles over ocean waters, the Dominican Republic and Haiti have had to depopulate their swine herds because these contagious diseases were somehow brought into their country. And the same thing could possibly happen here, if government officials and hog producers aren't prepared.

Although most Pennsylvanians aren't troubled with small planes smuggling drugs into the U.S. landing in their corn fields, their fellow farmers in Florida and some of the other southern states find this happening with regularity. To avoid being apprehended, smugglers fly into the country and ditch their planes in some out-of-the-way spot (some farmer's field, at times) and desert the aircraft once the 'precious cargo' has been delivered.

Unfortunately, a lot of this drug traffic is coming from areas where hogs are carrying cholera and African swine fever.

What would happen if one of those small planes landed in a field used to pasture hogs, and the pilot happened to leave behind a pork sandwich, with the meat having been improperly cooked?

After the farmer finds the plane and notifies officials, all the garbage inside the craft is casually tossed out for the hogs. One of them dines on the leftover sandwich. Suddenly, the disease has sneaked past every defense regulation enacted and U.S. hog farmers are faced with an overwhelming epidemic

Hopefully, this dramatic situation will never materialize — but the possibility is there Are hog producers and animal health staff members ready for such an onslaught? Are producers willing to work together for regulations that would safeguard breeding swine as well as feeders?

If the pseudorabies case is any indicator of cooperation, it's going to be a long row to hoe.

The National Pork Producers Council recently went on record in opposition to the current PRV eradication program. Carson Rogers, chairman of their Swine Health Committee said, "Until we have a test or vaccine that allows discrimination between the vaccinated animal and the naturally infected animal, and information on how the disease spreads, we cannot support an extensive eradication effort."

However, NPPC admits pseudorabies poses an "economic hardship for many producers, with eight percent of all U.S. hogs infected and strict quarantines and regulations being used to restrict movement of infected hogs." Last year alone there were 1,217 confirmed cases in the U.S. with the highest incidence of PRV being found in the Cornbelt states of Iowa, Illinois, Nebraska, Missouri, Indiana, and Minnesota.

According to Rogers, producers feel nothing will be lost if there is a delay of a few years until the technology to effectively eradicate PRV is available. NPPC also requested USDA withdraw its federal pseudorabies regulations pertaining to the interstate movement of hogs.

Pork producers seem to be asking for problems instead of trying to solve them. Why? Economics, paperwork, time and labor? All of these seem like lame excuses when considering a disease that wipes out profit in one fell swoop.

It seems most producers are looking for a vaccine to save the day. But, these PRV vaccines camouflage the disease — any hog that has been vaccinated reacts to the PRV test. It's impossible to differentiate between a diseased hog and a vaccinated one at this point.

But, there may be hope on the horizon. The Iowa State University is working on a subunit PRV vaccine.

In a letter to Secretary John Block, Iowa Congressman Berkley Bedell "strongly urged" financial support of this research, stating, "If its use were made practical, the subunit vaccine would reduce the loss from the disease and slow the spread of the virus. Unlike available commercial vaccines, it would allow for differentiation between vaccinated pigs infected with pseudorabies and vaccinated pigs that have not been infected."

Bedell estimated it would cost $400,000 over a four year period, in addition to the funds the university already has committed.

Bedell said he was "greatly concerned about the pseudorabies problem" and that it "makes more sense to spend a few well-placed dollars now to prevent substantial and more costly losses among hog producers later."

Let's hope hog producers soon start sharing this legislator's concerns.

Background Scripture
Deuteronomy 4:15-49.
Devotional Reading:
Hosea 6:1-6.

No matter how wise the teachings, no matter how beautiful the rituals, nor authoritative the scripture, no religion can long remain fresh and alive when its adherents lose the experience of the divine presence. Many of the problems which we face in our churches today can be traced, I believe, to our failure to maintain a first-hand religious experience. God cannot help but be remote and ineffective in our lives when our source of contact with him is second and even third-hand.

Religion cannot help but seem remote when most of our activity is relegated to talking about God as an article of faith or an abstract idea. People — and particularly the younger generation today — reject Christianity, not because our Christian teachings are unattractive, but because we have failed to convince others that we have ever been in communion or relationship with the God we profess.

He Let You See and Hear

In Deuteronomy 4 we are reminded that what made God so real to the Hebrew people was not the presuasiveness of the Hebrew priests nor the brilliance of what they said about God. What made God so real to the Hebrew people was their experience of his presence in their lives. In the midst of their needs, they encountered God in a living experience. They saw what he did and they heard his voice: "on earth he let you see his great fire, and you heard his words out of the midst of the fire."

The key to the Hebrew religion was always the Hebrew experience of God. "And because he loved your fathers, and chose their descendents after them, and brought you out of Egypt with his own presence, by his great power . . . know therefore this day, and lay it to your heart, that the Lord is God in heaven above and on the earth beneath; there is no other" (4:37). For the Hebrew, God was never just a great idea, but a profound experience of the divine presence. They believed in him and covenanted with him, not because it was logical, but because it grew out of their experience.

His Own Presence

Have you experienced the presence of God in your own life? If you have, you don't need any arguments about the existence of a Divine Being. But, if you haven't, why haven't you? Is it that God chooses not to reveal himself to you? Is it that the experience of God's presence is limited to a chosen few or a bygone time?

Or is it that you haven't recognized the presence in your life because you haven't allowed yourself to be aware of it? In The Lark, a play about Joan of Arc, the Dauphine of France is jealous because Joan's "voices" come to a simple maid and not himself. But Joan explains, "They do come to you, but you do not listen."

God is present, even if we are oblivious to him.

To Check Lighting For Layers

One of the cardinal rules of poultry management is to never decrease the light period of flocks in production. Most flock managers would never intentionally decrease the day length to a flock in production but we are in the season of the year when this can happen accidentially.

Most layers are in light-controlled not light-tight housing. The major sources of light leakage are the exhaust fans and air intakes. Pullet flocks placed in the laying house during the late fall, winter or spring can be given a 14 hour day. As summer approaches and natural day length exceeds 14 hours, layers in non-light tight housing will be exposed to an increasing day length due to the light entering the building through the fans and air intakes. This increase in day length causes no problem. The longest day occurs on June 21 and decreases until December 21. It is this decrease in day length that can cause layers to go out of production unless the time clocks controlling the lights are readjusted to provide the layers with the day length they received on June 21.

The two points to remember are: 1) never subject layers to a decrease in day length and 2) unless time clocks are readjusted on June 21, the layers in non-light tight houses could be exposed to an unintentional decrease in day length.

Be Alert For Armyworm Activity

We have seen armyworm activity in wheat and corn fields and have received several reports of activity from farmers in the New Holland-Leola areas. They have started to snip off heads of grain and consume corn plants. As of the 19th, the worms were quite immature and infestation appeared to be spotty. Thus, recommendations for widespread spraying did not appear to be necessary. However, we urge farmers to check their fields, closely, to report any activity observed and ask for control recommendations by contacting the Extension Office.

To Control Flies

The good growing conditions that we've experienced this spring for field crops also favor the build-up of fly populations. The good moisture presents ideal conditions for maggots to develop into flies. We suggest that livestock and poultry operators use residual insecticides on their buildings and pit walls to cut down on the fly problem. Materials such as Rabon, Vapona, Korlan, Ectiban, and Atroban are showing results. One of the real keys for control, is to use different materials at different intervals to break the cycles.

One of the most important practices in keeping down the number of flies is to clean up the place and eliminate fly breeding areas. Manure packs and other debris are good fly breeding places.

Good sanitation along with insecticides can keep flies under control. Always follow label instructions for rates of application.

DER sets public meetings for hazardous waste

HARRISBURG — Mary T. Webber, special deputy secretary of the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Resources and chairman of the Commonwealth's Hazardous Waste Facilities Planning Advisory Committee, will preside at public meetings on Thursday, July 9, in the Council Chambers of Norristown Borough Hall, 235 East Airy Street, Norristown; and Wednesday, July 22, in Room 41, Education Building, 333 Market Street, Harrisburg, on proposed criteria for siting hazardous waste facilities.

The proposed "Preliminary Environmental, Social and Economic Criteria and Standards for Siting Hazardous Waste Treatment and Disposal Facilities," prepared by DER with the cooperation of the 14-member advisory committee, was published in the April 25 Pennsylvania Bulletin for a 90-day public comment period ending July 23.

Copies of the proposed criteria also are available from DER Hazardous Waste Management Division, Box 2063, Harrisburg, PA 17120. Recommendations and comments on the criteria, prepared under a mandate of the Solid Waste Management Act of 1980, should be sent to that address.

The committee has asked that, where possible, those planning to speak at the meetings, register with the division. Speakers are requested to bring written copies or summaries of their comments.

If approved, the criteria will be applied to all prospective and existing hazardous waste treatment and disposal facilities which must be permitted under the act.

The proposed criteria define environmental, social and economic factors which must be considered to assess the geologic, hydrologic, soils, air and water quality, natural, scenic, aesthetic and economic impact of locating each hazardous waste facility.

The criteria also defines how the effects of each facility should be assessed in relation to transportation, population, land use, ownership, and proximity and possible compensation to the host municipality.

USDA proposes changes in federal seed act regs

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The public has until July 30 to comment on U.S. Department of Agriculture proposals to change regulations under the Federal Seed Act.

Thomas H. Porter, an official with USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, said the proposal includes changes in ways of testing agricultural and vegetable seed, standards for certified seed and botanical names of certain seed.

Porter said there will be two public hearings on the changes—one in Washington, D.C., July 22, and the other in Denver, Colo., July 30.

The July 22 hearing session will begin at 9 a.m., in rm. 2096 of the South Agriculture Bldg., 14th and Independence Ave., S.W. The July 30 session will begin at 9 a.m., in rm. 239 of the Denver Federal Bldg., 1961 Stout St.

Porter said the proposed changes are the result of requests from several sources: the Association of Official Seed Analysts, the Association of Official Seed Certifying Agencies and the International Seed Testing Association.

Written comments should be sent in duplicate to: Hearing Clerk, rm. 1077-S, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250, where they will be available for public review.

Those who want to speak at the public hearings should contact the AMS Livestock, Poultry, Grain and Seed Division, rm. 2603-S, Washington, D.C., 20250.

The proposal was published in the June 10 Federal Register, which is available at many public libraries.

Now Is The Time

To Feed Shrubs After Flowering Period

Most people know that their plants do better if they're fertilized...but many ask when is the best time to feed shrubs.

One important thing to remember is that shrubs need feeding immediately following their flowering period. For small shrubs, use one half a handful of a complete fertilizer...such as a 5-10-5 or 5-10-10 or a similar analysis. The fertilizer should be placed on the surface of the soil around the plant and lightly raked in.

After you've applied the plant food to the soil, it should be soaked in with rain or a healthy watering. Larger plants, of course, may be given a larger amount of plant food.

Once a plant is firmly and fully established ... and in good growing condition ... then it may not need regular fertilizer application.

Baltimore mayor to compete

BALTIMORE, Md.— Baltimore Mayor William Donald Schaefer will welcome the National Holstein Association Convention to Baltimore by squaring off against Maryland Comptroller Louie Goldstein in a cow milking contest scheduled for June 30.

The contest will be held at Hopkin's Plaza, at the corner of Baltimore and Charles Streets, in down town Baltimore and will begin at 7 p.m.

Judges for the contest will be Ivan Strickler, president of the National Holstein Association; Robert Knutsen, Maryland Holstein president; and Zane Adkins, executive vice president for the National Holstein Association.

Baltimore media personality Frank Hennessey will provide squirt by squirt commentary and Milky the Robot will make a special appearance before and during the event.

Swartz pen tops market hog show, sale

LANCASTER — The Grand Champion Pen of 10 brought $60.00 a hundredweight at the annual Market Hog Show and Sale Wednesday at the Lancaster Stockyards.

Coming out of the mediumweight class, the pen was consigned by Robert Swartz, R1, Thompsontown, Juniata County, through Walter M. Dunlap and Sons and purchased by Leidy Packing.

The grand champion pen averaged 228 lbs. The pen was purchased as feeder pigs at the Stockyards, which is believed to be a first in the history of the show and sale.

The Reserve Champion Pen, consigned by Franklin Feeser, of Tanneytown, Md., was sold for $56.00 to John Snyder. Also consigned through Dunlap, the heavyweights averaged 231 lbs.

Average for the sale was 54.82, including the champions. Averge weight was 219 lbs.

In all, 190 hogs in pens of 10 each were judged by Henry Gruber, of A and B Packing.

Other consignors, weights and prices include.

Larry Stauffer, Lebanon County, third in heavyweights, 231 lbs., 54.50; E. M. Herr, Lancaster County, second, heavyweights, 235 lbs., 55.00; Steve Strauss, Lancaster County, 223 lbs. 55.25; Stephen Stoltzfus, Lancaster County, 230 lbs., 53.50; Meadow Brook Farm York County, 224 lbs., 55.00; Lowell Sensenig, Lancaster County, 213 lbs., 54.25.

Fun, facts, feasting await Holstein conventioneers

BALTIMORE, Md. — A group of nearly 3,000 national Holstein Association members, their families and other industry leaders are expected to congregate in Baltimore, this week, to participate in the 96th annual convention of the Holstein Association of America.

Maryland Holstein Association Convention Chairman Marlin Hoff reports. "We've been actively working for more than two years on plans to bring the national convention to Baltimore."

Visiting dairymen, from coast to coast, will have the opportunity to sample seafood from Maryland's shore, visit local Holstein farms, and tour nearby Washington and Annapolis.

Delegates will act on the business of the national Holstein Association and everyone will have a chance to bid on some fine Holstein cattle at the national sale, according to Hoff.

The convention program will feature the proposed details of the 1981 farm bill, new cow indexes, future Association activities, policy revisions and USDA animal health priorities.

The annual business meeting and the national Holstein sale will be held in the new $50 million Baltimore Convention Center. Centrally located, the center is connected to convention hotels and Baltimore's Inner Harbor project with its many shops and restaurants.

The Convention Chairman said social activities will be held on Sunday and Monday, before the business meetings on Tuesday and Wednesday. The national sale is scheduled for Tuesday.

Special arrangements have been made to visit Maryland Holstein farms within a one-hour drive of Baltimore on Sunday. Buses will take visitors to such well known farms as Kingstead, Maple Law, Rinehart, Lovdal, Killdee, Long Green, Fair Hill, KingLea, Sunset View, and Hickory Hill.

Buses will return in time for conventioneers to attend the President's Reception and dinner. Association President Ivan K. Strickler will welcome delegates and their families to a traditional Maryland crab feast.

With close proximity to the nation's capital, it's only natural that Holstein guests will have the opportunity to spend a day in Washington, D.C. A tour of the city features a guided tour of Capitol Hill on Monday with stops at the Supreme Court and the Library of Congress. The Jefferson Memorial, the Lincoln Memorial, the Kennedy Center, the Department of Agriculture and Embassy Row will be part of this trip.

In the afternoon, tourists will have a choice of three walking tours: FBI building, Smithsonian Institution, or Mount Vernon, historic Virginia home of George Washington. An optional day trip to Annapolis, home of the U.S. Naval Academy, and capital of the state, may be taken by guests.

Maryland hospitality will extend to Holstein juniors throughout the convention days. They also will be able to enjoy a round of tours to Washington or Annapolis with the chance to swim, canoe and hike in the beautiful Catoctin State Park.

On the more serious side, juniors may attend workshops dealing with embryo transfers, feeding and nutrition, milking procedures and advertising and promotion.

On Wednesday, the second annual Holstein Dairy Bowl, a contest of teams testing dairy knowledge, will conclude the junior activities. The six distinguished junior members will be recognized at the convention banquet that evening.

At the first Early Bird session, held on Tuesday, Senatorial Economist William Bailey and House Staff Agriculture Director Fowler West will discuss the national farm bill.

On Wednesday, at the second Early Bird session, USDA Extension Dairyman Basil Eastwood will speak on cow evaluations with special emphasis on the new, four source cow index developed by USDA.

On Tuesday, the two-day annual meeting of the national Holstein Association will convene with delegates present to elect officers and four directors to replace those whose terms have expired. Two of the directors are eligible for reelection for a second term. Delegates also will act on other business to come before the convention.

Harry C. Mussman, director of the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, will address the convention assembly on Tuesday afternoon. In 1971, Mussman joined USDA and became deputy administrator in the meat and poultry inspection program. Later, he filled a post with APHIS, then served with the UN's Food and Agriculture Organization before returning to APHIS as its director.

On Thursday, the convention will end with the national sale. Conventioneers will see some of the country's finest Holstein cattle put up for auction at the convention center.

At the 1980 convention sale a top price of $75,000 was bid for a Holstein bull; the highest selling female Holstein went for $36,000. An average sale price of $10,465 was figured on the total sale receipts of $1,230,500.

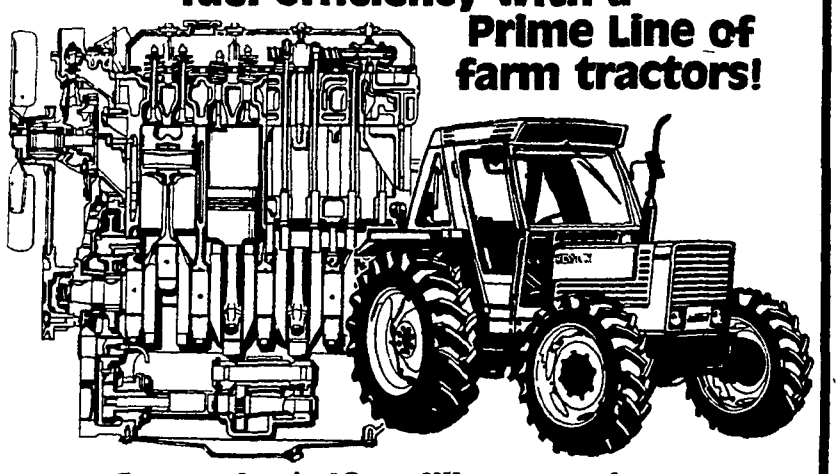
See These Tractors In Action!

Hesston brings you outstanding fuel efficiency with a Prime Line of farm tractors!

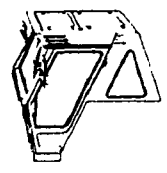


See what 10-million engines taught Fiat about diesel power.

This new line of tractors is backed by more than 70 years of diesel engine experience. Fiat engines have been developed to run in areas where fuel economy has been a way of life for years.

This history has led to the development of diesel engines with a world-wide reputation for low running costs and high productivity. Their Omega-profile combustion chambers provide optimum power and fuel efficiency plus high torque reserve for smooth operation.

Mechanical 4-wheel drives. Hesston offers a complete line of 4 wheel drive tractors in the 42 to 160 hp* class. Mechanical 4WD delivers extra efficiency and fuel economy.



Tractor-tough, truck-convenient cabs provide outstanding operator comfort, safety and convenience.

Dekalb swine crossing complex is raised in

BY SHEILA MILLER

REINHOLDS — The most recent addition to the string of Dekalb swine crossing farms scattered across the country has been constructed in Lancaster County.

The 500 sow farrow-to-finish complex was open for public scrutiny yesterday for the first and last time. Once the breeding swine move in next month, the complex will be a closed environment to allow maximum disease control, and visitors will be carefully screened.

The complex, which will be populated with Dekalb foundation stock from Illinois, is owned by a corporation of local farmers and businessmen known as Middle Creek Swine Breeders, Inc. The fourteen-member corporation includes: Ezra Good, Fivepointville, president; Eugene Martin, Reinholds, vice president, Paul Weaver, Farmersville, treasurer; George Christianson, Lebanon, secretary, Leon Hoover, Myerstown; Robert Graybill, Lancaster; James Martin, Lebanon; Robert Martin, Terre Hill; Aaron Horst, Terre Hill; Titus Weaver, Ephrata; Elmer Martin, Ephrata; Dr. Edward Zobian, Reading; Lloyd Good, Denver; and Leon Kurtz, Ephrata.

According to Larry Horst, a spokesman for the corporation, replacement gilts raised at the complex will be ready for placement into local swine herds by July and August of next year. The corporation anticipates marketing 2,500 selected breeding gilts each year.

Only half of the gilts farrowed in the house will be 'earmarked' for potential breeding animals. The final selection of which gilts make the grade will be decided by a representative from Dekalb Swine Breeders, from Dekalb Illinois. All unselected gilts and barrows will be shipped to Hatfield Packing as market hogs.

For every gilt selected by Dekalb as replacement stock, Middle Creek Swine Breeders, Inc. will receive a premium, reported Horst, who added there is a potential market for about 2,000 replacements to meet the needs of local farms.

"Previously, the closest Dekalb crossing farm was located in North Carolina. That meant trucking costs and stress to the hogs," he said. "Now, farmers can buy a local pig and better quality replacement."

Managing the total confinement facility will be the responsbility of a Penn State graduate Lawrey Sayer, a native of Maryland. Sayer is presently managing a 1000 sow Dekalb herd in Kansas.

The complex's building was designed by Dekalb and Farmer Boy Ag, Myerstown. It is their first 'shower-in, shower-out' facility to offer both a men's and women's shower.

Each farrowing room features 20 narrow farrowing crates of European design that provide an 18 inch clearance inside and a bottom rail clearance of 30 inches.

"This design keeps more pigs alive," explained Horst, "because it forces the sow to lie down and get up more slowly — she avoids crushing her pigs."

The crate's design also has the side bars bowed out to allow the sow to lay over completely. This permits her total underline to be exposed to the nursing pigs.

From farrowing to gestation, the breeding swine dine and drink out of concrete troughs. Fresh water flows through the troughs constantly except during feeding. This concept has the advantages of keeping pens drier, requiring less maintenance and wasting less feed, stated Horst.

The sows are fed automatically in the gestation room, but are hand fed in the six farrowing rooms. Those sows that are automatically fed have their own adjustable feed boxes which can be set to dump from 0-7 pounds of feed in front of each sow.

The automatic feeders allow the facility's manager more time to observe the sows. They also reduce the stress and screaming in the herd since all the hogs are fed at once, explained Horst.

Woven wire flooring has been installed in the farrowing rooms and nursery, and in the backs of the pens in the gestation rooms. These woven floors allow manure to drop down into pits which are flushed out continuously.

Middle Creek's manure system is the first of its kind to be installed in a farrowing operation in the East, noted Horst. The Lissco system incorporates an aerated lagoon with a solids separator.

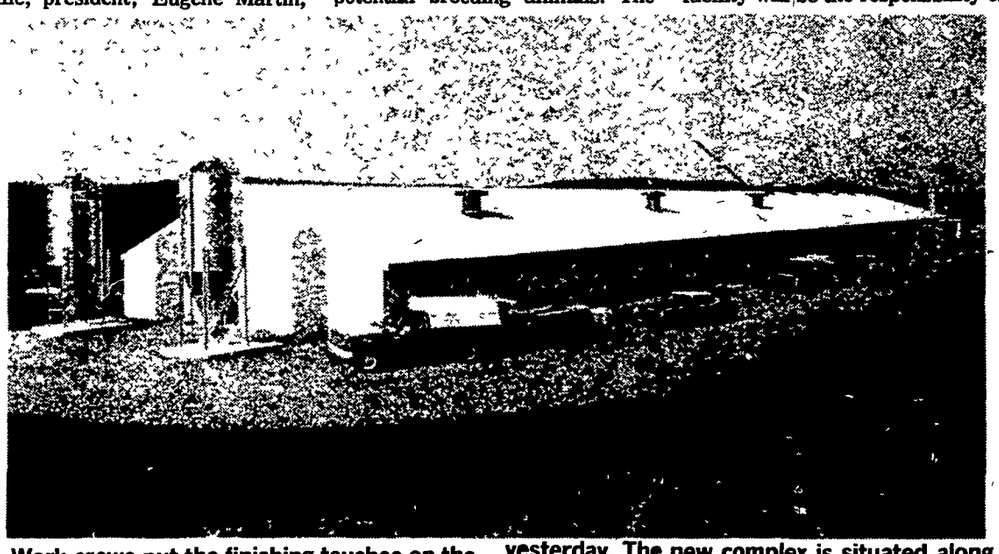
Manure collected in the pits is flushed to the separator where the solids are extracted and the waste water is piped out to the lagoon. The solids will be fed to beef cattle in a corporation member's feedlot, according to Horst who claims it "comes out like silage."

"The manure from the separator is 70 percent moisture. This manure either has to be dried or used within 48 hours. We plan to feed it at 70 percent moisture and add nutrients and protein to the cattle's diets," he said, noting an analysis of 'wastage' measured 14 percent protein.

The waste water that is stored in the lagoon will be irrigated onto cropfields once a year. The rest of the year, daily aeration of the water is claimed to eliminate odor and balance the acids in the waste water, along with stabilizing the nitrogen and neutralizing bacteria.

Before the waste water is sprayed onto the crops, it will be reused to flush the manure pits at the rate of 100,000 gallons a day. Horst claimed there is no problem with recycling disease along with the waste water, and the continuous flow of water through the pits means "no gas, no dust, and no odor."

The lagoon also is the 'catch basin' for excess fresh water that flows through the troughs and the pen wash-down water. This adds up to an additional 20,000 gallons of water per day.



Work crews put the finishing touches on the 500 sow Dekalb crossing complex early this week in preparation for the Middle Creek Swine Breeders, Inc. open house, held yesterday. The new complex is situated along Route 897 in northern Lancaster County, west of Reinholds.

In the 500 sow complex, the pigs are weaned off the sow at 4 weeks of age and moved into the nursery. Then at 9 weeks of age, the pigs are moved to grower pens in a self-contained room where they remain for another 9 weeks before moving to the finishing rooms. When it's time to leave the confines of the complex, the breeding and market hogs are segregated and each move out of separate loading chutes — an added measure to control disease.

This 'no corners cut' complex is totally insulated and utilizes the Fristamat ventilation system for climate control inside the building. The total cost of the building per sow figures out to about $1,500, and the manure system equipment costs come to roughly $20,000.

At full capacity, this new complex will provide about 6,000 Dekalb crossbred swine with a modern home in Lancaster County.

The facility is the first farrowing operation in the East to utilize the Lissco manure handling system. Solids are separated from the manure slurry as it is flushed from the pits — liquids are then piped to this storage lagoon where air is circulated through it to control odors and bacteria.

Strain 19 vaccine provides sufficient brucellosis protection

AMES, Ia. — Adequate protection against brucellosis in cattle, a disease causing abortion and reduced milk production, can be produced with a substantially reduced dosage of Strain 19 vaccine, Science and Education Administration research indicates.

Billy L. Deyoe, SEA veterinary medical officer, found that vaccine doses of 100 million to 10 billion Brucella abortus bacteria provided sufficient protection against brucellosis.

Based on results of the SEA studies the Department's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service and state animal-health regulatory agencies are altering their regulations to permit vaccination with 300 million to 3 billion bacteria instead of the average of 90 billion used previously. Bacteria from the naturally attenuated or weakened Strain 19 are used in the vaccine.

Deyoe, veterinary medical officer Terrance A. Dorsey, and technicians Kathryn A. Meredith and Linda A. Garrett compared results with dosages of 10 million, 100 million, 1 billion, 10 billion, and the former standard rate of 90 billion bacteria. They vaccinated 106 beef heifers as yearlings and 106 Angus-Hereford heifers as 4- to 6-month-old calves.

After vaccination, the heifers were tested for false positive reactions in diagnostic tests for brucellosis. False positive reactions may cause vaccinated animals to be classified as possibly diseased, which may lead to their slaughter.

The intensity and duration of false positive reactions were directly related to vaccine dosage levels, Deyoe says.

In heifers vaccinated as yearlings, the 10-million and 100-million dosages produced false positive reactions at 8 weeks after vaccination and thereafter, but the 1-, 10-, and 90-billion dosages produced consistent or intermittent reactions lasting until immunity was challenged at 8 months after vaccination.

In heifers vaccinated as calves, only 10- and 90-billion dosages produced false positive reactions lasting as long as 12 weeks after vaccination, Deyoe says. All of the heifers vaccinated as calves tested negative when immunity was challenged at 15 months after vaccination.

The heifers' immunity to brucellosis was challenged by inoculating the heifers with virulent B, abortus bacteria.

Levels of immunity produced by the various vaccine dosages differed according to the age of the heifers at vaccination, the researchers found.

In yearling heifers, all vaccine dosages produced significant and indistinguishable levels of immunity. In heifers vaccinated as calves, higher dosages produced higher levels of immunity. The 90-billion and 10-billion dosages gave maximum immunity, the 1-billion and 100-million dosages gave adequate immunity, and the 10-million dosage produced noticeable but less than adequate immunity.

Deyoe says that ideally, different dosages should be given to calves and to yearlings and other animals. Practical considerations may, however, dictate a compromise intermediate dosage for all ages.

LANCASTER — Seventeen-year-old Deb Greider was named the 1981 Lancaster County Dairy Princess in ceremonies held Saturday night at Landis Valley Resort Inn.

In her acceptance immediately following her crowning, she thanked her parents for their support and added, "I pledge to do my best job. I believe strongly in dairying and I will do my best for you."

A senior at Hempfield High School, Deb is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Robert Greider, Columbia R 2.

First Alternate in the contest was Robin Balmer, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Balmer, 1551 Mentzer Road, Lancaster, Robin works full time on her family's dairy farm, and is a 1980 graduate of Lampeter Strasburg High School.

Second Alternate was Debra Hershberger, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hershberger, Quarryville, R4. A senior at Solanco High School, Debra was also chosen as Miss Congeniality, an honor selected by the contestants themselves.

Deb Greider won the judges' approval by a milk promotion radio spot in which she extolled the virtues of milk, saying, "Milk is a miracle. All you need is sun, a cow and good feed to produce milk by the bucketfull. Milk has style and tummy appeal and should never be forgotten at any complete meal." She concluded by saying, "For a mooving experience, drink milk everyday."

In answer to a question posing the imaginary situation in which a friend was on a diet and gave up dairy products entirely, Deb responded, "Milk's too good to skip completely." After giving a run-down on what dairy products a dieter might enjoy, she added, "You need milk even if you are on a diet."

Deb is active in 4-H as a member of the Mountville Community 4-H Club, and Red Rose 4-H Baby Beef Club and the 4-H County Council. Her previous experience as royalty was serving as the Beef Club's senior queen in the 4-H queen contest. She is active in Hempfield Singers, was in Student Council and will serve as a member of the steering committee. Last year she was active in hockey, basketball and track.

The Greiders milk about 125 Holsteins on their dairy farm near Columbia.

Deb was crowned by Connie Balmer, 572 Milway Road, Lititz, who called her own experience, "rewarding and challenging." Connie thanked those who supported her throughout her reign, especially her parents for driving her to meetings and "milking without me."

Her final words were, "What you are is God's gift to you; what you become is your gift to God."

Connie began the evening's program with a milk toast to the dairy industry.

Other contestants included JoAnn Brenneman, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elvin K. Brenneman; Mount Joy R1; Reba Brubaker, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Brubaker, Mount Joy R1; Roberta Myer, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Myer, Quarryville R1; and Karen Schmuck, 18, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Larry Schmuck, Peach Bottom R2.

Master of Ceremonies for the event was Grover Gouker, Jr., of the Dale Carnegie Institute, Lancaster.

Vocal entertainment was provided by the "Vocal Image" barbershop quartet who gave a rendition of the jingle "Milk - The Soft, Soft Drink" as the Dairy Princess contestants delivered cold, frosty glass pitchers of milk to each table prior to the banquet.

The theme for the evening was "Down by the Old Mill Stream," with decorations under the direction of Kathryn Fry. A reception featuring milk punch and cheese snacks preceded the banquet. Linda Kreider was chairman of the reception committee.

Judges for the contest were Mrs. Judy Shade, Huntingdon County dairy farm wife; Harold Bare, Chester County dairyman; and Richard Dennison, Pennsylvania Farmers Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Elvin K. Brenneman served as chairpersons for the program.

Deb will spend the next year promoting dairy products and will represent Lancaster County in the Pennsylvania Dairy Princess contest in September. She said, "I'm very excited. I consider it an honor and think it will be a really good experience."

Weather dampens Seven Valleys farm tour

BY LAURIE DOBROSKY

SEVEN VALLEYS — A cloudy overcast and often rainy day did not stop a number of York Countians from attending the Seven Valleys Farm Tour held here on Saturday.

"To bring farmers together with their urban neighbors," was the purpose of the tour according to Kay Taylor, chairman of the event. The tour was sponsored by the York Farmers Association and a number of ag businesses in the area.

The host farm for the event was that of Lester and Richard Luckenbaugh. The Luckenbaugh's grow a number of crops including wheat, barley, mixed hay, alfalfa, corn and soybeans. The crops are marketed through Poorbaugh Grain in Lancaster.

Lester Luckenbaugh is one of the top crop growers in York County and is a seed corn salesman. He also serves as president of the York Extension Association, past-president of the Spring Grove Lions Club, and past-membership-chairman for the York Farmers' Association.

The Luckenbaugh's barn held various exhibits set up by different ag businesses and local craftsmen. There were food stands serving ice cream and deep-pit roast beef and pork sandwiches, and a petting zoo for the children set up by York County 4-H.

Answering questions from visitors on apple production, is Pennsylvania Apple Queen Heather Staub.

Down home country musical entertainment was provided by State Representative A. Carville (Peck) Foster and his Friday Night Garage Pickers, with a little help on some numbers provided by State Senator Ralph Hess.

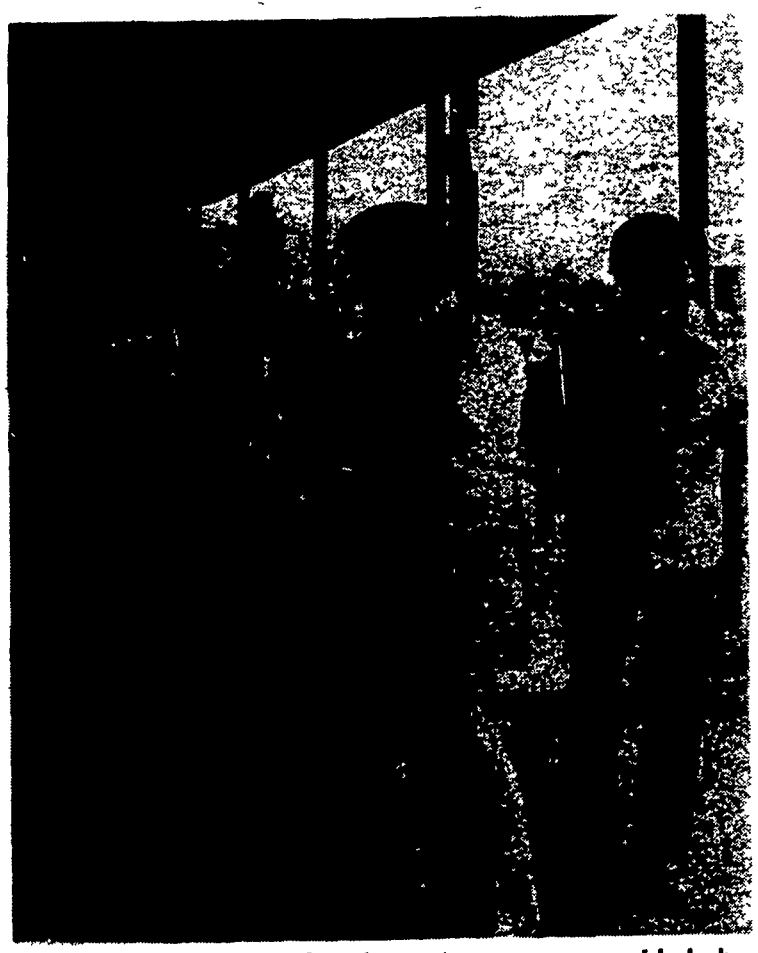
From the Luckenbaugh farm visitors hopped aboard straw-filled wagons pulled by tractors (donated by various local businesses) and were taken to the home of Michael and Donna Lecrone. The Lecrone family has established an orchard over the past five years. It will produce its first crop of apples and peaches this year.

Once the 3,000 trees they have begin producing, the Lecrones said they hope to expand their orchard to include cherries, plums, nectarines, pears, and apricots. The Lecornes will market their crops by the use of "pick your own" and a roadside market. Beehives are kept near the orchard for pollination purposes, and the extra honey is sold.

As the wagons circled the Lecrone farm, Heather Staub from York County, the 1981 Pennsylvania Apple Queen presented a discussion on fruit and apple production, apple markets, tree prices and types of apples. She also spoke on apple tree care, noting "The Lecrone's spray their trees every 3-5 days, and carefully prune and spread the branches on the trees so the apples are easier to pick."

The Lecrones also have a chicken operation that produces 7,200 eggs daily. These are fertilized eggs that are gathered by hand 3 times a day from nest filled with sugar cane.

The Lecrone's use sugar cane because "it can be chopped finer, is more absorbant, and the birds don't pick at it like straw." The eggs gathered from their house are called 'Hubbard-Mix heavy chickens' which are used for broilers, the eggs are sent to Longenecker's hatchery.



Entertainment for the farm tour was provided by Representative A. Carville (Peck) Foster and his group the Friday Night Garage Pickers. Various ag businesses and craftsmen set up exhibits in the barn of Lester Luckenbaugh host for the farm tour.

This farm family also operates a recycling center. The proceeds from the center go to help support OUCH a group formed to protest a proposed chemical dump in the area. They are recycled glass, paper, steel and aluminum at the present time.

"The only thing we don't recycle is plastic," announced Mrs. Lecrone. In the future they hope to include that too.

From the Lecrone farm the wagons travelled to the farm of Nelson and Judy Brenneman. The Brennemans have primarily a dairy farm, which includes about

Adams Fruit Growers hear talks on exports, disease, management

BY M.H. GITT
Staff Correspondent

GARDNERS— People outside of United States describe an American apple as a "big red apple," according to John Rice, sales manager of Rice Fruit Company.

Speaking at the Adams County Fruit Growers Association meeting Wednesday evening, Rice said overseas buyers are looking for premium products, "the fancy and extra fancy grades are what they want, with everything being shipped over in bushel tray packs."

The world's current description of the American apple has evolved because other countries, such as France, are producing good non-red apples such as Golden Delicious. But the soil in those countries can not produce the same high quality red apples as grown in the states, noted Rice.

He went on to explain that a box of apples may sell for $10 in Washington, but the same box would sell for $36 in Taiwan. Since there's no difference in freight costs between shipping small or large apples, the oversea buyers are willing to pay the extra amount for the larger size.

"But don't expect the overseas market to support American apple growers," warned Rice, "because a country could pass a law preventing the importing of apples. This law could be done for economic reasons such as an unfavorable trade balance or to help that country's own apple industry."

On the domestic side, he noted the price of apples have not kept up with the cost of producing the apples. "The fresh market is the only area where prices are going up," said Rice. "The top grades, such as fancy and extra fancy, have been moving the best."

These observations about the domestic front were backed up by Larry Yager, marketing agent from the Penn State Extension Service for south-central Pennsylvania.

"We've had high yields the past years and with that increase in supply, people are looking for the larger sizes and fancy grades. Also consumers have become more discriminating than in the past," explained Yager, "But there is never any trouble in marketing good quality fruit."

In other business, George Hekman, chairman of the Research Committee of the State Horticultural Association of Pennsylvania, told the growers about grants for research approved by the association and the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

The Association had $12,000 budgeted for research projects and, after reviewing the suggestions from growers on what areas needed study, approved the following proposals;

—Research on the association of dandelion and other orchard weeds with tomato ringspot virus-induced diseases in fruit crops; submitted by Richard Stouffer at an estimated cost of $2,000;

—Research on control tactics for the tufted apple budmoth, the most damaging insect pest to Pennsylvania apples, submitted by Larry Hull at an estimated of $4,000;

—Research on the influence of temperature, stage of development and chemical concentration on peach thinning by the use of chemicals; submitted by George Green at an esmated cost of $4,000;

—Research on the evaluation of certain prebloom sprays on bee foraging populations in apple orchards; submitted by Clarence Collison, Extension entomologist at an estimated cost of $2,000.

The Departent of Agriculture granted $22,755 to Stouffer for a research project entitled "An Integrated Management System for the Control of Nematode Transmitted Virus Disease in Pennsylvania." The grant is for the first year of the three year project which will study how nematodes transmit soil born viruses.

Another research project underway was reported by fruit disease expert James Travis. He is currently experimenting to see if cytospora canker can be affected through the use of differing strengths of fungicides without resorting to surgery as is the normal procedure. In his report on conditions in the county, he observed there is a fair amount of apple scab due to the warm wet weather, but the infestations from last year are almost over. The latter will need pruning to stop it from spreading, according to Travis.

In other reports, nutrition expert George Green warned the growers of using too much nitrogen fertilizers on their trees. He pointed out that mature trees don't need as much nitrogen as immature trees. And, by cutting back on the amount used, growers may be able to cut back on the amount of winter pruning. He said the leaf test on peach and nectarine trees have shown excessive amounts of nitrogen and he urged them to run leaf and soil tests in order to help determine the fertility needs for next spring.

Reporting on pests, William Bode, assistant professor of entomology at Penn State, noted the tufted apple budmoth is halfway through its first flight cycle. In past last week, they have had the highest count of budmoths so far this season. Other active insects, Bode noted, were the mites, oriental fruit moths and the lesser peach tree borer.

Before the meeting, members took a walking tour of the Rice & Rice Orchards which has 70 acres of apples, some being grown by the trellis system, and seven acres of pears.

Mark Rice, who conducted the tour, said the problem he has with the trellis, where dwarf and root stocks are planted close together and supported by three wires running the length of the rows, is the lack of vigor he's noted in some trees and over vigor in other trees.

"I'd like my trees tall enough that they can be picked from the ground," noted Mark, adding he uses a training aid to make the tree limbs grow horizontally to bear more fruit.

Mark, a 1978 graduate of Cornell University where he majored in pomology, informed the group that last year, when the trees suffered hail damage as well as rabbit and deer damage, over 70 percent of the apples were graded extra fancy for tray packs. He candidly told the group he hoped they would learn from his successes as well as from his mistakes.

In other business, County Extension Agent Thomas Piper told the group of the state horticultural tour schedule for June 24 and 25 which includes tours of orchards in Maryland and New Jersey. He informed them there would be a vegetable tour July 5, 6, & 7 in York County and announced next month's meeting would be held July 29 — sprayer calibration will be one of the main topics.

40 cows. They ship their milk to Green's Dairy and Holly Milk Cooperative in Mt. Holly Springs. The Brennemans also raise sheep and sell honey produced on the farm. Before the visitors left the Brenneman farm they were each treated to a cold glass of milk provided by Green's Dairy.

The final stop on the tour was Robert and Betty Miller's Yorkshire hog farm. At the Miller farm, visitors were informed by Bill Fleet, Young Farmer Advisor for Dover Area Schools, about the operation.

The Miller's swine have an excellent record of show finishes, with their entries taking the top four placings at the recent Pennsylvania Boar Test Evaluation.

The finishing unit on the Miller farm is unique in that it is environmentally controlled and allows the hogs to be cleaner with more freedom of movement. The Millers produce 400-600 hogs annually, 50 percent of which are used for breeding purposes.

Even though rain dampened the spirit of the day, city cousins who braved the weather to participate in the Seven Valleys Farm Tour left with a better understanding and appreciation for the life led by the farmers and their families.

Kutztown to hold folk festival

KUTZTOWN — Show your car the road, or point your horse toward Kutztown, and indubitably a good time will be waiting at the 32nd Folk Festival to open on Saturday, June 27.

For nine days thereafter, through July 5, the hearty Pennsylvania Dutch will cook up tons of delectables; fashion crafts by the hundreds; dance themselves breathless; sing songs in dialect; and pensively and somberly portray their Plain Dutch neighbors in Amish pageantry!

Since 1949 in this small hamlet between Reading and Allentown, fourth of July week has been set aside to celebrate an American way of life, handed down for centuries.

Here and there on the Commons, where old life-styles and crafts are demonstrated, apple-butter will be made, soap boiled, holes drilled out of posts, wheat threshed, stones crushed, corn shelled, and, of course, kids will jump from the hay wagon.

Folks can linger in the Antique Book Store where "Bumbie" has treasures galore! In Cyrus Hyde's Herb Garden, tours will be arranged four times daily, and down on the Main Stage, the Country Auction will go on every afternoon at 3:45.

For serious students of folk culture, the Seminar Stage will present experts on many phases of Pennsylvania Dutch life — folklore and superstitions, farm and home handicrafts, the many kinds of wood-working, the Mennonite People, etc. Programs run through each afternoon.

Poultry farm features automatic milling

BY DICK ANGLESTEIN

RHEEMS — If it turns unusually hot and muggy overnight, John Wolgemuth can immediately cut his overall poultry feeding ration, but increase the supplement to help maintain egg production.

And, he can do it automatically.

Suppose the time comes in the future that poultry operators will subscribe to the continuing services of a consultant to closely fine-tune feeding rations to improve production.

Wolgemuth will be ready and he'll be able to do it automatically.

What about the future possibility that regulations are legally enacted requiring the exact weighing of rations containing certain medication?

He'll be able to meet that possible requirement. And do it automatically, too.

These are just some of the feeding management options that the Rheems poultry farmer has since installing a Martin Automatic Milling System for his 70,000-bird operation.

The milling system, designed and installed by Ivan Martin, of Martin Distributors Inc., of R1 Lebanon, is the first of its type in this area.

An electro-mechanical process, the system features the automatic programmed preparation of a variety of rations, performing much the same duties on the farm that the large, computerized systems do at feed mills.

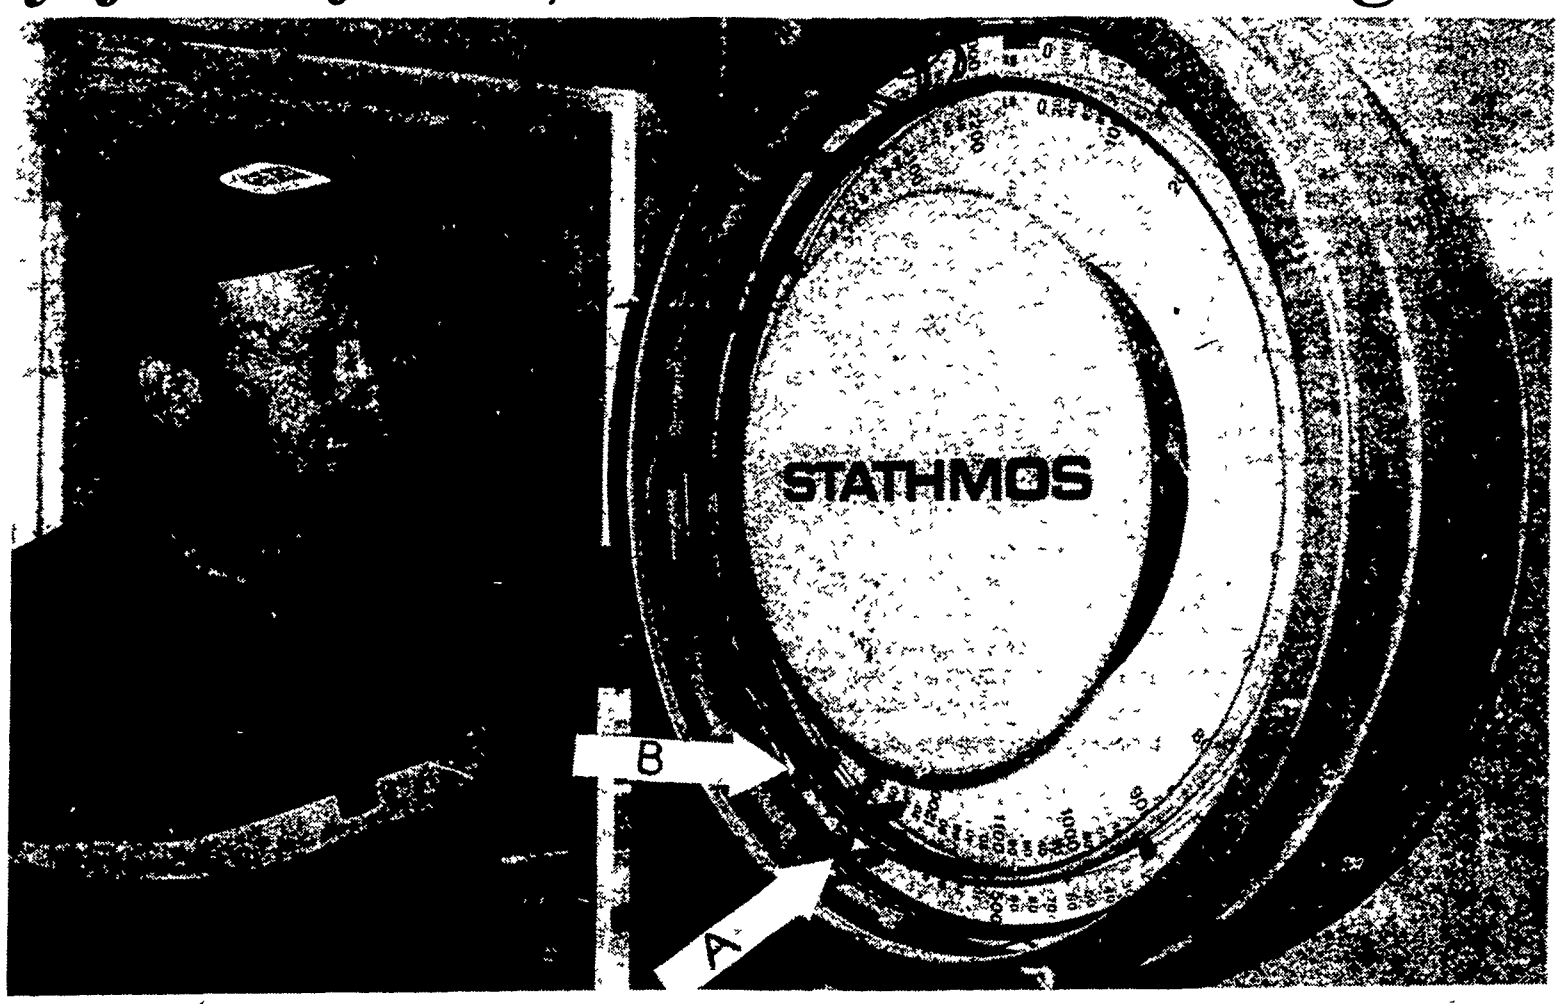
In other words, with the setting of a few dials and the press of a button, the system automatically prepares the programmed ration, selecting the proper ingredients, weighing each accurately, grinding and mixing them and then transporting the feed to the chicken house or other preselected location.

And, in the meantime the poultry operator is free to perform any other duties desired.

The system at the Wolgemuth farm, located just off Rt. 283 at the Rheems exit, is capable of automatically preparing three different rations from eight ingredients.

Full capacity of this type of system is five different programmed rations from up to 12 ingredients, according to Martin.

Wolgemuth explains that he decided on the Martin system for several different reasons.



John Wolgemuth, poultry farmer from Rheems, Lancaster County, examines scale, which measures ingredients by weight in his newly installed automatic milling system. As dial (A) moves around programmed track, exact weight of ingredient is measured for a particular ration. When it reaches read switch (B), the system automatically shuts off one ingredient and starts adding another ingredient. Up to eight ingredients can be included in three different rations programmed into Wolgemuth's system. Overall capacity of this type of system, designed and installed by Ivan Martin, of R1, Lebanon, are five different rations, including up to 12 ingredients.

First, he considers the preparation of a feed ration on a weight basis to be more accurate than on a volume basis.

Next, there's the saving of mixing your own ration over the purchase of a commercial feed.

Finally, there's the management tool of being able to mix exactly what you want when you want it.

"I used a proportioning-type mill for some 15 years when we had just the smaller, 12,000-bird house," Wolgemuth said.

"It took a lot more good management to be accurate when you're working on a volume basis.

"For instance, the test weight of corn could vary anywhere between 50 and 56 lbs., but the volume would stay the same."

Wolgemuth estimates that he's saving about $11 to $15 a ton, as compared to the purchase of a commercial ration.

"I used a commercial ration in the new 60,000-bird house for the first flock last year," he said.

"I wanted to get the feel of the house before going to my own milling system.

"A batch system would have required a three-phase setup and with this I was better able to utilize what was already here.

"It may be considerably slower but being automatic it doesn't require any labor."

Wolgemuth prepares three different rations – one for about 500 hogs and two different for the 70,000 birds – in about four hours. The birds in the large house are fed a concentrate rich in alfalfa meal and oil to produce deeper yolks for eggs that go to a noodle manufacturer. Eggs from the smaller house go to a local processor.

The milling system can also be manually operated to prepare additional rations. Wolgemuth will likely use it to make a steer ration, too.

"Another plus for this system was that I could use the storage I already had," he said.

Wolgemuth has 30,000-bushel corn storage, a limestone tank, and the three separate supplement facilities. Since his system can accomodate up to eight ingredients, he could add storage for ear corn or soybean meal, oats or minerals.

"I believe I handle my corn better than the commercial places," he said.

"Although I'm feeding commercial supplements yet, it gives me the extra option of making my own concentrates in the future."

But in going to the automatic milling system that prepares the ration on a weight basis, Wolgemuth is also looking to the future.

"It's going to become more and more critical in the future to be able to fine-tune your feeding management," he said.

"It's going to become essential to provide the birds with the fortifications they need under conditions that exist at any particular time to meet production goals."

With the milling system, Wolgemuth believes he will be able to better provide this needed ration and be able to change it faster and more accurately.

"When I want to hold consumption to 23 pounds, I only prepare 23 pounds per 100 birds. If the birds are not eating 23 pounds due to the weather, I can increase the concentrate."

The time may come, too, when the mix of ingredients will be changed on a more frequent basis to meet changing needs.

In addition to mixing the three different rations, the system is also programmed to move the feed to its proper location – to either of the poultry houses or to truck loadout for the hog ration.

The system has been designed by Ivan Martin, who also is the distributor of mix mills.

"I started work on such a system because many farmers, particaularly poultry operators, wanted something that measured the ingredients more accuarately," he said.

"That's why we went to the weight basis."

"The weighing is 99.8 percent accurate."

The system prepares feed in one-ton batches. At the Wolgemuth farm, a batch requires about 25 minutes for total preparation.

One of the rations being prepared required 1340 lbs. of corn. The first ingredient is always corn since it comprises the bulk of any ration.

The system weighs the corn for grinding in the hammer mill. As soon as the amount reaches 1340 lbs., a read switch automatically activates the shutoff of the corn and the selection of the concentrate. After 560 lbs. of concentrate is measured into the batch, another read switch shuts it off and the final ingredient of 100 lbs. of limestone is added.

All of the read switches, which cut off one ingredient and start adding another, have automatic backups. If the switch fails, the backup shuts down the entire system and activates an audible alarm.

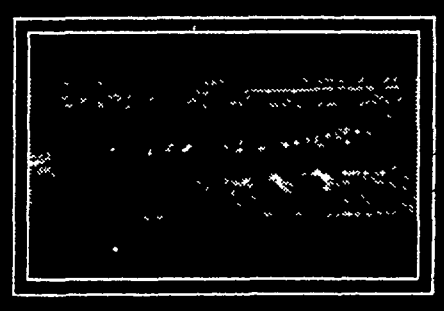
Ivan Martin, designer of automatic milling system, of R1, Lebanon, makes final adjustment in control panel for automatic milling system on Wolgemuth farm.

Massive buildup of corn borers threatens your corn crop.

But Dyfonate Insecticide can save it!



European corn borers can cost up to 50 bushels of corn per acre—25 bushels from first brood and another 25 from second brood

In June, when 50% of your corn plants show feeding, call your aerial applicator to fly on granular Dyfonate 20-G insecticide Later, when ears start to form, check your fields When there are 100 egg masses per 100 plants, fly on Dyfonate

Dyfonate may be used at planting time and again for dependable control of both first and second brood corn borers with no residue problem If another popular soil insecticide were used at planting time? you could be restricted from using it in summer for corn borer.

Don't gamble on a single split application of any insecticide to control rootworms and first brood corn borer Neither the timing nor the application rate lets you accomplish both jobs

The sure way to control corn borers is to attack them with reliable Dyfonate—timed when they hatch Check your cornfields and call your applicator to apply Dyfonate 20-G Follow label directions Stauffer Chemical Company, Agricultural Chemical Division, Westport, CT 06881

Vo-ag feels both cuts and expansion

EPHRATA — While at least two school districts in Lancaster County are expanding their vocational agriculture programs, one is facing severe cutbacks for the coming year.

Expansion is underway at Elizabethtown and Warwick High Schools; while Ephrata faces the loss of one of its four vo-ag instructors due to budgetary problems.

At Elizabethtown, a second vo-ag teacher will be added as a new elective program goes into effect for the coming year.

At Warwick, where a second teacher was added during the past year, the elective program will be continued to be developed.

Both school districts have shown marked increases in vocational agriculture enrollment in response to the elective programs.

At Ephrata, the expected loss of a teacher will mean the elimination of the sixth grade agricultural science program in the elementary schools and a cutback in the Young Farmer program.

A school board meeting to consider final adoption of the Ephrata District budget, which includes the elimination of the vo-ag slot, will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday, June 29, in the Ephrata Junior High School.

The budgetary problems at Ephrata are due to the municipalities in the school district taking their one-half of the one percent wage tax, which previously had gone entirely to the school district.

"During the coming school year, it will mean a loss of $565,000 in revenue," C. Daniel Biemesderfer, superintendent, said.

"Next year, when the full impact is felt, it means the loss of $750,000."

The district's budget, which has already been the subject of board meetings in May and June, calls for the furloughing of some 10 teachers, including the vo-ag post, which has been held during the past year by Christine Adam.

Adam devoted 60 percent of her time to the elementary program and 40 percent to the ninth grade portion of the senior high program

In addition to the elimination of the elementary program, the Ephrata Young Farmer program will require cutbacks since Charles Ackley Jr., of the vo-ag department, will be required to pickup Adam's portion of the ninth grade program.

A total of 142 members are now in the Ephrata Young Farmer program.

"We will try to continue the monthly meetings," Ackley said.

"Farm visits and daytime supervision will be reduced and evening classes will be cut back. The summer schedule will also be reduced in the vo-ag area, including shows, fairs and farm visits."

"We could hardly keep our heads above water before," Ackley said.

"We could have used another person and now we've been cut. The program just won't be nearly as effective.

"It's upsetting to lose people, but it's even more disgusting to see the effect on the vo-ag program.

"We worked hard for so many years to build it up and now to lose it all in one year.

"It's very discouraging. It's like a kick in the teeth."

Al Martin, a 13-year veteran Elizabethtown teacher, will be moving from the Industrial Arts Department to the Vocational Agriculture Department.

He joins William Erikson, who is in his third year at E-Town, and has succeeded in turning around the vo-ag program. Enrollment is more than doubling for next year, increasing from 65 to 135 students.

"Courses will now be offered on a half-year basis," Erikson explains.

"The new elective program will permit students to specialize more and receive detailed instruction in courses of their choice."

New courses to be offered in the program include welding and structures, genetics, wildlife management, swine production, small gas engines, surveying, dairy cattle management, meat production and poultry production.

At Warwick, the elective program will be going into its second year. Enrollment in vo-ag has grown by 50 to 75 percent.

Sonia Shaner moved from Eastern Lancaster County to Warwick during the past year to join Dale Gerber. The elective course expansion will continue with the addition of instruction in greenhouse training, power tractors and animal science. Course begun during thre past year included wildlife management, forestry, ag electric, mechanics, small gas engines, structures, carpentry and small animals.—DA

York County youths top field day

BY DONNA TOMMELLEO

UNIVERSITY PARK — York County was well represented last Saturday as area youths walked away with most of the top honors at Junior Livestock Field Day at Penn State.

Bob Livingston, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Livingston of Dover, York Co., captured the judging contest, which included 2 classes of beef, sheep, swine and meat, finishing in front of more than 180 participants. Livingston also applied his talents in the show ring and was named Grand Champion Beef Showman.

Grand Champion Sheep Showman honors went to Susan Janney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin Janney of Broadbecks, York Co.

The annual event, sponsored by Penn State's Department of Dairy and Animal Science offered various workshops in beef, sheep, swine and carcass evaluations.

"The purpose is to give the youngsters a chance to visit Penn State. They'll have the benefit of the knowledge here," explained Field Day coordinator, James Gallagher.

Vernon Hazlett, swine superintendent demonstrated fitting and showing hogs. At the Meats Laboratory, professors Jim Watkins and John Zeigler spoke on hog carcass evaluation and cutting.

Univesity veterinarian, Dr. Lester Griel presented a movie, "The Birth of a Lamb," at the Beef-Sheep Center. Animal Science professor Thomas Merritt and University shepherd, Dick Kuzemchak urged sheep fanciers to spend ample time when selecting a project lamb. Animal Extension specialist Clair Engle spoke on crossbreeding sheep for increased productivity and profit.

Beef herdsman Don Nichols, conducted a fitting demonstration while livestock Extension specialist Lester Burdette discussed the future of beef projects with Extension agents, Vo-Ag teachers, leaders and parents.

Somerset County 4-H leader, Sandra Baer has been taking her group to the Field Day for the last six years and welcomed the learning experience.

"It breaks the ice for the little ones," she said. "I can advise them but it isn't the same as someone judging them."

Synovex-S implants increase weight gain, protein deposits

BELTSVILLE, Md. — Steers implanted with the estrogen Synovex-S gained 25 percent more weight and 25 percent more protein than steers without this implant, says Science and Education Administration animal scientist Theron S. Rumsey, Ruminant Nutrition Laboratory, Beltsville, Md. Rumsey also tested the effect of adding cement kiln dust — a byproduct of cement — to the steers' diet.

All steers were fed a 50 percent concentrate (primarily corn and soybean) diet. Although Synovex-implanted steers fed 2.5 percent kiln dust gained the most weight, the kiln dust did not play a prominent role. Synovex-implanted steers fed kiln dust gained a daily average of 3.02 pounds while those with only the hormone implants gained 2.91 pounds a day. Nonimplanted steers fed the kiln dust and control steers (no implant, no kiln dust) gained similarly, 2.42 pounds a day

These findings are in contrast to recent work by William Wheeler, a SEA animal scientist at the U.S. Meat Animal Research Center, Clay Center, Nebr. Wheeler found that steers fed a diet with 3.5 percent kiln dust gained 28 percent more weight, and pound for pound required 21 percent less feed, than steers on a 53 percent hay diet without kiln dust. Further study with kiln dust is needed to determine its role in weight gain and to evaluate the different results.

"In our research, the kiln dust seemed to have little effect on weight gain. The Synovex-implanted steers gained weight faster and ate less feed per pound of gain. Perhaps even more important than the weight gain, steers with implants deposited 20 to 25 percent more protein than those without implants," says Rumsey.

Synovex-S has been approved by the Food and Drug Administration for use in cattle, but must be implanted at least 60 days before animals are slaughtered. Steers with these implants convert feed to beef 15 percent more efficiently than those without the Synovex treatment and have higher carcass retention of protein, fat, and minerals.

The mixing is done in an eight-foot-tall tank, which is only 36 inches in diameter. In its center is an eight-inch auger.

"This narrow tank assures more uniform mixing," according to Martin.

"In larger tanks, as on a PTO-operated grinder-mixer, some of the ingredients can be missed in the mixing."

A two-fold mixing operation is featured, including within the tank and the elevation of the ration from the bottom to the top of the tank.

After a five-minute mix cycle, the ration is automatically unloaded and augured to its pre-selected location. The system continues on to prepare another batch.

Feed was sampled from the system and was found to be within about 50 parts per million of uniformity.

The system also features a built-in 10-minute time limit on all operations within the milling cycle. For example, if an ingredient should run out during a cycle or an auger belt tear during unloading, the system would be shut down and the audible alarm activated after the 10-minute time limit for that particular operation.

"We wanted a system that not only weighed ingredients accurately, but that could be serviced by a farm electrician," Martin said.

"With the schematic we provide the system is simple enough to be maintained with such service."

BEAT THE SUMMER HEAT...

SPRINKLER COOLING SYSTEM

(Not Fogger)

FOR HOGS

THE PROBLEM

When the temperature goes up, one of the first ways your body reacts is by breaking out in perspiration. That's nature's way of cooling off.

It's different with hogs. High temperatures cause them a great deal of stress because they can't sweat. When under this stress due to heat, hogs will lose their appetite, weight gains drop, there is poor feed conversion, conception rate is reduced and pens become a mess. All of this adds up to lost profits.

THE SOLUTION:

When the temperature is above 72° F even ventilation can't cure the stress that results. But a sprinkler cooling system can help your hogs where nature fell short, giving them a chance to cool off. It sprays them with coarse water droplets to reduce their body temperature. The idea is simple, but extremely effective.

THE SYSTEM:

The sprinkle cycle is turned on automatically whenever the barn temperature rises above a preset level 72° F. Throughout this "on" period the control functions to permit sprinkling to occur for a preset time period each hour. (2 minutes/hour is recommended for best results.) When the barn temperature drops below 72° F the cycle is automatically interrupted.

Control Panel

The nozzles are clamped to a plastic pipe strung over the gutter of slatted area at the rear of the pen. Each nozzel covers a 5-6 foot diameter area which usually means one nozzle per pen. The nozzle assures a coarse droplet spray pattern which is important for maximum cooling. A fine mist of fog is not desirable in geographical areas of generally high summer relative humidity.

Maryland schedules farm visitation

COLLEGE PARK — A double spotlight will be shining on the Maryland agriculture scene tomorrow as 33 farms on both sides of the Chesapeake Bay open their gates to a nationwide audience.

On that day, twenty-four "Welcome Farms" in nine Maryland counties will host an estimated 25,000 urban youngsters and adults during the fifteenth annual statewide Farm Visitation Day.

Another nine topnotch dairy farms will be showing off their facilities to farm-oriented visitors from throughout North America These visitors represent the vanguard of 2,500 persons expected for the ninety-sixth annual convention of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America. The event runs from Sunday through Thursday at the Baltimore Convention Center.

Both of Sunday's open house events are intended to help promote the farm side of the Maryland slogan, "America in Miniature." Although it is one of the smaller states in geographic area, Maryland's 16,000-plus farms help to feed the majority of the state's citizens without resorting to imports.

The fifteenth annual Farm Visitation Day is again being sponsored by the University of Maryland's Extension Service in cooperation with major farm organizations in the state, and includes the following farms:

In Anne Arundel County, the U S. Naval Academy Dairy, located on Route 175, Gambrills.

In Baltimore County The Hereford High School FFA Animal World at Hereford High School on York Road. The dairy farm of Lewis Swift and son will be open for visitation, the farm is located on 17401 Troyer Road in Monkton.

The Calvert County Young farmers will conduct a tour of general farms and farm animals that will be leaving the Huntingdon Fire House at 1:15 on June 28. Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Worell farm on Ferry Landing Road will have demonstrations of dairy goat operation.

Mill Run farm owned by W.T Biggs and family, on Annapolis Woods Road in Charles County, will be demonstrating hydroponic tomatoes, a green house and swine operations.

Six farms in Frederick County will be open for visitation they include: Shafdon Farm, Burkittsville — Dairy; Merry-Peep O'Day farm in Brunswick — Sheep; Catoctin Mountain Orchard, Thurmont — Orchard; Edmarve Farm, Urbana — Horses; Longview Farm, Graceham — Dairy; and Bullock Farm, Emitsburg — Beef.

In Harford County two dairy and a beef farms will be open. Woolsey Farm, Churchville and Pond View Farm, Norrisville are dairy farms Waffle Hill Farm a beef operation in Churchville will also be open.

In Montgomery County Windolf Farm in Dawsonville a swine farm, Inn Stedd Farm, Poolesville an Orchard, Sam Stiles 9001 Hunt Masters Road in Gaithersburg a dairy farm, and Sam Riggs farm on Laytonsville Road, Olney a beef farm will all be open for visitation.

The Tinner Spies farm, Chapel Road in Easton a vegetable farm and Bountiful Farms, Inc. nine miles South of Easton are to be open in Talbot County for visitors.

Farm visitation in Washington County is scheduled for September 6, 1981 from 1 p.m. - 5 p.m. The following farms will be scheduled for visitation: Lonley Willow Farm in Cavetown a beef dairy farm with a laying flock; Bruce Barr Family, Leitersburg an orchard and Charles Huff farm located between Ringold and Smithsburg and sheep operation.

USDA revokes N.Y. produce firm's license

NEW YORK, N.Y. — N. Merberg and Son Inc., Yonkers, N.Y., has had its produce trading license revoked by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, effective June 8, for failing to pay in full for $373,988 worth of fruits and vegetables the firm purchased.

USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, which licenses produce firms under the Perishable Agricultural Commodities Act, had charged the firm with failing to pay the agreed purchase price for 781 lots of produce purchased between April, 1979 and August, 1979.

Charles Brader, marketing official with AMS, said the firm had requested an oral hearing but later agreed to a decision and order revoking its license.

USDA's Administrative Law Judge Victor W. Palmer ruled that the firm had committed willful, flagrant, and repeated violations of the act.

Under Palmer's order, the firm is ineligible to conduct business subject to the act until June, 1983, and then only if a PACA license is obtained. The firm's officers, directors, and major stockholders — Elliot Merberg, Fred I. Altman, Billie Merberg and the Nathan Merberg estate — may not be employed by or affiliated with any license under the act until June, 1982, and then only if a surety bond is posted and USDA approves.

Under PACA, all interstate traders in fresh and frozen fruits and vegetables must be licensed by USDA. USDA is authorized to suspend or revoke a trader's license for violating the act.

Penn State's Dexter Putnam retires

UNIVERSITY PARK — Dexter N. Putnam, professor of dairy science extension at Penn State, will retire Monday with almost 25 years of service.

Since 1956, Putnam has been responsible for the development and continued operation of electronic data processing of dairy production records through the Pennsylvania Dairy Herd Improvement Association.

Penn State is one of 10 centers throughout the United States that annually processes DHIA production records for more than 3.9 million cows in over 58,000 herds. Eight percent of all DHIA records processed in the National Cooperative Dairy Herd Improvement Program are handled at Penn State.

Dexter Putnam

Putnam is a member of a team of Penn State specialists which enjoys national recognition as a group that helps dairymen solve problems with nutrition, herd health, production, and reproduction.

The retiring professor has been involved in such programs as centralized processing of DHIA records and central testing of DHIA milk samples for fat, protein, and somatic cells.

Through the effort, Putnam and other Extension staff members, 25,000 fewer dairy producers, milking 200,000 less cows, produced 2 billion pounds more milk in 1980 than in 1955. During the same period, production per cow enrolled in DHIA increases by 5,100 pounds and the number of cows enrolled in the program more than doubled.

The retiring Extension specialist has been a regular participant in DHIA Computer Center Workshops and Northeast Training Conferences. He is author of "How Production is Recorded," a section of a college text, Dairy Cattle Breeding, published by J.B. Lippincott Co.

Putnam conducted research with G.A. Bowling, of West Virginia University, that led to the adoption of the Approved Dam Plan, a method for evaluating the genetic worth of Ayrshire cows, and the Selective Registration, a method of evaluating Ayrshire bulls.

He developed the basic form and machine procedures for the Jersey Performance Register, a plan for publishing the performance data for registered Jersey cattle.

A native of Wilson, New Hampshire, Putnam received a bachelor of science degree from the University of New Hampshire and master of science degree from West Virginia University, both in dairy husbandry.

Prior to his appointment to the Penn State faculty, he was involved in production testing for the American Jersey Cattle Club; Extension dairyman at the University of Vermont; administrative assistant for the Ayrshire Breeders Association; instructor at West Virginia University; and communications officer in the U.S. Navy.

In 1973, Putnam was recipient of the Pennsylvania Dairymen's Association Extension Award and in 1978 the Pennsylvania Jersey Cattle Club Award.

He is a member of the American Dairy Science Association, Dairy Shrine, Extension Professors Association, and Epsilon Sigma Phi, Alpha Zeta, and Alpha Gamma Rho fraternities.

Rachel White receives conservation award

Ms. Rachel White of Bridgeville, Del. receives a plaque for her services to soil conservation in Delaware from Casher Evans, chairman of the Conservation Service.

NEWARK, Del. — Mrs. Rachel White of Bridgeville, Del. was recently recognized for her contributions to soil conservation in Sussex County. She was honored for her 27 years of effort in the promotion of stewardship, and her work with young people.

A native of Sussex County, Mrs. White helped to initiate the Ladies Auxiliary of the Delaware Soil Conservation Districts, and served as the first president of a similar organization in the northeast region. She was awarded a plaque by Casher Evans of Selbyville, chairman of the Sussex County Soil Conservation of District.

In addition to her annual efforts in behalf of the soil stewardship week she worked with a number of organizations including the grange, church groups, women's clubs, and town and school libraries, to get the soil stewardship messa[illegible] one also placed literature in doctor's offices and other public waiting rooms.

"I always wanted to tell other people of the value of soil and water," she says. "I felt it was something I was doing that was going to benefit everyone."

Mrs. White retired as president of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Soil Conservation Districts of Delaware, but insists she will always be interested and active in soil stewardship.

Harvesters reporting 80-90 bu. barley

LANCASTER — Combines are back in area fields after more than a half-year of inactivity.

And reports of the yields they've been cutting in barley are quite a bit better than the past few years.

Generally, barley yields have been running about 80 to 90 bushels an acre, according to Dave Martin, of the John J. Hoober feed mill, Gordonville.

"It's been a much better than average barley harvest," Martin said.

"Due to the higher yields we finished buying last week, already."

Ken Garber, of R2 Willow Street, is one of the county growers reporting one of his best barley crops.

"We averaged about 92 bushels on eight acres, which we're putting back in soybeans," he reports.

"Also, it yielded a lot of straw, too. We got 1,010 bales off the eight acres."

With crops in the 80 to 90-bushel range for barley this year, some growers may be nearly doubling yields that have been experienced in the past couple of years.

And as the barley harvest moves into its final stages, attention is turning to the wheat crop.

Wheat harvester concerns may be directed in two primary directions as cutting gets underway within the next week or so.

First, there will be attention centered on how disease may have cut into test weights and yields.

Second, after the wheat is cut, there could be concern about what to do with it.

This week, the Pennsylvania Plant Food and Protectant Society held an educational meeting visit to the Penn State Southeast Research Lab at Landisville.

Elwood Hatley, of the Agronomy Extension Staff, outlined three diseases evident in wheat this year. Wheat leaves have been affected by powdery mildew and Septoria leaf spot, he explained. In addition, the heads of plants have been hit by scab, particularly in fields where wheat follows corn.

The mildew and Septoria moved in earlier than usual in combination and the effects have been worse than normal, he said. The same organism, which causes stalk and ear rot in corn, also causes scab in wheat, he explained. Thus, effects have been worse in fields where wheat follows corn.

The Potomac variety of wheat has some resistance to mildew, it was reported. No varieties are resistant to scab, but some have better tolerance. For scab control, crop rotations with at least a year's break in cereal crops will reduce the incidence as well as plowing to bury crop residues.

The effects of the diseases on the upcoming wheat harvest are expected to vary. Some growers are reporting a 10 to 15 percent infestation of the heads of wheat crops; while others are experiencing up to half of their crop affected.

Test weights and yields are expected to vary significantly, too, depending on individual fields and the hold the diseases may have taken.

As combining moves into the wheat, operators are reminded to check their grain bins frequently. If an abnormally high amount of affected heads are being found, the air flow should be increased to gain maximum cleaning.

And when the wheat is marketed, local growers will have one less outlet this year, with the discontinuance of operations by Lancaster Milling. Particularly if the crop requires drying, growers may experience difficulties in moving the harvested crop and a wheat backup could result.—DA

Sign up for state vegetable tour

YORK — The York County Vegetable Growers will entertain the Pennsylvania Vegetable Growers Association for its annual summer tour of farms on July 6-7, 1981.

Highlights on the tour will be stops at one of the largest independent processors of frozen and canned vegetable products in the eastern United States, and at a locally owned 7,000 acre vegetable farm. Other tours during the two-day event will include family vegetable farm operations and processing and marketing facilities in York County.

Pennsylvania vegetable growers and other interested persons are welcome to attend the event. Costs for the program are $35 if registration is received before June 30. This fee includes the 2 day bus tour, 2 lunches, 1 dinner and all registration fees.

The Annual Vegetable Growers Tour is sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service of Penn State in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Vegetable Grower's Association.

Send registrations to PVGA, Box 28, Dalton, PA 18414.

Present regulations in the state prohibit all infected or exposed swine from being transported within the state or into Pennsylvania without a permit. All breeding swine imported into the Commonwealth need prior permits and numbers which identify the purchaser, where the hogs are going, where they're coming from, the number of swine purchased, and their complete description — including ear tag number, sex, age, breed, registered name and number or ear notch.

For buyers who purchase a large number of out-of-state hogs throughout the year, a blanket or open prior permit can be issued. The stipulation for getting one of these permits is that the buyer agrees to purchase only swine that comply with Pennsylvania's import regulations. This permit is issued for a 12-month period. These buyers still need to have the interstate health certificates for all breeding swine, with complete identification information.

All breeding swine coming into Pennsylvania must be tested pseudorabies negative within 30 days of import or they must come from a pseudorabies free herd. These breeding swine must be isolated for 15-30 days after import and then be retested at the owner's expense. If all swine test negative, they can enter the herd.

If, instead, the swine test positive for pseudorabies, they are placed under quarantine. And, if the isolation and retesting is not done immmediately after the farmer brings the out-of-state hogs home, the entire herd is quarantined. The only way the quarantine is lifted is after two negative retests are obtained during a 15-day period.

Any swine showing a positive test are sent to slaughter and the herd is retested after 30 days at the owner's expense.

Imported and breeding swine that test positive for pseudorabies must go directly to slaughter under permit without any side routes. Feeder swine, raised in the state, can either go directly to slaughter, through an approved slaughter swine auction, or into a quarantined feedlot.

Imported breeding swine and feeder swine do not need a pseudorabies test if they are: kept separate during transport (a state and federal requirement); have interstate health certificates with individual identification and point of origin; and are from a state that requires all pseudorabies positive tested swine to be quarantined.

No swine that have been vaccinated for pseudorabies are allowed entry into Pennsylvania. And, any exhibition swine taken out of state must be isolated on their return and retested in 15 to 30 days — unless all the swine at the event were tested and negative within 30 days prior to the show.

In Pennsylvania to date, there have been 63 herds infected with pseudorabies since its outbreak in Pennsylvania in January, 1980. Currently there are 47 herds under quarantine, with 45 of those herds being located in Lancaster County.

A recent survey in a 50 square mile area in the northern part of Lancaster County identified 22 infected herds in addition to the previous 25 quarantined herds in the state. The survey tested a total of 207 herds, and 2,197 hogs were bled.

Since the outbreak began a year and a half ago, 16 herds have been released from quarantine after depopulating.

According to Dr. Max Van Buskirk, chief veterinarian of the state's Bureau of Animal Industry, the proposed pilot program would require testing of every hog in the infected area. This program, he estimated, would not get underway for at least six to eight months pending federal funding and other constraints. He, too, expressed optimism that Pennsylvania is competitive with other states for funding.

Since the completion of the Lancaster County survey, Van Buskirk has submitted policy changes to Secretary Hallowell for the Department head's consideration concerning swine movement within Pennsylvania and from other states.

"Pennsylvania cannot unilaterally limit imports to pseudorabies free hogs — we need federal support," he said. "We're hoping to write regulations that are effective, not burdensome. The trouble is what the financial impact will be on the farmer with only a few pigs.

"Certifying the baby pigs as pseudorabies free will be a significant cost to the small farmer, whereas it is not unreasonable for the commercial hog producer.

"Writing regulations is easy — it's control that's tough," Van Buskirk remarked.

One of the major problems in regulation control is identification. If there are going to be regulations to control movement of swine, there has to be a method of tracing that movement and proving those positive pigs came from a certain herd.

"Something is needed to tie the pigs to their health statement," Van Buskirk observed, admitting ear tags are not necessarily the solution since they don't stay on the pigs. "Ear tags make the pigs' ears sore, so the farmer cuts the small tags out or the hogs rub them off," he said. "They're not effective for long."

Van Buskirk suggested ear notching, tatooing or branding might be feasible alternatives in identifying pigs. "I'd like to see all pigs tatooed — preferably in the ear, but they could be tatooed in the flank area. Tatooing is an effective identification that is not easily tampered with if done properly."

Speaking for the Pennsylvania Swine Breeders Cooperative, President Dennis Grumbine echoed Van Buskirk's cry for more uniform pseudorabies control on the federal level.

"The federal government needs to outline regulations that are good for every state — and everybody must participate," Grumbine stated emphatically. "Our U.S. Secretary of Agriculture is a hog producer who knows our disease problems. He could have enacted legislation, but he sat on his hands."

Grumbine stressed the need for all hog producers to get involved, stating "I can't believe how many hog producers are ignoring the problem. Their negative attitude shocks and disturbs me."

Referring to the situation in Lancaster County, Grumbine said some of the farmers are refusing to depopulate. He pointed out the key to controlling pseudorabies is depopulating.

Grumbine said purebred swine breeders are willing to do anything to get rid of the stigma surrounding swine in southeastern Pennsylvania these days. However, he noted, the problem with pseudorabies isn't in the purebred herds since they are already required to blood test.

One way of curtailing the spread of pseudorabies in the state, said Grumbine, is to allow no more swine to be imported into the state. This would benefit Pennsylvania swine breeders, he said.

Grumbine questioned the effectiveness of writing regulations for commercial hog producers because of the difficulty of policing them.

"Out in the Midwest, there are check stations on all the main arteries travelled by the truckers. There's none in Pennsylvania. Here you can almost walk a boar from one farm to the next," he mused. "So, all their regulations end up in the purebred breeder's lap. Here their regulations can be enforced simply while feeder pigs keep running up and down the coast.

"Considering what it costs daily to buy the hogs and what it costs to slaughter them, compared to what we get when we sell the meat, Penn Packing couldn't continue to operate.

"We're closed indefinitely until economic conditions might change to warrant reopening."

Among the financial troubles cited by Lipoff were its labor costs in the slaughter and cutting processes. Penn Packing did no further processing operations.

"Our base rate for employees is $9.06 an hour," he said.

"To that must be added between $4.50 and $5.00 in fringe benefits."

He denied that the firm was experiencing any higher absentee rate among employees than others in the packing industry.

One report listed absenteeism at about 10 percent, though.

Penn Packing has a work force of about 600 employees. During the past peak season, slaughter had been running about 30,000 or 31,000 head a week from September to March. The firm had been operating five days a week and some Saturdays.

Recently before closing, kills had been cut back to four days a week.

Besides the station at Ephrata, Penn Packing had received hogs in Delaware, Maryland and Illinois. A large number of hogs had been trucked in from the Midwest.

During the last week of operations, a large number of these Midwest hogs died in the high temperatures and humidity on Tuesday, June 16.

Reportedly, 500 or more hogs died when a convoy of some 10 trucks arrived at Penn Packing and became backed up

Despite efforts to hose them down and keep them cool, the high death toll resulted.

The incident had no effect on the decision to cease operations, according to Lipoff. The loss was that of the truckers, not Penn, he said.

Until the marketing situation stabilizes, the total impact of the Penn Packing closing will not be known.

But hog auctions in Lancaster County already saw an increase in the number of head consigned this week. Some were up about 400 head.

The question of auction price quotes has arisen several times in contacts with both buyers and farmers. Some claim that lower prices are being dropped off the quotes.

Thus if the lower prices are dropped off auction reports, it serves to "inflate" the price range that is actually paid for hogs on any given day.

Also, it was reported that efforts had been attempted by the auctions to secure prompt, daily payments from buyers since the auctions make payments to consigning farmers on the day of the sale. But it was reported that such efforts were abandoned by some auctions when buyers let it be known that they favor the traditional several days lag time in making payment to the auctions.

And thus as the rhyme goes:

"This little piggy went to market.

"And this little piggy stayed at home."

Still to be seen are how they will continue to go to market and when.

And hopefully, as many farmers explain, the pigs won't be staying home too long, eating unnecessary feed and putting on excess fat.

FEC denies

North Dakota co-op, calling for indirect member solicitation.

Krzyminski explained Land 'O Lakes defended, their (Land 'O Lakes) request by claiming individuals in locals had a greater overall influence or a more direct relationship with Land 'O Lakes.

The large co-op also argued that under federal labor regulations, a federated labor assocation can solicit from members of local unions, a point that had not surfaced at the Midstate hearing, said Krzyminski.

Currently an advisory committee to the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives is preparing a draft for a petition to amend the regulation. However due to a "cumbersome regulatory process," explained Krzyminski, it may be another six months before legislative wheels move in the direction of a change.

"But the commercial producer cares less about disease control and seed stock. The purebred breeder, who's in the minority, pays the penalty. When you're trying to market animals for between $1,000 and $5,000, you have to depopulate or never sell another hog. You have to maintain your credibility.

"I suppose it's going to have to hurt everyone's pocketbook more than it is now before the state's pseudorabies problem will be solved," Grumbine concluded.

Five compete for Horse Queen title

LITITZ — Five young ladies representing eastern Pennsylvania are putting their riding skills to the test this weekend as they compete for the title of Keystone Quarter Horse Association Queen.

Participating in special riding competitions which are part of the annual KQHA three day spring show to be held at Lower Hopewell Farm, near Lititz, in Lancaster County, the girls will be judged on their horsemanship as well as their appearance and personality. They are also required to compete in a written test quizzing their knowledge of the horse world.

Contestants for the royal title include: Robin Remington, 19, R1 Coplay, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Remington; Donna Fenza, 19, R4 Glen Mills, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fenza; Robin Weatherby, 19, Middletown, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Weatherby; Kim Burrell, 18, R2 Orefield, the daughter of Carol Burrell; and Tamara Woitas, 18, Mullica Hill, N.J., the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gunther Woitas.

Winner of the queen contest, announced on Sunday, will go on to compete for the title of American Quarter Horse Queen at the national Congress to be held this October in Ohio.

P & S fines N.J. livestock dealer $1025

INDIAN MILLS, N.J. — Terry W. Harker, Indian Mills, N.J., has been fined $1,025 by the U.S. District Court in Newark for operating without an adequate bond or registration as required by the Packers and Stockyards Act, administered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Harker, who is now properly registered and bonded, operates as a dealer buying and selling livestock in commerce in New England, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

James L. Smith, P&S official, said dealers and market agencies buying and selling livestock in commerce have to register with USDA and file an adequate bond to secure their livestock obligations.

The P&S Act is a fair trade practices law administered by USDA's Agricultural Market Service. It promotes fair and open competition in the marketing of livestock, meat and poultry.

Congress provides supplemental funds for brucellosis indemnity

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The U.S. Congress has provided supplemental funds to restore brucellosis indemnities to pre-May 1 levels — when shortage necessitated a 20 percent reduction, a U.S. Department of Agriculture official said.

Paul Becton, director of the national brucellosis eradication program for USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, said the restoring of full-rate indemnity is retroactive. Supplemental claims are being prepared for the farmers who were paid at the reduced rates.

Restoring full-rate indemnity means USDA will pay 88.5 percent of the average cost of replacing reactor animals, less the average slaughter price or salvage value received, Becton said. For non-registered beef animals, the restored rate will be $62 per head. Indemnity payments for non-registered dairy animals vary from state to state.

Within maximum limits, indemnity for registered animals is based on 88.5 percent of appraised value less the actual price paid at slaughter.

Becton said the Congressional action also allows the resuming of certain other activities halted because of the funding shortage. For instances, veterinary officials in states with low infection and in states with stepped-up eradication programs may again authorize indemnity for entire herds sent to slaughter because of chronic or heavy brucellosis infection.

Also, the additional funds will assure continued use of private veterinarians for testing and calf vaccination in certain areas considered critical because of high infection levels. This includes testing cattle at first points of assembly in the marketing chain—called first-point testing. Such critical supplies as vaccine can also be bought with the supplemental funds.

Cattle brucellosis is at a low level nationally, Becton said. Several states are at or near the zero infection level, including: Alaska, Connecticut, Delaware, Hawaii, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Rhode Island, South Carolina, West Virginia and Vermont.

States with relatively high infection levels include: Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, Oklahoma, Tennessee, and Texas. Of these, Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Kentucky, and Tennessee have stepped-up programs. All other states have low to moderate levels of infection.

Brucellosis, sometimes called Bang's disease or contagious abortion, is an infectious bacterial disease of cattle, swine and other animals that may be transmitted from animals to humans—especially those in contact with infected animals. Raw—unpasteurized—milk is also a source of human infection, often referred to as undulant fever.

Dairy farmers to vote in Order 2

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Dairy farmers will be voting in an upcoming referendum on the amended New York-New Jersey milk marketing orders (Federal Order No. 2). The mail referendum, ending at midnight, Wednesday, July 22, 1981, will be on the amended order issued on June 22, 1981 by the United States Department of Agriculture.

N.K. Garber, Assistant Market Administrator, who was named as referendum agent, said all dairy farmers who delivered milk to pool plants and bulk tank units in February, 1981 will be eligible to vote either collectively through their cooperative or, in the case of non-members, by individual ballots.

He stated that failure to approve the amended order would result in termination of the New York-New Jersey milk marketing orders. A two-thirds yes vote of those casting ballots is necessary for approval.

The proposed amended order changes the transportation differential, applied to Class I and uniform prices, from the current 1.8 cents to 2.2 cents for each 10-mile zone closer than the 201-210 mile zone from New York City.

The transportation differential remains unchanged at 1.5 cents for each 10-mile zone further than the 201-210 mile zone. The present 15-cent direct delivery differential would be changed to a 15-cent fixed differential applied to Class I and uniform prices. The hauling deduction, authorized by the producer, would change from a maximum of 15 cents per hundredweight to the actual cost of farm-to-first plant hauling, less the 15-cent bulk transportation credit, and less any amount that the class use value of the milk at the plant exceeds the class use value at the bulk tank unit.

Ballots and final decisions will be mailed shortly. Garber urged all eligible producers who are not members of a cooperative voting collectively and who do not receive referendum material to write to the Referendum Agent at 208 East 43rd Street, New York, New York 10017

NEMA hears call for 16 million birds to move over normal flow

PORTLAND, MAINE — Directors of Northeast Egg Marketing Association meeting here last week, heard Maurice Pickler of National Egg Company present an analysis of the current egg marketing picture that calls for maximum effort by egg producers to bring flock numbers down.

Speaking on the topic "UEP's Plan For Economic Recovery", Pickler told his audience the hatch line heat charts will dip to it's lowest in August but will have no effect on the market before another six months.

Squarely before the industry, he said, is the problem of coping with the fact that molting has been attached as standard management practice countrywide. Molting has nullified the effect of reduced hatch. The need is to move about 16 million old birds to market above and beyond normal flow if the industry is to move back into the black.

Reporting that NEMA does enjoy a good financial position currently, the organization's officers and directors agreed anticipated further tough times in the industry calls for frugal planning and effective spending by every organization that serves egg producers.

Continuing that theme, Bob Park treasurer of American Egg Board, pointed out that UEB had opted for a two month moratorium on assessments to achieve some immediate producer relief and that allocations for fall TV use would be reviewed at an upcoming meeting of AEB in Denver. Some of NEMA's board members said they felt while AEB might resurvey emphasis on certain themes and programs, any move to broadly curtail promotion activity would harm the industry.

As one NEMA director put it, "I do not see promotion as an optional thing. It is as necessary to our business as grading machines".

A highlight of this portion of the meeting came when Valerie Heine, AEB coordinator for the northeast told the group "bad times call for extra effort to get in there and promote. We have the programs, I have the enthusiasm, together we will get it done".

NEMA's president, John Ricca, reported there is still hope that the New England fowl marketing project, built around the complex at Clinton, Massachusetts, can get into gear. There are questions about financial involvement that must be carefully reviewed before any commitments are undertaken.

Meanwhile the group decided that while the Massachusetts project should be pursued, there is merit in exploring any interest the Maine Industrial Authority might have in setting up a study of fowl processing needs in the northeast region.

The board gave firm direction to Chris Bushway to immediately file a petition with USDA seeking an increase in the chicken meat content of chicken soup above its current two percent minimum. Chris said she sees this as a feasible project and that enlistment of consumer groups to help egg producers in this drive is crucial.

Greg Murch, vice president of United Egg Producers, reminded the group that national eff price study committee's negotiations with Urner-Barry are moving ahead. UEP's marketing task force is in the midst of studies of egg marketing systems around the world and in the United States. Murch said he sees the reorganization of USDA away from a functional basis and over to a commodity basis as a plus for egg producers.

Spirited discussion on the matter of quota systems, production controls, marketing orders, etc. surfaced at the session. This culminated in a motion that NEMA's delegates to UEP support the efforts of National Egg Company to seek marketing orders fcor the egg industry.

A motion was approved reiterating the need for UEP to search for a mechanism that will allow transition from cash to accruel accounting with provision for forgiveness (on liable taxes by the Internal Revenue Service) in the egg industry. The board called for UEP to immediately explore the possibility of governmental action to prohibit foreign investment in the egg industry.

A site in the Catskills area will be selected for NEMA's annual meeting in November.

Swine numbers show slight change

HARRISBURG — There were 920,000 hogs and pigs on Pennsylvania farms on June 1, 1981, according to the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service. This inventory was the same as June 1, 1980, but down six percent from December 1, 1980.

Breeding stock at 110,000 was down 17 percent from last year but market hogs at 810,000 were up three percent. The spring pig crop (December '80-May '81) of 664,000 was up two percent from last year's spring pig crop.

There were 83,000 sows farrowed with an average of 8.0 pigs per litter. Keystone farmers intended to farrow 72,000 sows during the fall of 1981, down 15 percent from 1980 and down one percent from 1970.

Nationally, inventory of hogs and pigs was estimated at 59.7 million head, eight percent below both a year ago and 1979, but eight percent above June 1978. Breeding inventory at 8.36 million head was 12 percent less than a year ago and 19 percent below two years ago.

Market hog inventory at 51.4 million head was eight percent less than last year and six percent less than in 1979. U.S hog producers intend to farrow 6.05 million sows during the June-November period, a decrease of 11 percent from the same period in 1980 and 17 percent below 1979.

Holstein Assn. reports big year

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. — The national Holstein Association, the nation's largest breed organization, reports it had a year in 1980 unlike any other in its history.

Located here, the Association implemented a number of major expansion programs last year including a major step forward in the computerization of the organization. And, at the same time, the Association had a dramatic increase in the number of purebred cattle registered.

"While expenses increased, it is significant that for the first year in many years, income grew faster than did expense," Executive Secretary Zane Akins said of the Association's financial year. Akins said he believes that the more critical the economic crunch, the more need farmers will have to use the Association's services. Therefore it has to grow to meet those needs.

The Holstein Association now has files on more than twelve million cattle, including lineage, and performance records. In 1980, more than 350,000 transfers were registered — a record year, Akins said. New totals were set for animals registered and identified, herds classified, new members enrolled and corrective mating programs completed.

Last year, the southern Vermont headquarters branched out across the country. Five new regional offices, each with its own manager and staff of consultants and specialists, were organized to offer better coordination of the field services. The new offices are in Fresno, CA; Kansas City, MO; Eau Claire, WI; Shelbyville, KY; and Harrisburg.

"We are now closer to the centers of the cattle population," Akins said.

While the Association is moving closer to the cattle centers in the United States, its marketing efforts are branching out to all parts of the world. The Association has exported purebred cattle to more than 50 countries. Last year the Association was invited to present a Holstein exhibit at the first U.S. National Economic and Trade Exhibition in Beijing, China, where Chinese dairy producers became acquainted with the genetic qualities of the U.S. Holstein cow. The exhibition provided the initial step toward establishing a relationship between the Chinese people and U.S. dairy cooperators.

Technical assistance programs were signed in a half dozen countries in Europe and South America with further prospects likely in 1981, Akins reported. The dairy cattle breeding and management skills programs are geared for three to five years of assistance. A breeding and management program in Hungary, for example, has more than doubled milk production and made the country self-sufficient in dairy products.

"And this organization did it," Akins said.

U.S. Holstein breeders who sell to private and state farms throughout the world often use the Holstein Association as the agent to transact the sales. The cattle are actually shipped through Holstein-Friesian Services Inc., a subsidiary of the Association. The company acts as an agent between the member and buyer, making all the arrangements for the shipment of the animals. In early January, two 747's filled with 750 cattle were shipped to Chile, Akins cited as an example of the service.

Walker asks EPA to study dump site

WASHINGTON, D.C. — In a letter to Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) Administrator, Anne M. Gorsuch, Congressman Bob Walker, Lancaster County, requested that no action be taken to license IU Conversion Systems Inc.'s proposed hazardous waste dump site in Narvon, until a full Environmental Impact Statement has been completed and "without adequate opportunity for public hearing at which time my constituents and I might convey our concerns to the appropriate authorities."

"Inasmuch as the Environmental Protection Agency has federal jurisdiction over such matters I am taking this opportunity to call this situation to your immediate attention and to request your careful review," Walker said in his letter.

Walker says the agreement by EPA officials to conduct such a study would most likely involve many months of research and would likely prohibit any further action by IU Conversion Systems until the investigation was completed.

The 16th District Congressman contacted EPA on behalf of several hundred constituents who have expressed grave concerns about the proposed establishment of a hazardous waste site in their community.

"Officials of the three townships involved, Caernarvon, East Earl, and Salisbury, have indicated that their zoning boards are not likely to grant IU Conversion Systems' request to relocate its present waste treatment and disposal facility at Lanchester to the Narvon mine site, approximately two miles away. Subsequently, the company officials announced their intention to take the matter into court," Walker explained in his letter to Gorsuch.

"Such blatant disrespect for local decision-making officials is highly objectionable in my view, particularly when the health and safety of area residents appears to be threatened. There is a great deal of controversy about this situation in Narvon and surrounding communities and I find the attitude of IU Conversions Systems to be extremely disturbing," he charged.

"The continued health and safety of area residents is of the utmost concern to me," Walker's letter stated in summation, "and your cooperation in assuring that health and safety standards are maintained will be extremely helpful."

USDA offers grain weighing service at export

NEW YORK, N.Y. — On June 8, U.S. Department of Agriculture grain inspectors started to provide a new supervision of weighing service on request for grain coming into export elevators at port locations.

The service—Class Y—is available on request for inbound rail, truck and intra-company barge receipts and outbound domestic shipments of grain, said Kenneth A. Gilles, administrator of USDA's Federal Grain Inspection Service. The service is also available at interior locations.

Class Y weighing is limited supervision of elevator employees who weigh grain that is excempt from official weighing.

Official weighing—Class X—by USDA or delegated states, will still be required for all export grain shipped from export elevators and inbound inter-company barge receipts.

Gilles said the action follows legislation which eliminated the requirement for mandatory weighing or most grain coming into export elevators.

"The legislation resulted in a void in the kind of weighing services available at export elevators," Gilles said. "With this action, we will be able to provide a weighing service where and when needed by the grain elevators."

Gilles said members of several trade groups and managers of export elevators have asked FGIS to provide the Class Y service.

Charges for the Class Y weighing service at export locations will be $5 per barge; $1 each for boxcars, hopper cars and each car in a unit train; and 50-cents each for trucks or trailers.

Charges for Class Y services at all other locations will be $10 for barges, $3.50 each for boxcars, hopper cars and each car of a unit train, and $2.50 each for trucks or trailers.

Gilles said USDA can provide Class Y weighing at less cost at export elevators because, in many cases, trained employees will already be on hand at those locations performing official inspection and weighing services for grain going into export.

Requests for Class Y weighing services must be made for a minimum of three months for all truck, rail car and barge shipments at either export or interior locations, or for selected individual unit trains.

New addition to 'People on Farm' series available from USDA

"People on the Farm: Raising Beef Cattle," is the latest in a series of slide and filmstrip presentations about farm people now available from the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The 129-frame, 16-minute presentation shows how the Gene Ritschard family of Kremmling, Colo., and the Herbert Schutte family of Kahoka, Mo., raise and tend beef cattle.

"People on the Farm. Raising Beef Cattle" may be purchased from USDA for $21.50 as a filmstrip or $29.50 as a slide set. The prices include one copy of an illustrated narrative guide, one copy of a companion publication and a cassette soundtrack. The cassette has inaudible 50 Hz and 1,000 Hz pulses for automatic slide changing with the proper equipment.

This presentation is the fifth in the "People on the Farm" series of slide sets and filmstrips. Others are "Dairying," "Broiler Growing," "Corn and Hog Farming" and "Growing Oranges."

USDA prepares the sets to aid urban students and others who are unfamiliar with farming operations.

Order the slide sets and filmstrips from: Photography Center, Office of Governmental and Public Affairs, USDA, Washington, D.C., 20250, phone (202) 447-6633.

Woodbine Farm strikes deal

AIRVILLE — After years of interest and much discussion, Woodbine Farm recently sold half interest in their All-American Aged Cow, Northcroft Ella Elevation and her full sister, Marlu Elevation Eleanor to Romandale Farms Ltd. of Ontario, Canada.

However, both animals will remain at the George Knight farm in southeastern York County.

"We just wouldn't sell her (Ella) if she was going any place else," said George Knight III.

Knight explained the settlement will allow Woodbine Farm to expand their market.

"They (Romandale) have a lot more choices available for sales," he said.

Both parties will share in the decision making regarding Ella's breeding and are expected to discuss many different combinations of bulls.

Although Ella's most recent record of 44,143M and 1,698F is something short of phenomenal her true value lies in her progeny.

"Any offspring will be equally shared in one way or another," explained Mrs. George Knight.

Presently bred to Canadian Bull Count Christopher, Ella is expected to freshen this fall. The Knight-Romandale plans for next year include flushing.—DT

York County's Woodbine Farm recently sold half interest of Northcroft Ella Elevation, the 1980 All-American Aged Cow by unanimous choice, to Romandale Farms Ltd. of Ontari Canada.

USDA studies extent of new corn pest

BELTSVILLE, Md. — USDA's Science and Education Administration has allocated $110,000 to determine the extent and seriousness of the infestation of a new corn pest recently found in Maryland.

The funding from SEA Agricultural Research will support studies on the small, wormlike, corn cyst nematode by the Nematology Laboratory at Beltsville Agricultural Research Center, in cooperation with the University of Maryland.

Although the corn cyst nematode is considered to be an economically important problem in India, the susceptibility of U.S. corn and other crops is unknown. The funds will be used to determine the threat to U.S. crops. In Egypt and India, barley and sorghum are affected, as well as corn.

The first identification of the corn cyst nematode in the Western Hemisphere was made by Morgan Golden, curator of the USDA Nematode Collection. Golden found the nematode in samples brought to him in March by Lorin Krusberg and Sandra Sardanelli, both at the University of Maryland. The soil samples, part of a routine survey of Maryland soils, were taken from a Kent County corn field.

The corn cyst nematode is similar to two other closely related nematodes in its physical characteristics and type of plant damage. These are the soybean cyst nematode and the sugarbeet cyst nematode, both of which cause extensive damage to crops in the United States. Research plans include improving the description of the corn cyst nematode to make identifcation easier, and evaluating the threat of this nematode to U.S. corn and small grain production, said R.V. Rebois, head of the Nematology Laboratory.

The corn cyst nematode and other cyst-forming nematodes damage crops by feeding on plant roots, seriously weakening the plants. Also, enlargement of specialized cells and cell wall destruction in the area of the nematodes' feeding causes a blockage that prevents nutrients from reaching roots and leaves.

USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service did not quarantine Maryland's soil, since the extent of the corn cyst nematode's infestation in Maryland and in other states is unknown. In Maryland, farmers are voluntarily restricting the transport of soil and equipment from infested areas.

"Once the corn cyst nematode becomes established in the soil, eradication is almost impossible," said Golden. Some of the nematode's eggs are protected by a hardened sac, or cyst, made from the female nematode's body. In this form the eggs remain alive in the soil for several years. Planting a non-susceptible crop in an infested field may help reduce the numbers of nematodes that remain in the soil.

Since nematodes are small (1/30th of an inch) identification is impossible without the use of microscope slides and high magnification, according to Golden. Plants that are severely infected with nematodes are stunted and have narrowed, yellowish leaves. Farmers who suspect these symptoms are caused by a corn cyst nematode infestation in their fields, should take a sample of soil and roots to a local agricultural extension agent.

Farm Business News

To cultivate or not; that is the question

LANCASTER — The value or necessity of cultivation when row-crop plants are well established and growing depends on soil characteristics and whether weeds are present. Each year unnecessary cultivation takes place - perhaps more out of habit than anything. Year-to-year conditions vary and a yield advantage due to cultivation one year does not mean cultivation will pay the next.

Early cultivation may be necessary to incorporate a pesticide into the soil or to loosen a soil crust to encourage seedling emergence. Failure of herbicides to control weeds is sometimes best corrected by mechanical cultivation. Growers who band-apply a herbicide over the row must cultivate to get weeds between the treated rows. All of these are timed early - before the crop emerges or while it is still small.

Later cultivation is definitely required if weeds come on and a postemerge herbicide will not be used. "Lay-by" applications of an insecticide to control rootworm larvae in corn requires cultivation for incorporation. Side-dress fertilizers are often more effective if covered by soil. Side-dressing with anhydrous ammonia is a cultivation of sorts. Furrowing for irrigation is an essential cultivation practice for that type of water application.

But what about the situation where the crop is several inches tall, there is no chemical to be incorporated and no weed problem exists? This is when characteristics of the soil must be considered.

Cultivation will probably pay on those soils that tend to compact or develop a thick, hard crust. The primary benefit appears to be increased water infiltration. Ideally, one cultivation will be sufficient, but if hard rain or water application causes another crusting situation before the crop plant canopy is well-developed, additional passes may be necessary.

Cultivation to "aerate" the roots probably is not valid. A three-year Ohio State study indicates that soil crusts do not hinder air movement to and around the roots. The study did indicate as much as 25 percent corn yield improvement resulting from cultivation of weed-free "crusting type" soil. Roots were better distributed between cultivated rows.

University of Illinois scientists evaluated cultivation vs. herbicides for weed control and found little advantage for cultivation if weeds were otherwise kept in check. They reported no difference in lodging of corn, indicating that uncultivated plants stood just as well as those where soil had been thrown around the bases by cultivation. They concluded that there is an occasional advantage for cultivation of soils that tend to crust, especially in the case of excessive preplant tillage.

If there is no weed problem and if the soil is in satisfactory condition for water intake, leave the cultivator in the shed. Under those conditions, cultivation will be a waste of time, fuel and soil moisture. And, evaporation from a tilled soil surface may be greater. If cultivation is necessary, operate shallow and avoid root damage. Plants with excessive root damage can't take up adequate water and nutrients in case of stress conditions and they are more prone to develop root rot and other yield-depressing disorders.

Myerstown company is first Fristamat direct importer

MYERSTOWN — Confinement Ventilation, Inc., a subsidiary of Farmer Boy Ag, has become the first company in the U.S. to directly import the Fristamat fully automatic ventilation system from the system's home company in Denmark, reports Larry Horst, sales representative and part-owner of Confinement Ventilation.

According to Horst, during the past two years the units were previously imported from Canada. Now, the Myerstown operation imports them directly from the overseas plant and assembles the ventilation systems here.

"It turned out we were selling more systems here in the U.S. than they were selling in Canada," Horst remarks. "So, we negotiatiated with the home plant and were set up as a distributor last December."

Confinement Ventilation has been installing the Fristamat systems for about a year now, Horst recalls. He notes there have been approximately 150 units installed to date and expects about 200 more to be out this year.

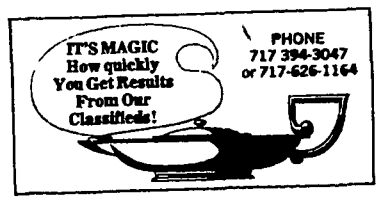
The Lebanon County based company has distributors in Iowa, Indiana, Ohio, North Carolina, and Michigan. Managing the operation is John Bosshardt, a native of Scotland and part-owner of the company. The third owner is Leon Hoover, Myerstown.

According to Horst, the Fristamat system is easy to install, electrically efficient and saves heat by recirculating 90 percent of the air inside the building in a "balanced air pattern."

A heat sensitive glycerin tube controls the opening and closing of a damper, adjusting to plus or minus one degree in temperature. The only moving electrical part is a one circuit motor, explains Horst — the size, ranging from ½ HP to 1 HP, depending on the size of the building and the number of animal units. The three-speed motors are run off 220 voltage.

Most of the ventilation systems, which range in price from $1,500 to $4,000, have been installed in confinement hog buildings, Horst notes. However, the company has recently installed one in a veal barn and is getting into poultry housing.

Horst says he's optimistic about the Fristamat system and comments, "There'll always be the Fords and Chevies of the ventilation systems around — we feel we're offering the Cadillac



Hardwood lumber elections

The Hardwood Lumber Manufacturers Association of Pennsylvania, Inc., held election of officers at its recent initial annual meeting in Williamsport.

Seated, from the left, are Association Chairman, Leonard D. Kuhns, of Kuhns Brothers Lumber Co., Inc., Lewisburg; Vice Chairman, Joe D. Heeter, Heeter Lumber Co., Beavertown; Secretary Treasurer, Charles B. Zeager, Zeager Brothers, Inc., Middletown; and Directory, Roy W. Cummings Jr., Cummings Lumber Co., Inc., Troy.

Directors, standing from the left, include Clair J. Charles, C.J. Charles Lumber, Inc., New Providence; Kenneth R. Taylor, Mt. Valley Farms & Lumber Products, Inc., Biglerville; Wayde Cisney, Wayde Cisney Lumber Co., Shade Gap; Galen G. Weaber, Walter H. Weaber Sons, Inc., Lebanon; and Winfield Hunsberger, Heacock Lumber, Plumsteadville.

The Association represents the lumber manufacturing industry of Pennsylvania, which has an average annual production of 510 million board feet of hardwood, second only to Tennessee. The industry includes 550 sawmills, a payroll exceeding $31 million and a value of lumber and wood products topping $164 million.

IH opening district office in Harrisburg

HARRISBURG — International Harvester's Agricultural Equipment Group is completing a restructuring of its North American marketing organization that includes the opening of a district office in Harrisburg.

H.E. Bower, Manager-District Operations, will be in charge of the local office covering Central and Eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

The restructuring involves three primary changes to provide improved support to more than 2,000 U.S. and Canadian dealers and their customers while centralizing sales management and planning and distribution operations.

IH strengthened its field support by increasing the number of personnel in 48 districts throughout North America, Bower said. The offices are staffed with some people already in district assignments, plus others formerly assigned to seven larger regional operations. The new district teams assist dealers in business management, marketing, training, and parts and service support.

Bower said the district offices "provide decision making responsibilities at the local level, which, in turn, strengthens our direct support to our dealers and their customers."

He said the company is conducting extensive training programs for all district personnel so that they can further assist dealers in every area of their business.

As part of the restructuring, the Group is centralizing its sales management and planning organization. Approximately 150 employees will staff a new General Sales Office, using leased space near O'Hare Airport, Chicago. Some employees to be located there come from similar positions in the seven regional offices, which are being consolidated into a single location.

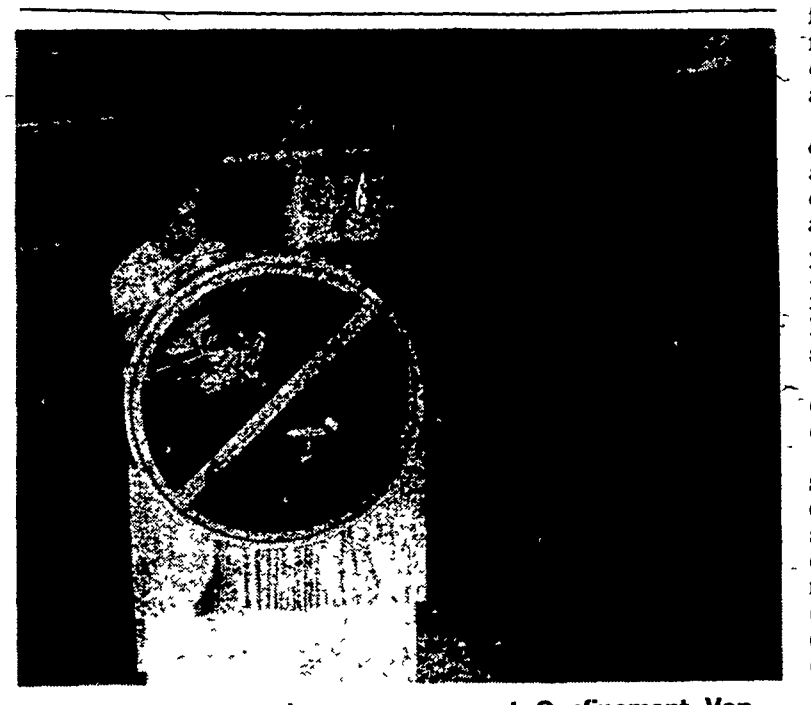
The third element of the reorganization involved the opening of a Central Distribution Office (CDO) in Kansas City, Kansas, last September. By consolidating regional distribution functions in one facility, the CDO more efficiently processes dealers' equipment orders and shipments, according to Bower.

"The CDO is equipped with an on-line computer system and advanced communications equipment that locate machines and implements from dealer and company inventories throughout North America to fill a retail order for a machine a dealer doesn't have in his own inventory," Bower said.

"It also is capable of advising dealers of the status of all orders on file with the company."

Bower said the CDO thus speeds shipments of IH farm equipment to dealers and thier customers. He said the new facility has helped dealers locate more than $150 million of equipment to fill retail orders since it became fully operational in November through early May.

"Our entire reorganization is part of a continuing effort to be the most customer responsive company in the agricultural equipment industry", he said.



Ray Hoover, warehouse manager at Confinement Ventilation, Inc., assembles a Fristamat damper section at the company's Myerstown headquarters.

Soya Bluebook available

ST. LOUIS — Need information about soybeans or the soybean industry? The American Soybean Association's 1981 Soya Bluebook has the answers.

The 188-page directory and buyer's guide has up-to-date information on the state of the industry including listings of manufacturers, organizations and industries that provide products and services for soybean buyers and users. In addition, there is a complete section of statistics on soybean production, exports and usage.

Four easy-to-use sections of the handy directory are designed to aid in locating pertinent information. Included are:

— Organizations — a listing of organizations involved in soybean research, market expansion, production and utilization.

— Directory — a worldwide listing of soybean processors, soy oil refiners, soy food manufacturers and industrial product manufacturers. Includes key personnel and products manufactured.

— Buyers Guide — a full listing of companies providing equipment or services for the soybean industry.

— Statistics — Maps, tables and charts provide up-to-date information on reported production, acreage, export statistics and crop values. In addition, there's a glossary of soybean terms and grading standards.

An expanded index of the 1981 Soya Bluebook is an aid to cross-referencing all listings.

For more information write: General Sales, American Soybean Association, P.O. Box 27300, St. Louis, Missouri, 63141, USA.

Karen Shoemaker will promote milk for Northampton, Lehigh counties

EASTON — Karen B. Shoemaker of Riegelsville was crowned 1981 Northampton Lehigh County Dairy Princess in ceremonies held June 19 at the Stockertown Memorial Hall.

As Dairy Princess she will make more than sixty appearances throughout the Lehigh Valley promoting milk and dairy products.

Miss Shoemaker is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lamen Shoemaker of R1 Riegelsville. She has been a member of the 4-H Dairy Club for six years and owns three cows and four calves. She is also active in the 4-H County Council and Future Business Leaders of America at Palisades High School where she will be a senior next fall.

Christine M. Mack, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mack of R.D. Pen Argyl, was named Dairy Princess Alternate. She is also active in the 4-H Dairy Club and owns three cows. She will be a senior at Pen Argyl High School where she is active in tennis, band, and Future Business Leaders of America.

In September Miss Shoemaker will compete in the Pennsylvania State Dairy Princess Pageant at Harrisburg.

Both girls will also receive training for their public relations responsibilities at a statewide seminar at Juniata College in July.

Groups interested in scheduling an appearance by the Dairy Princess may contact Mrs. Burton Ackerman, R1, Easton, (253-5483).

Karen B. Shoemaker of Riegelsville was crowned 1981 Northampton-Lehigh County Dairy Princess in Easton, recently. Christine Mack of Pen Argyl was chosen Alternate.

? That's A ? Good Question

June is dairy month

We recently moved to Chester County and are interested in dairy farming. We were wondering how to get in contact with various dairy and farmer organizations in Chester County. Could you please give us some of these names and addresses?

A Chester County reader

The first place you might look for information on the organizations you are requesting is your Chester County Extension Service. Their office is located at 235 West Market Street, Dague Building, West Chester, PA, 19380, phone 215/696-3500. They should be able to give you a complete list of farm-related organizations.

You might also get in touch with the Chester County Farmers' Association's president, Harold Kaulp. His address is 1096 Spiece Road, Pottstown, PA, 19464, phone 215/323-2409. This organization for farmers provides services in legislative lobbying, marketing products, supplying group rates and consultation on insurances, management, legal advice, etc.

I am wondering if you could tell me the address of the Department of Agriculture? I would like to obtain the "Pennsylvania Agriculture — We're Growing Better" T-shirt. Even though I am from out of state, I work part-time on a farm in Myerstown.

Jerry Woodworth
Wellesley, Massachusetts

Mr. Woodward: The person to write to for the 'Pennsylvania Agriculture' shirts is Luke Toomey, Bureau of Markets, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, 2301 N. Cameron Street, Harrisburg, PA. 17110. Mr. Toomey has two dozen shirts available for $3 each. The shirts are white with blue edges and printing. They bear the words 'Farm Show Farmers' Market' and the ag logo. When ordering, make checks payable to the Farm Show Farmers' Market.

CASE COMPLETES A GREAT NEW TRACTOR LINE

... with new General Purpose tillage/choring models

How do you tell a great new tractor from a good one?

Let a Case 90 Series General Purpose tractor show you with a demonstration on your farm. You'll see new easy controls, new luxury seating, new working visibility and more: features like standard 12-speed synchromesh transmission, high capacity hydraulics, elevating hood for easy servicing, and the impressive performance of Case high economy diesel engines.

You can test MFD — mechanical front wheel drive option for 53 to 90 hp models. In conjunction with standard rear wheel differential lock, MFD greatly increases traction and all-season productivity without duals. MFD also is an important factor in fuel economy.

You can also enjoy extra quiet comfort in an optional cab for the 1490 and 1690.

Before you make a buying decision, see your Case dealer. Operate and compare the 90 series General Purpose tractors . . . great for your tillage/choring needs . . . great new additions to the complete Case line.

U.S. Deputy Ag Secretary visits China

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Deputy Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Lyng will lead a joint government-industry team of grain specialists to China and will afterward visit Japan and Korea.

Lyng said the team's visit is part of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's intensified campaign to expand U.S. grain exports. The team will meet with representatives of the Chinese government and grain trade to develop specific plans for expanding technical assistance to foreign users of U.S. agricultural products, improving credit programs and determining quantities of U.S. grain to be purchased in the 1981-82 marketing year, Lyng said.

Following his meetings in China, Lyng said he will travel to Japan July 1-4 and to Korea July 4-6 for discussions with government and trade officials on trade matters of mutual interest.

The trade team — which will not accompany Lyng to Japan and Korea — is scheduled to return July 1.

Lyng said China is one of the countries targeted by USDA as having a growing market potential for U.S. grain sales.

"Increased production in competing countries has resulted in increased competition, which the United States plans to meet through new or increased measures to expand foreign markets," he said. "Our objective is to enhance the U.S. reputation as the world's most dependable supplier."

Team members are Harrell Ridley, vice chairman of U.S. Wheat Associates Inc.; E. Thurman Gaskill, chairman of the U.S Feed Grains Council; Myron Laserson, Continental Grain Co., and LaVerne Becker, FarMarCo, representing the U.S. grain exporting industry; and USDA employees Robert Svec, David Culver and Charles Liu.

In fiscal year 1980, the United States exported about $900 million worth of grain to China.

From sister to sister goes York County's Dairy crown

EAST PROSPECT — History was made last Friday evening in the York County dairy industry when outgoing princess Tina Neufeld set the sparkling crown atop the brunette hair of her younger sister Candice Neufeld.

It marked the first time in the county's dairy princess selections that two consecutive winners were from the same immediate family

Candy's selection from a court of five contestants highlighted the dinner and pageant hosted at the Wisehaven Hall, with over two hundred dairy industry guests attending.

Named first runner-up in the princess competition was Deanna Feeser. Nancy Eisenhart was chosen the second runner-up.

Sixteen-year-old Candy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Neufeld, York, R4. She's a senior at Northeastern High School, with plans to major in communications in college.

An enthusiastic athlete, Candy earned her varsity letters in field hockey and track, and she's a member of the school student government, chorus and musical

Formerly a 4-H member, the new princess is active in her church youth group. She also works closely with the family's 130-head dairy herd, regularly helping to milk, assist with field work and feed calves.

For her three-minute milk promotion spot, Candy danced out on stage as a little girl, garbed in a frilly yellow dress, to instruct the audience, six-year-old style, all about milk.

Candy believes that following in Tina's footsteps as York County's dairy princess will definitely be an asset for her reign. While Candy is making parade, school and banquet appearances Tina will be returning to Shippensburg State College for her sophomore year.

"I hope to be able to really get across to people that "milk's the one," Candy says when speaking of her main goal for the coming year.

First alternate Deanna Feeser is 16 and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Feeser, Hanover R6.

Following her graduation next June from Southwestern High School, Deanna will study computer science. She's a member of the school's marching jazz and symphonic musical groups, serves on the yearbo[illegible] track and field teams.

The Feeser's milk 115 Holsteins and Deanna carries a 4-H dairy project with the Central dairy club. For her promotion presentation, Deanna prepared and narrated a slide show on the "Land of Milk."

Nancy Eisenhart, the second alternate, is 17 and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Eisenhart, Thomasville R1.

She's a senior at Spring Grove High School, an honor society student and member of the band-front and choir. Following graduation, she'll pursue college studies in the computer field.

A 4-H'er for nine years, Nancy is active in the Thomasville Community club and County Council. For her promotion spot, Nancy sang a 4-H camp song with rewritten lyrics around the subject of dairy products.

The Eisenhart family milks 60 Holsteins and Nancy assists with milking and feeding the calves.

Also competing in the pageant were Audrey Anderson and Melinda Innerst.

Audrey is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Anderson, Glen Rock R2.

Melinda Innerst is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Innerst, Red Lion R3. She gave a poetry recitation for her promotional spot.

Judges for the pageant were Sally Bair, Lancaster Farming correspondent, Susie Richburg, Director of Public Relations for Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers, Inc., and Dieter Krieg, publisher-editor of Farmshine.

The Lanco Lads, a barbershop quartet sponsored by Vigortone Ag Products, was the featured entertainment of the pageant program. Emcee for the ceremonies was Dillsburg attorney Jan Wiley.

Mr. Albert Neufeld escorted his daughter Tina for her last appearance as the 1980 dairy princess. Escorts for the contestants were Kevin Laughman, Roy Thompson, Andy Feeser, David King and Brian Lehman.

Activities of the York County Dairy Princess Committee were chaired by June Boyer, with Georgia Amspacher serving as treasurer. General committe members include Mr. and Mrs. Robert Charles; Mr. and Mrs. Leo Rutter; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Neufeld; Mr. and Mrs. Paul King, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Amspacher, and Mr. and Mrs. Jed Beshore.

Weidman is "hard-working" princess

BY DONNA TOMMELLEO

LEBANON— Elwood and Beatrice Weidman always have had reliable help at their Lebanon County farm — they've had daughter, Joanne.

For most of her 17 years, the recent Lebanon County Dairy Princess has been tending cows, ponies, rabbits and any other kind of animal one might find at her family's farm. An now that school's out, Joanne's workload has increased.

"She does practically all the chores, now," says her mother.

Although the Weidman's do not operate a bonafied dairy, they own a small herd of Holsteins, 11 of which are Joanne's. Her interest in dairy animals began about 10 years ago when she recieved a heifer as a 4-H project as did most of the other five children in Weidman family.

From that one heifer, Joanne's herd of 11 has evolved. Currently, two of her animals are leased to a neighboring dairy farmer and she may possibly lease more in the future.

Joanne speaks to her animals in quiet gentle tones and appears to have a natural ability when working with them.

"We (the rest of the family) have trouble chasing her cows," explains Joanne's mother, "but she just calls and they come."

While in school, Joanne maintained her rigorous home schedule but still found time to write for the school paper and year book staff. She was named to Northern Lebanon High's National Honor Society and competed on the school's cross country and track teams With a time of 5:43:39, she holds the school's record for fastest mile

Promoting milk and other dairy products this year will be an easy task for Joanne, who along with the rest of the Weidman clan drinks a lot of nature's finest beverage

"I drink at least two glasses of milk at a meal," she says, but admits she loses count of her daily milk consumption

She is especially interested in exciting younger people about milk's outstanding qualities

What if she encounters a skeptic? She'll just make a deal with them I'll drink a glass if you drink a glass " she explains

And coming from Joanne Weidman, an eager diplomat for the dairy industry, that's an offer [illegible] ople won't refuse

A member of Norlebco Dairy 4-H Club, Joanne has collected a number of awards over the years.

Joanne has been showing dairy heifers since she was eight. Her heifer, "Little-one," is one of two animals she plans to show this summer.

Rain, warm weather push crops ahead

HARRISBURG — Rainfall again combined with warm humid weather to provide a good week for crop development in Pennsylvania during the week ending June 22, according to the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service.

Farmwork was hampered by the weather, with only four days rated suitable for fieldwork. Farm activities included making hay and haylage; planting cabbage, transplanting tobacco; spraying corn, potatoes and fruit trees.

Topsoil moisture levels in the state were 76 percent adequate and 24 percent surplus. Northern soils were rated 57 percent adequate and 43 percent surplus, while central soils were rated 77 percent adequate and 23 percent surplus. Reporters in the southern region of the state rated topsoil moisture as 100 percent adequate.

Corn planting is virtually completed. The average height of corn statewide is 13 inches, compared to ten inches last year at this time. Tobacco tranplanting is now 86 percent complete, compared to 78 percent last year.

Pennsylvania soybeans are now 87 percent planted, behind last year's 94 percent. Planting stands at 88 percent in the north, 91 percent in central counties and 81 percent in the south.

Barley is 38 percent headed, 54 percent turning yellow and seven percent ripe statewide. Last year, the barley crop was 40 percent headed, 50 percent turning and five percent ripe. In the north, barley is 68 percent headed and 32 percent turning, while central counties show 37 percent headed, 62 percent turning and one percent ripe. Southern barley fields were reported as ten percent headed, 65 percent turning and 23 percent ripe.

Wheat is 70 percent and 27 percent turning yellow across the state. Northern wheat is 75 percent headed and 21 percent turning while central wheat is 66 percent headed and 30 percent turning. The southern wheat crop is reported as 69 percent headed and 31 percent turning. Some farmers throughout the state are reporting problems with wheat rust and mildew.

Pennsylvania oats are 64 percent headed and less than five percent turning yellow. Forty-eight percent of northern oats are headed. Oats in central counties are reported at 74 percent headed and less than five percent turning, while southern oats are reported as 77 percent headed and six percent turning. Farmers from northern counties have reported that oats are heading normally but are short in height.

Statewide, alfalfa first cutting is 61 percent complete, behind the 73 percent cut last year. Second cutting stands at seven percent. Southern counties reported 83 percent of first cutting and six percent of the second cutting complete. Central areas reported 77 percent of first cutting and ten percent of second cutting alfalfa harvested, while northern areas reported 33 percent of first cutting and five percent of second cutting harvested. Some weevil damage has been reported.

Clover-timothy stands are 40 percent harvested, compared to 57 percent last year. The southern region leads with 54 percent harvested while northern and central counties are at 26 and 48 percent harvested respectively.

Hay quality for the week was mostly fair to good with poor haymaking weather across the state. Farmers in northern counties rated hay quality as 60 percent fair, 27 percent poor and 13 percent good, while their central counterparts reported hay quality as 50 percent fair, 33 percent good and 17 percent poor. Southern farmers reported hay quality as 50 percent fair and 50 percent good.

Feed from pastures rated average to above average across the state. Southern farmers rated pasture as 86 percent average and 14 percent above average; central farmers reported pasture at 67 percent average and 33 percent above average; and the northern farmers reported pastures as 80 percent average and 20 percent above average.

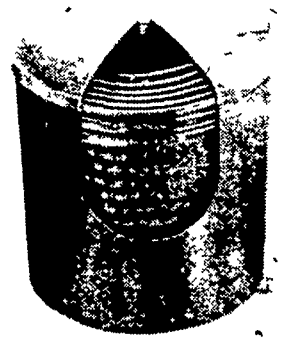
Announcing the new...



MUELLER
Refrigerated Receiver

Now, modern dairymen can pre-cool their milk before it passes thru the milk pump without any "additional" milk handling equipment

The Refrigerated Receiver utilizes Mueller Temp-Plate, the same efficient heat transfer surface used in more than 70,000 Mueller Milk Coolers around the world

★ FEATURES: All stainless steel construction, compact design, very little larger than an ordinary receiver, removable top for internal inspection, and washes automatically with the pipeline wash system
★ SPECIFICATIONS: Dimensions 18" diameter, 28" high 2" milk inlet and vacuum connections, 1½" milk outlet, 3/8" refrigerant inlet, ¾" refrigerant outlet
★ INSTALLATION REQUIREMENTS: The Mueller Refrigerated Receiver may be used with a 3 4 or 5 hp condensing unit, either conventional or Mueller HiPerForm Note If the HiPerForm is selected, the unit must be modified for pump down operation — consult your Mueller representative
Tests have shown that the Mueller Refrigerated Receiver can be thoroughly cleaned by an automatic pipeline washing system It is important, however, that the dairyman ensures that an adequate amount of hot water is provided for washing It is suggested a Mueller Fre-Heater be used to ensure an adequate supply of hot water
★ PERFORMANCE: Performance of the Refrigerated Receiver will vary some what, depending on the milking system arrangement and milking practices

What does the Refrigerated Receiver do for the dairyman? — Basically, it cools milk to 55° or below in the Receiver before it is pumped — but it does much more than that:

1. The faster cooling retards the growth of bacteria
2. There is no agitation of warm milk.
3. It promotes conditions which may result in higher butter fat counts.
4. It enhances the overall quality of milk.
5. It will improve cooling efficiency — with the pre-cooler, you can actually cool milk for less power cost than in the bulk cooler itself.

Why use a Mueller Refrigerated Receiver? —

1. It offers faster cooling — It saves energy — It gives you a better product.
2. You can increase profits with lower bacteria counts and the potential for higher butter fat counts.
3. The milk produced on your farm will have long shelf life.
4. The Mueller Refrigerated Receiver is the most economical way to pre-cool milk.
5. More cows can be milked at a faster rate without any added strain on the milk cooling
6. Ease in cleaning.

It just makes good sense that the Mueller Cooler people would produce the very finest pre-cooling equipment.

Harvest Time SPECIAL VALUES

WE WILL BE OPEN JULY 4th 7 AM to 1 PM

on these harvesting machines

There's nothing like a Twin Rotor™ combine from Sperry New Holland. For good reason. The dual-rotor threshing is patented so others can't duplicate it. Come in soon and let us tell you about this exciting advance in combining. There are three models to choose from. And be sure to ask us about the completely new line of Sperry New Holland corn heads, flexible cutterbar soybean headers and rigid cutterbar grain heads.

TR85 TWIN ROTOR COMBINE WITH 15 FT. FLEX HEAD

- Exclusive Price - Demonstrator
- $2500 Cash Bonus or Free Finance Until Sept. 1, 1981. Program ends June 30.

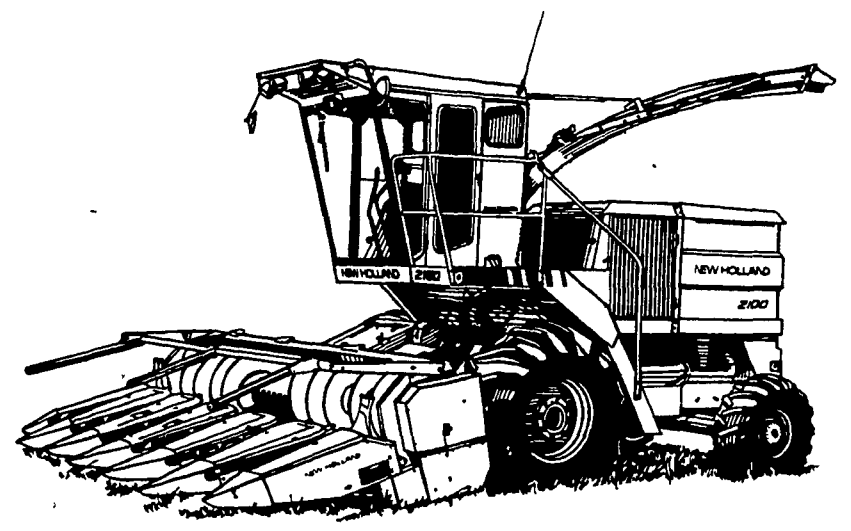
2100 Forage Harvester



The Sperry New Holland Model 2100 forage harvester features a 325-hp turbocharged six-cylinder Diesel engine. The 30-inch wide by 24-inch diameter 12-knife cutterhead features: exclusive underbeveled knives that never need rebeveling, exclusive metal detector to prevent harvester damage, and exclusive flip-up feedroll and hinged shielding for easy access. The "2100" can be ordered with a six-row cornhead or 14-ft. sicklebar — both the largest in the industry. The Whopper Chopper is designed and constructed for the ultimate in capacity and durability.

GUNITE Silo Relining & Repairs

Extensive tests have been conducted on Gunite Below are some of the properties of Gunite

1. Excellent bonding
2. High Density
3. Extreme strength and hardness
4. High resistance to absorption

The excellent physical properties of the material are due to the water content being only the amount needed to satisfy chemical hydration

Reseal and re-strengthen your silo with Gunite

INTRODUCING

RUMA PASS

The complete dairy feed and concentrate that cuts protein costs while maintaining your milk production.

If you think high milk production requires high protein, think again.

New Master Mix Ruma Pass for corn and sorghum silage feeding programs lets you feed less protein without a loss in milk production. So you save on protein while your cows continue producing at their present level.

Ruma Pass contains by-pass proteins which are not easily digested in the rumen, but are readily digested in the small intestine. The net result is more usable protein with less waste.

And you pocket the savings.

Isn't it time you had a protein break?

Shenk's cup cheese is a well-known local tradition, and many market regulars anticipate their visit to Shenk's stand to pick up cup cheese, ball cheese or schmierkase.

Grace Shenk offers a customer change after she has chosen a selection from the more than 40 varieties of jams, jellies and relishes.

Shenk maintains local tradition with cup cheese

BY SALLY BAIR
Staff Correspondent

With the focus on dairy products during the month of June, one's thoughts naturally turn to creamy ice cream, tangy yogurt, swiss cheese, cheddar cheese and a host of other well-known dairy foods.

Cup cheese may not be the first food to enter your thoughts, but it is a popular local product that has a long tradition, especially among people with Amish or Mennonite heritage.

Shenk's Cheese Company, New Danville, is the only local producer of cup cheese, a change from a few years ago when there was active competition in the market.

For the uninitiated, cup cheese is a cultured, semi-soft cheese, traditionally made in farm homes from the excess skim milk.

Elsie Graybill, who with her brother Robert Shenk own Shenk's, remembers that her father Clayton H. had a small milk route for which the family churned butter. From the excess skim milk they made cup cheese by heating a can of milk on top of the cook stove. Then the children would help rub the curd through a sieve to get it fine, and it would be placed in big bowls on the cook stove to ripen. They used a #10 skillet to heat the cheese, and would sell it at market for 10 cents a cup.

Eventually Clayton sold the milk route and went into cup cheese - making in a bigger way. It was into a partnership in 1947, with Clayton H. and children Paul, Robert S. and Elsie, sharing in the business.

Though the principal of cheese-making remains the same, the business has changed to meet the demands of increased business and government regulations. Modern, gleaming stainless steel equipment has replaced the skillet and the wood stove.

Today Shenks purchase skim milk directly from Greens Dairy and cut out the step of separating the milk. Bob Shenk explains that it takes about 100 pounds of skim milk to produce 6½ pounds of curd - the first step in the process.

The skim milk is heated in vats which hold 10,000 pounds of milk each, to a temperature of about 86 degrees. The culture is added and allowed to set 6 to 7 hours. The curds are broken up and heated to 110 degrees. The whey is then drained and the curd is dipped out and pressed.

After it is dry, the curd is pulverized to the size of rice grains, and stored in stainless steel pans for aging. The length of aging depends upon whether it will be marketed as mild, medium, or sharp cup cheese, with sharp being aged several weeks.

The pulverized curds are stored in a temperature-controlled room, where they naturally get warm as any organic matter will. The room is kept cool to prevent over-heating and developing off flavors.

The curds are then agitated to break them up. Salt is added and it is mixed and stirred three or more times. In several days it ripens to a yellowish mass. This is broken up and put in a steam jacketed cooker with water or skim milk.

After it is cooked, the cheese is strained into stainless steel buckets to be packed. The small containers are filled by machine and cooled to be packed for shipping. The cheese which will go to market is simply stored in stainless steel pans.

Elsie is enthusiastic about cup cheese and remarks, "It has a taste all its own. I don't know what to compare it with. It's supposed to be spread on crackers. People who haven't grown up with it are not as ready to accept it but my grandchildren eat it right out of the cup."

Bob says their best customers are those which are one generation off the farm. They still want cup cheese as they knew it as children. He expressed some consternation about the future, saying, "When older Germans die off, we lose a customer."

While cup cheese is the biggest volume of Shenk's business - they sell about 100,000 pounds per year - they produce several other products.

Schmierkase is another Shenk product and Elsie points out that it is different from cottage cheese, despite what people think. "It is a little more acid and is not heated quite as high as cottage cheese. It is whipped with sweet skim milk and has no cream, no sugar and no salt. It is good for people who are cardiac patients or who are on a special diet."

Ball cheese is yet another Shenk speciality. It is also known as Dutch cheese, or in German, "Handkase." It is a hand rolled product, with the curds being rolled in soda and then aged. The balls change consistency from the outside in, so when the balls are sliced, the inside is white like the curds, and the outside has turned yellow. Ball cheese is a high protein, low calorie food.

Egg cheese, or Siegerkase, is another strictly local product offered by the Shenks. Egg cheese brings to mind the heart-shaped molds of yesteryear, but Shenks use a brick shaped mold and sliced it for packaging and retail sales.

(Turn to Page C4)

Bob Shenk empties curds as one step in the process of making ball cheese. The curds will be hand rolled and covered with soda before the aging process which gives it its characteristic appearance and flavor.

This vat holds about 10,000 pounds of skim milk, heating it to the proper temperature to begin the process of making curds for cup cheese and ball cheese.

Lois Hershey, a part time employee of Shenk's, hand rolls the curds which will become ball cheese during an aging process.

Elsie recalls, "My mother put it in a colander with a cloth and weighted it down with a dish." She points out that egg cheese is most often eaten with molasses.

The Shenks also offer creamed cottage cheese and regular cottage cheese, but that is processed for them by Crowley's.

Elsie describes all their products as "typical Pennsylvania Dutch food." She says people who are used to eating their products want them mailed if they move away. Mail orders are accepted, but not during the hot summer months. Some visitors from far away have been known to purchase cheese in quantities and freeze it for later use to remind them of Lancaster County.

Bob and Elsie recognize the value of their product in this age of weight consciousness, and they capitalize upon it through radio and newspaper advertising. A "Dutch" girl is part of their logo, and they sometimes refer to cup cheese as "The Dutch Diet." Other appealing slogans include "A taste that doesn't go to waist," and "Have your Cheese and diet too," and "Eat up and slim down."

Another facet of Shenk's business is selling jams, jellies and relishes. Elsie explained that she began making preserves for sale when her children were young, around 1955.

She said, "I was too Scotch to throw away baby food jars." So she began spray painting the lids and processing jams and jellies to fill the jars. She soon was on her way to a booming business.

Today Shenks process and sell over 40 varieties of jams and jellies including the more ordinary apple and pear butter to the more exotic gooseberry jam, ginger apple jelly, garden huckleberry jelly, quince jelly, crabapple jelly and many more. Watermelon rind, pickles and watermelon jelly are also part of their inventory.

Some of the produce comes from their garden. Elsie says, "We grow what we can, and when it is in season, we prepare it and freeze it. Then when we need it we make the jelly so its fresh." They also purchase some locally grown fruits.

She will try new varieties and combinations of fruits either at the suggestion of customers or the availability or produce. She says, "We find a home for what we have."

The garden which produces much of what they need is cared for regularly and enthusiastically by Cayton who is now 97 years old. He also peels melons when making watermelon pickles and other chores as needed.

Bob works at the plant full time along with Elsie's husband, Albert, and their nephew - Dale Shenk. Lois helps three days a week, and Elsie works part time at the plant and part time at market. She reserves two days a week for her homemaking tasks, although she can often be found at the plant on one of her homemaking days.

Shenks retail their cheese at Central and Southern Market in Lancaster, Meadowbrook in Leola, Eastern Market in York and later will stand at Garden Spot Market in Bridgeport.

They hire a lot of part time help to work at the various markets but Elsie goes to Meadowbrook each week because she enjoys it. She says, "I've done it since I was a kid and I enjoy meeting people. You can get an education just from people. It gets to be a part of you and gets in the blood. It is a lot of work, but I'd rather be really busy.

"We have a lot of regular customers, but we also get those who don't know anything about the cheese. Explaining is par for the course. A little explanation can do an awful lot to help a sale. I present it in the best way possible. If you can't provide a service, you shouldn't go."

Shenk reflects on the work, which requires a lot of attention and a lot of hand labor. "It's a living, but it's not a get-rich-quick scheme. It's an honest living." He stated that there is not much competition in the cup cheese business today, saying, "Years ago there was competition and then you could make a better product and people would buy your product."

Bob Shenk and Elsie Graybill are carrying on a local tradition by providing the public with these delicious, wholesome dairy products. Dairy Month would be a good time to try one of these "Dutch treats" and experience a small part of the German heritage of the area.

BIG BONUS BEANS

NEW AGRIPRO™ AP-350
Tests prove it outyields Williams and Mitchell.
AP-350 is a welcome addition to Group IV maturity. It combines overall yield performance superiority with an excellent chlorosis rating plus resistance to race 1 Phytophthora root rot and tolerance to other tested races. Plus good emergence, too. Look at the yield data on this bean. For its maturity, it would be difficult to find a better bean.

NEW AGRIPRO™ AP-250
Bred to outyield Amsoy 71, Beeson and Woodworth.
AP-250 is ideal for the Amsoy 71-Beeson-Woodworth maturity zone. And in five years of yield trials it has consistently outyielded these popular varieties.
But in addition to big yields, AP-250 gives you good emergence, tolerance to tested races of Phytophthora root rot and good resistance to lodging.

AGRIPRO 25
- Early Group III pureline variety with top yield potential.
- Good emergence. Excellent standability.
- Resistance to Race 1 extreme tolerance to Race 3 Phytophthora.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

By now I would suppose most families have settled down to a summer schedule.

For some it means lazy afternoons by a swimming pool while for others it means busy days spent harvesting from garden and field. This year we picked almost 300 quart of strawberries and over 100 quart of sugar peas.

If there are children in the household with summer jobs, then the pace becomes even more hectic. Our own two students do not see each other from one weekend to the next. One leaves for Harrisburg at an early hour of the morning while the other works the midnight shift and comes home in the wee hours of the morning. Meals are something else that must be changed to suit the summer time table and served at odd hours.

Vacations are an important part of the freedom that warm weather affords. One of our daughters just returned from a ten day business trip to Luxembourg and had some of the prettiest pictures I've ever seen. I told her they should be on a postcard. She particularly enjoyed her weekend in Holland. It makes me more enthusiastic as I look forward to my tour of Europe next month.

I've had a mini-vacation recently as I traveled to Hershey with some friends to see the treasures recently retrieved from the sunken Spanish galleon the "Concepcion". About 1640 when it sank, it contained 24 million dollars worth of silver. The museum also contained many things from Colonial times.

I'd also highly recommend visiting Founders Hall which is east of Hershey on Route 322 as it is even more impressive from the inside than from the outside. It's dome is the second highest in the world.

I hope you can find time to enjoy your summer.

July is peach month

MARTINSBURG, WV — National Peach Council President Robert G. Kemp issued a proclamation recently designating July, 1981, as the second annual National Peach Month.

This is in response to actions taken at the NPC Board of Directors meeting February 18 in Phoenix, Arizona.

Although peaches are available from April through October, supplies of the Queen of fruit are at a peak across the nation in July, and the NPC Board decided to use that occasion to bring the quality of this excellent summer fruit to the attention of consumers over the nation.

Letters have been sent by NPC President Kemp to President Ronald Reagan and to the governors of all peach producing states asking them to join the Council's promotional efforts by endorsing National Peach Month in their respective states.

Key persons in each state have also been asked to contact their governors asking them for support for the Peach Month proclamation.

Although some of the NPC 1981 promotion efforts will be directed to National Peach Month, most of the materials produced for this can be used for promotion throughout the peach season.

Dairy treats for a summer of good eating

We hope you have enjoyed this month's selection of dairy recipes. Though it may have seemed like quite a number appeared every week, we actually received almost 400 recipes.

"Thank yous" go to everyone who helped make dairy month a success. Try these last few recipes and remember to celebrate the freshness of milk, cheese, ice cream and butter all year round in your cooking.

BREAKFAST

Spoonbread Muffins

3/4 c. all-purpose flour
1/2 t. baking soda
1 1/2 t. sugar
1 c. water
1/2 c. yellow corn meal
1/2 t. salt
1 T. butter
1 c. buttermilk
2 eggs separated

Mix together flour, baking soda, and sugar. Set aside. In a 1 1/2 quart saucepan, heat water to boiling point; slowly add corn meal to the boiling water, stirring constantly. Boil the mixture until thick and smooth; remove from heat and add the salt and butter. Beat together buttermilk and egg yolks until thoroughly blended and stir this into the corn meal mixture. Stir in dry ingredients. Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry and fold into batter. Spoon batter into greased and floured 2 1/2 x 1 1/4 inch muffin cup pan. Bake in a 400 degree oven for 25 minutes. Remove from oven and serve immediately. Makes 18 muffins.

Baked Omelet

8 large eggs
1/2 c. sour cream
1/2 t. salt
1 c. shredded sharp cheddar cheese
2 T. melted butter

Beat together the eggs, sour cream and salt until blended; stir in the cheese. Pour into a 1 1/2 quart buttered 10x6x2 inch baking dish. Drizzle with butter. Bake in a preheated 350 degree oven until puffed and set. About 20 minutes. Tilt dish to distribute butter on top. Makes 6 servings.

APPETIZERS

Swiss Eggs

2 T. butter
4 slices American cheese (cut in small pieces)
4 eggs
salt and pepper to taste
5 T. light cream
2 T. grated Parmesam cheese

Melt butter in shallow baking dish; place cheese in the bottom of the dish (spread to cover the whole dish). Break eggs over cheese. Add salt and pepper and pour cream over each egg with a spoon. Sprinkle grated cheese on the top and bake in a hot oven set at 375 degrees just until the eggs are set and the cheese is delicately browned.

Mrs. Eva Rubinosky
Norristown

Cheese Blisters

Sift 1 c. flour into a mixing bowl, season with 1/4 t. salt and a pinch of cayenne pepper. Cut 1/2 c. butter and 1 c. grated sharp cheddar cheese into flour until mixture is like coarse. Add 3 T. of cold water, 1 T. at a time mixing with a fork after each addition. If cheese is soft, a little water may be needed. Roll very thin on floured pastry cloth, cut into strips 1/2 inch by 3 inches and bake in a 425 degree oven. For about 12 minute until golden brown. Makes about 7 dozen.

Mrs. Sarah Meredith
Rock Hall, Maryland

When you're planning on having friends over, it certainly helps your reputation as a hostess if the food looks as great as it tastes. You can't go wrong with ham and asparagus smothered in dairy products. Work simple magic by rolling the meat around the cooked asparagus spears, then top with the melted cheese.

Pepperoni Pinwheels

1 c. (3 1/2 oz.) finely chopped pepperoni
1/2 t. oregano
1 c. (4 oz.) shredded Mozzarella cheese
1 slightly beaten egg

Mix the above ingredients together. Open 2 (8 oz.) tubes refrigerated crescent rolls. Seperated into 8 rectangles firmly press perforations to seal. Spread 1/4 c. mixture on each rectangle. Start on short side and roll and seal, jelly roll style. Cut into 6 pieces, place cut side down on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake at 350 degrees for 12-15 minutes. Makes 48 pinwheels.

To prepare ahead, prepare, cover and refrigerate up to 2 hours. Freezes well-wrap in foil to reheat.

Mrs. Gary Gastemire
Edinboro

Ham and Asparagus Roll-Ups

3 T. water
2 T. butter
1 T. fresh lemon juice
12 asparagus spears (fresh or frozen)
2 T. flour
dash of cayenne
3/4 c. milk
1/4 t. Worcestershire sauce
3/4 c. shredded Swiss cheese
8 thin slices of boiled ham
paprika
4 to 5 slices of white bread toasted

Place water, 2 tablespoons butter and lemon juice in skillet; bring to a boil. Add asparagus and simmer, covered for about 15 minutes or until asparagus is tender. Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Meanwhile, melt 2 T. butter in a small saucepan. Stir in flour and cayenne until smooth. Remove from heat; gradually stir in milk and Worcestershire. Heat to boiling, stirring constantly. Boil and stir 1 minute. Remove from heat and stir in 1/2 cup cheese until melted. If necessary, return to low heat to finish melting cheese. Drain asparagus. Wrap double slices of ham around center of 3 spears. Arrange in buttered 1 1/2 quart rectangular baking dish; cover with sauce. Top with remaining cheese; sprinkle with paprika. Bake 15 minutes or until hot and bubbly. Serve immediately with toast triangles.

Sherry Smith, Lancaster

Cheese and Corn Dinner

1 1/2 c. cubed luncheon meat
1/2 c. whole kernel corn, drained
1/4 c. chopped onion
1 c. shredded Cheddar or American cheese
1 egg
1 T. flour
3/4 c. milk
1/2 t. Worchestershire sauce

Prepare crust. In the following order, layer meat or tuna, corn, onion, and cheese in crust. In small bowl, combine egg with flour. Blend in milk and Worcestershire sauce. Pour mixture over cheese. Bake 20 to 30 minutes until filling is firm. Sprinkle with paprika or parsley flakes, if desired.

DESSERTS

Sugar Drop Cookies

4 c. white sugar
2 c. brown sugar
3 eggs
1 c. cooking oil
1 T. nutmeg
1 T. vanilla
1 c. cream
2 c. buttermilk
2 t. soda
2 t. baking powder
7 c. bread flour
3 c. pie flour

Mix in order as listed. Bake in hot oven for 375 degrees for about 15 minutes or less. Roll in powdered sugar while warm.

Effie Yoder, Reedsville

Peppermint Ice Cream

1 pound peppermint stick candy
1 pint milk

Soak over night. Then add:

1 pint whipped cream

Pour into refrigerator tray and freeze.

QUESTION - Does anyone have recipes for canning tomatoes and/or other vegetables or fruits using their ovens? I have heard there is an easy method for canning using an oven for heating.

Debra Shultz, Halifax, PA

MAIN DISH

Gourmet Potatoes

6 medium potatoes
2 c. shredded sharp cheddar cheese
1/4 c. butter
1 1/2 c. sour cream
1/2 c. shopped onion or chives
1 t. salt
1/4 t. pepper
2 T. butter
2 T. paprika

Cook potatoes in skins. Cool and peel. Shred coarsely. Saute butter and onions in saucepan. If using chives, stir in with seasonings. Add cheese and melt over low heat. Remove and blend in sour cream, salt, and pepper. Fold in potatoes. Put in a two-quart greased casserole. Dot with 2 T. butter and paprika. Bake uncovered at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

Mrs. Sharon Bollinger
Ephrata

Scalloped Potatoes

First make a white sauce of 1 T. of flour mixed with milk to a smooth paste. Stir into 1 pint of boiling milk, season with salt and pepper. Then set aside until potatoes are ready. Place a layer of potatoes in well greased baking dish. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and a little butter and cheese (any kind you want). Repeat this until dish is full then cover with the white sauce and slices of cheese and bake in moderate oven about 45 minutes.

Custard Pies

Pie Crust:
2 c. flour
1 t. salt
1 T. sugar

Mix into this 1 cup cooking oil. Crumble into marble-like pieces. Mix in 4 T. cold water. Roll. This makes 2 pie crusts.

Custard for two pies:

Heat 5 1/3 cups of milk until a coating forms on top. In large bowl beat 8 eggs with wire wisk. Add 1 1/2 c. sugar, 1/2 t. salt. Add milk and 2 T. vanilla. In one shell, put 1 cup rhubarb cut in small pieces. In the other, 1/2 c. coconut. Pour in custard mixture and sprinkle cinnamon on top. Any filling can be used with custard: apples, blueberries, etc. Bake at 400 degrees about 30 minutes or until the filling is just setting.

3000 Calorie Cheesecake

3 — 8 oz. cream cheese
5 eggs
1 c. sugar
2 t. vanilla

Beat above until light and airy.

Crust:
36 graham crackers, crushed
1/2 c. soft oleo
2 T. sugar

Mix above very well. Press into 13 x 9 inch pan that has been greased heavily with oleo. Save 1/2 cup crumbs for top of cake. Pour filling in crust and bake for 35 minutes at 325 degrees.

Then pour following (mixed well) over cake:
1 pint sour cream
4 T. sugar
1 t. vanilla

Bake an additional 15 minutes. Cool and keep refrigerated.

Donna Lencoski, Latrobe

Pecan Tarts

Pastry:
1 c. butter
2 c. flour
4 oz. cream cheese

Cut butter and cream cheese into flour. Stir and press into ball of dough. Tear off small pieces and press into muffin pans.

Filling:
2 c. brown sugar
4 T. melted butter
2 eggs, beaten
2 t. vanilla
1 t. salt
1 1/2 c. pecans, chopped

Mix by hand. Stir melted butter into brown sugar. Blend in beaten eggs. Add salt, vanilla and nuts.

Spoon filling into pastry-lined muffin cups. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes for small cups; 35-40 minutes for large cupcake size or until pastry is brown and filling is set.

Makes about 18 cupcake-size tarts.

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Co. Society 3

Society 3 of Lancaster County held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Ethel Gerhart, R1, Stevens.

The meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Allegra Leininger.

Several committees appointed by the president were: Nominating: Irene Eberly and Norma Meck and Debra Gregory; Christmas gifts: Barbara Stauffer and Mary Lou Weaver; Auditors: Gladys Paul and Alice Trumbauer.

The Society awarded their annual scholarship to: Thanh Chau "Jenny" of the Ephrata Area School District. She plans to study fashion designing at the Tracy Werner School located in Philadelphia.

Plans were finalized for the family picnic which will be held on July 19 at the home of Clarence and Vivian Stauffer. Members are asked to bring a place setting a salad or a dessert.

The program for the day consisted of a fashion show "modeled by members of the Society" of bathing suits from bygone days. The hostess, Ethel Gerhart, gave a humorous talk and modeled the hats in her collection.

Lancaster Co. Society 14

Lancaster Farm Women Number 14 entertained Society 4 on June 11 at the Home and Farm Center.

Members answered the roll call by introducing guests and telling about four things both enjoyed.

Guest speaker was Clara Martin, nutritionist at the Lancaster General Hospital. She gave helpful information on reading the contents of various packaged foods.

Member were entertained by Larry Hershey at the piano.

Miriam Leaman, president, presided at a short business meeting.

The next meeting will be held July 9 at 6:30 p.m. at Strasburg.

Lancaster Co. Society 7

Lancaster 7 met June 15, at the home of Mrs. Arthur Eshleman, Oak Hill Dr., Paradise.

Roll call was answered by telling a book read recently.

Twenty members responded.

Miriam Keneagy, program chairman introduced the speaker, Mrs. Margie Perella, who explained the many types of books found in the library.

The next meeting will be a family picnic supper at Paradise Park, Tuesday, July 14, 6 p.m.

Lancaster Co. Society 8

Farm Women 8 met in the home of Helen Wivell, Columbia, R1, June 20.

The Society president, Kathryn Erb, was in charge of the meeting.

Because June is Dairy month, favorite dairy products were named as the 12 members present answered roll call:

Michele Rodgers from the Extension Service was the guest speaker. Her theme was "Summertime Desserts," and everyone observed as she made up attractive and unusual dishes of food.

Refreshments were then enjoyed by all as they tasted portions of the desserts made by Michele.

Hostesses for the afternoon were Helen Wivell, Bonnie Funk, Grace Bixler and Minnie Kulp.

The next meeting will be held at Landis Homes, July 18, at 2 p.m.

Lancaster Co. Society 13

Lancaster 13 met recently at the home of Mrs. Raymond Denlinger.

The county picnic will be held at the Lampeter Fairgrounds at noon on August 4.

The family picnic for Society 13 will be held at the Lancaster County Park on August 5 at 6 p.m. Hot dogs, rolls, soft drinks and coffee will be furnished.

There will not be any regular meetings during July and August.

Lancaster Co. Society 31

Farm Women 31 met at the home of Mrs. Doris Aument.

The meeting opened with Josh Stroup from Family and Children's Services speaking on "Keeping the lines of communication open."

Roll call for the evening was a self improvement goal to which sixteen members responded.

During the business meeting it was decided to give $100 to Cerebral Palsy to send a child to camp and $100 to the Wayne Hassel Fund.

It was announced the county picnic will be held August 4 this year.

Berks Co. Society 6

Berks Farm Women 6 met at the home of Mrs. William Koch, Fleetwood.

Members brought a covered dish made from a dairy product.

A donation of $25 was given to the Kidney Fund.

A family picnic will be held on Sunday, July 19 at Daniel Boone Homestead, Birdsboro.

The next meeting will be on Tuesday, July 21 at the home of Mrs. Jacob Hartz. The program will be quilting.

On being a farm wife -And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Everyone's familiar with those classic Western movies with the plot that centers on the battle for grazing rights between the cattlemen and sheepherders.

Here - for the first time - we can reveal the true story behind that epic conflict.

Don't look so skeptical.

Remember Scooter, that baby lamb that arrived several weeks ago to be bottle-raised? She's multiplied her birth weight and size several times, is covered with a thickening crop of creamy curls and now sports a "hay belly" resembling a helium-filled balloon.

Her appetite is insatiable - and therein lies the problem.

Not content to graze the yard or pastures, lush grass liberally sprinkled with white clover patches, Scooter had instead become a four-footed vegetative destruction derby with a taste for the forbidden fruits of the flower and a garden plantings.

Our red climbing roses along the yard fence top Scooter's menu favorites. She's stripped the blooms and leaves as high as her fuzzy, stubby neck can stretch.

From the roses, she plods on down to the bank near the dairy barn, newly planted with several dozen strawberry plants which were to give us a productive, erosion-resistant ground cover. Are strawberry leaves conducive to the good health of lambs?

The marigold sections were ignored and are apparently bad-tasting, but Scooter made up for skipping them when she arrived next at the salvia section, where she munched the dozen plants to bare-stem nakedness.

Letting her trot along to the vegetable garden was my biggest mistake. Scooter discovered the small row of sweet potato plants, which were just beginning to sprout credible - and edible - growth. They are no longer credible - nor edible - following Scooter's latest in lamb lunches.

So this cattle raiser has renewed the ancient cow-sheep conflict.

However, this war is finally being won, not with a six-gun, but brand-new collar and ample length of chain.

Schuylkill County presents Princess Anne Daubert

POTTSVILLE — Anne Daubert of Pine Grove was named Schuylkill County's new dairy princess on June 13, here.

Anne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Ronald Daubert, R2, Pine Grove. She is a recent graduate of Pine Grove Area High School where she was captain of the archery team, and a member of the band and varsity clubs.

Anne is vice-president and secretary of her church youth group and president of the South Schuylkill 4-H Cattle Club. She is a junior member of both the Pennsylvania and National Brown Swiss Association and served as the 1980 Schuylkill County Alternate Dairy Princess.

In college, Anne plans to major in education of the deaf. Anne is a supervisor for the Schuylkill County DHIA.

Karen Hinkel of R1 Ashland, was chosen Alternate Dairy Princess. Karen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Hinkel, R1 Ashland.

She is a senior at Tri-Valley High School where she was junior class president, president of the band, member of F.B.L.A. and student council and basketball statistician.

Karen will also serve as student council president and drum majorette during the coming year.

The 1980 Schuylkill County Dairy Princess, Sharon Heisler crowned Princess Anne and also demonstrated one of her presentations during the pageant held recently in Boscov's Auditorium in the Fairlane Village Mall.

Also participating in the pageant were Michelle Moyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Moyer, Schuylkill Haven; Dawn Spiece, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Spiece, Nuremberg; and Diane Heisler, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Carl Heisler, Tamaqua.

Eggatha and the Big Cheese, PA Department of Agriculture Agri-Animals made a surprise appearance during the program.

Judges for the event were: Gary Willier, Carnation Genetics; Laverne Shafer, State Women's Committee, P.F.A.; and Katherine Leiby, Retired Elementary Teacher.

Junior Angus breeders head to Nashville

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — Young Angus breeders across the country soon will head to Nashville, Tennessee, for the National Junior Angus Heifer Show set for July 9-10, reports Jerry Lipsey, director of junior acitivites for the American Angus Association.

Some 800 heifers are entered in the show, which will be at the state Fairgrounds.

A special treat for heifer exhibitors this year, courtesy of the Tennessee Junior Angus Association, will be tickets and bus rides to Opryland, a unique amusement park

In addition, more than 500 Angus enthusiasts will attend the Grand Ole Opry performance on Friday night, July 10.

The national show will feature two heifer divisions plus cow-calf classes. Heifers bred and owned by the exhibitors will show first, followed by cows, then heifers owned by the exhibitors. Each exhibitor may show two owned heifers and as many bred-and-owned entries as they wish.

To be eligible for the cow-calf classes, sponsored by the Tennessee juniors, cows must be bred and owned, enrolled in the Angus Herd Improvement Records program, halter-broken and exhibited with their most recent calf. Entries will be judged by visual appraisal, as well as on accuracy and detail of performance data. This competition will be divided into classes for first-calf heifers and mature cows, with spring and fall calves at side. The Tennessee junior group will provide $100, $50, $40, $30 and $20 premium money for the top five entries in each cow-calf class.

Exhibitors must be junior or life members of the American Angus Association and at least 9 years old but not more than 21 years of age by January 1, 1981.

In conjunction with the heifer show, the four-day event will feature the 15th National Angus Showmanship Contest and the second annual meeting of the National Junior Angus Association

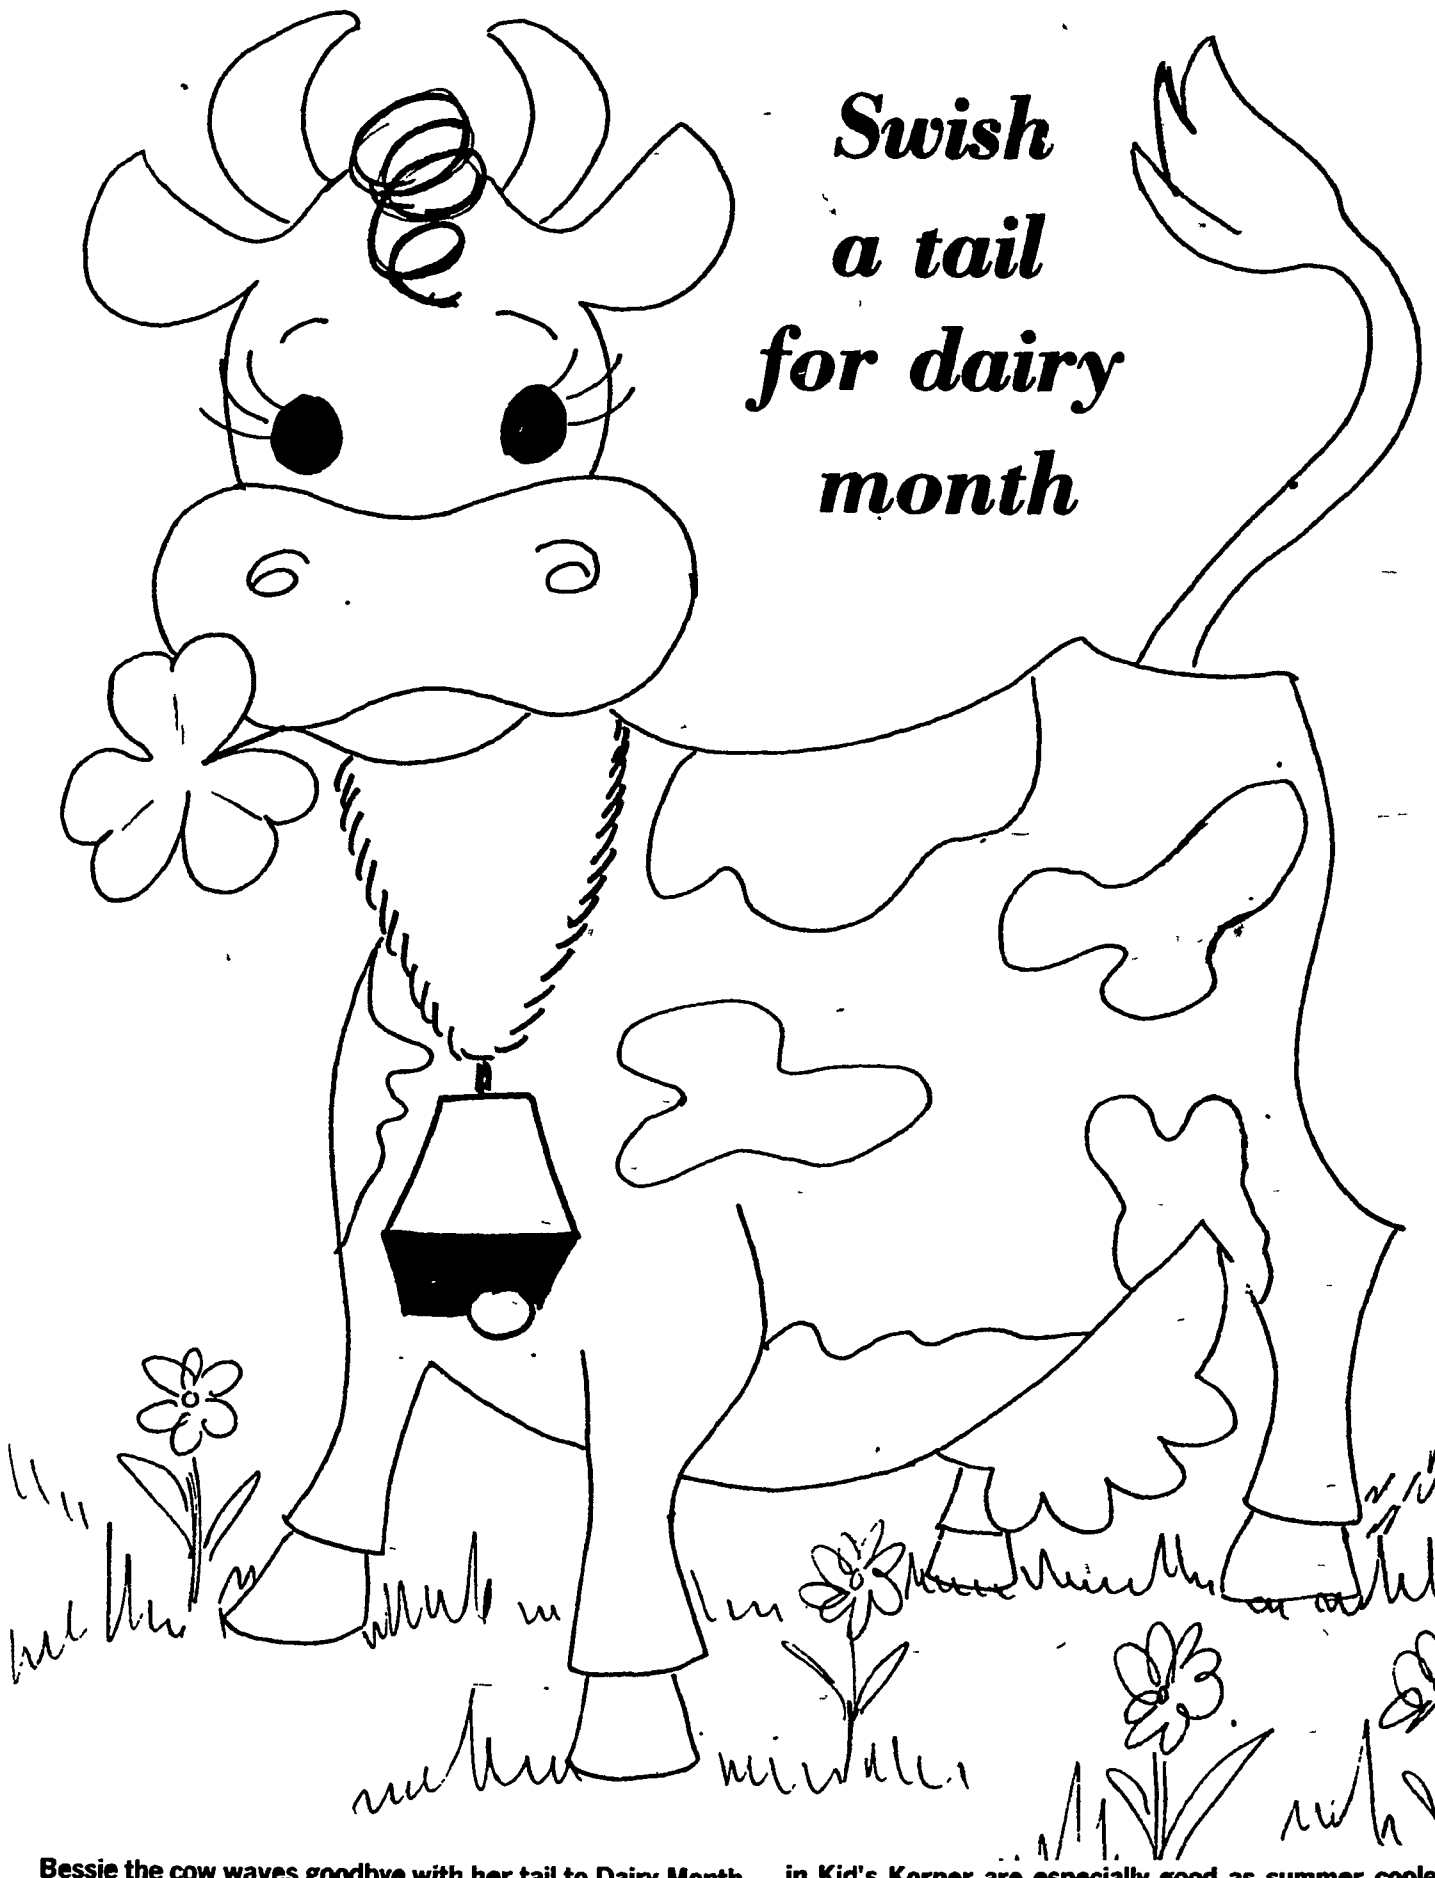
Kid's Korner

Do you know about the Holstein cow?



Bessie the cow waves goodbye with her tail to Dairy Month as it draws to a close. But keep using those delicious dairy products throughout the year; the drinks previously featured in Kid's Korner are especially good as summer coolers and after school snacks for this fall.

Holsteins have contributed to the good life of American farm families for more than 100 years. Their ability to profitably produce high quality, nutritious milk under all climates and a variety of management systems has made them the most popular dairy breed in America.

Today the Holstein dairy breed accounts for nearly 90% of all dairy cattle in the United States.

Holsteins are number one both in milk production and in income over feed costs. U.S. Holsteins offer the world's dairymen an opportunity to reach the same level of total production with fewer cows and less energy.

But how did this all come about?

The Holstein cow originated in Europe. Her parents were the black cows and the white cows of the Batavians and the Friesians, two migrant European tribes, who moved together into the fertile Rhine Delta region about 2,000 years ago.

That Rhineland region became the Netherlands and for many years the Holstein cow was bred through a process of ruthless culling to obtain those animals which would make the very best use of the area's most abundant resource, grass.

Much later, after the New World was settled and markets began to develop for milk in America, forward-looking American breeders turned to Holland for their seed-stock.

Winthrop Chenery, a Massachusetts breeder, purchased a Holland cow from a master of a Dutch sailing vessel who had landed a cargo at the Boston port. The cow had furnished the crew with fresh milk during the voyage. She proved to be such a satisfactory producer that Chenery made later importations in 1857, 1859 and 1861. Many breeders soon joined the race to establish the Holstein upon these shores.

But, after approximately 8,800 animals had been imported, cattle disease broke out in Europe. Imports ceased. No longer were seed-stock animals available from the old country.

And so, the American breeders gathered together formed their associations, merged them in 1885 into the Holstein-Friesian Association of America, and with their own Herd Book and their own foundation stock, they set about the tremendous task of building their own Holstein breed.

Today's Holstein cow is a large animal, with outstanding milk producing capability and distinctive color markings of black and white or red and white.

A healthy, newborn Holstein calf will weigh 90 pounds, or more, at birth. A mature cow, in milk, should weigh about 1,500 pounds and stands 58 inches at the withers.

The breed is horned, but horns are rarely seen on the animals because they are removed or prevented from growing by dairymen for the sake of safety and good management.

For the first several months of life, both sexes of dairy cattle are commonly called calves. As the calves grow older, farmers refer to the females as "heifers" and call the males "bulls". The females become "cows" when they begin lactating.

Heifers can be bred at 15 months of age and approximately 800 pounds. Holstein females come into heat approximately every 21 days and should have their first offspring between 24 and 27 months of age. The gestation period for Holsteins is approximately nine months. For maximum milk production, cows should be bred to have a calf every year.

While some cows may live as

The Holstein cow

long as 15 to 20 years, the normal productive life of a cow is about six years. Cows with physical disabilities or low milk production and bulls not kept for breeding purposes are sold on the beef market.

The high level of milk production and prolific reproduction of Holstein cows form a practical basis for the widespread popularity of the breed. Average production for all Holsteins on official U.S. testing programs is 14,664 pounds of milk and 527 pounds of butterfat, higher than the average of all other dairy breeds.

National records have been set by Beecher Arlinda Ellen, who produced 55,660 pounds of milk and 1,573 pounds of butterfat, and Breezewood Patsy Bar Pontiac, who produced 2,230 pounds of butterfat and 47,500 pounds of milk in 365 days, twice daily milking.

The Holstein has emerged as the major dairy breed in the United States. Holsteins are raised successfully in every state and produce 85 percent of all the milk consumed in the country. Unexcelled production, physical adaptability to commercial conditions, greater income over feed costs, longer productive herdlife and higher salvage value are major contributing characteristics for the breed's popularity and dominance.

It's a staggering fact that of the 11 million milk cows in the country, more than 9 million are Holsteins. They are bred, raised and milked by about 300,000 dairy farmers, who use a variety of management systems to improve their herds' productivity and profitability in each region of the country. Highly automated milking parlors and corrals are prevalent in the West and are gaining in popularity in the East.

The strength and ruggedness of Holsteins allow them to adapt easily to a wide range of climatic variations. They produce well in the hot, areas of the Southwest, the tropical climates of Florida and Louisiana, the high altitudes of the Rocky Mountains and the temperature environment of the Corn Belt and Atlantic states. Wisconsin, New York, Pennsylvania, Minnesota and California lead the nation in numbers of Holstein cows. Herd sizes range from 30 to 3,0000, with West Coast herds tending to be larger than average.

One and one half million of the country's Holsteins are registered in the national herdbook of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America, allowing their ancestry to be traced back to the original importations. This population is used as the source of genetically superior breeding stock for the entire industry.

Development of the artificial insemination industry has exerted tremendous influence on the genetic improvement of the Holstein, allowing wide use of sires with proven performance. Until the late 1950's and early 1960's, reliable methods of genetic evaluation of breeding stock were not generally available. Development of an outstanding herd depended upon the ability of the breeder to pick out quality breeding stock based upon past experience, cow sense and intuition. Since the 1950's, reliable sire and cow evaluation procedures have been developed and widely used. Dairymen now have technical data available from computer files to help them choose the very best sires for breeding purposes. By using frozen semen and artificial insemination, a dairyman in Oregon can breed his cows to a top performance bull in Pennsylvania.

Because of their superior performance, Holsteins have earned worldwide acceptance. In recent comparison tests in Germany, the offspring of U.S. Holstein bulls outyielded offspring of German bulls by more than 2,300 pounds of milk and 75 pounds of fat per year.

In the Netherlands, where Holsteins originated, crossbreeding experiments with Dutch Friesians resulted in a 1,625 pound milk increase and 17 pound butterfat increase over the native cattle. U.S. Holsteins, completing their first lactations in eastern Europe, produced twice as much milk as the native cows.

Such convincing evidence of Holstein's production superiority has created an active export market. Currently, U.S. Holstein females, bulls and frozen semen are being exported to about 50 countries and are used extensively to improve foreign food supplies and dairy farmer income.

Jr. Polled Hereford show planned

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — The eighth National Junior Polled Hereford Heifer Show and Forum is shaping into a 400-entry event in Hutchinson, Kan., July 19-24.

Those attending will find the show and forum packed with both fun and educational activities. On Monday, July 20, interviews for the National Junior Merit Award will begin. Serving as this year's judges are John Oswald, Hutchinson, Kan.; Diann Strickland, Mershon, Ga.; and Ollie Reinhart, Lee's Summit, Mo.

The winner of the National Junior Merit Award receives a $750 scholarship plus a week-long stay with a Polled Hereford operation. First and second runner-ups win a $500 and $250 scholarship, respectively.

Also on Monday, there will be four showing of the film "To Fly" at the Kansas Cosmosphere.

A livestock judging contest is scheduled for Tuesday morning, July 21. Registration begins at 8:30 a.m. with judging to start at 9:30 a.m. There will be six cattle classes with divisions for both youth and adults. Dr. Bill Able and Dr. Miles McKee, both of Kansas State University, will officiate the contest. Youth nine years and younger can take part in the mini-judging contest placing four cattle classes.

That afternoon at 1 p.m. the youth forum will be held. As part of the forum, the Government Affairs Coordinator of Farmland Industries, G. Mark Mayfield, will speak on self-motivation and goal-setting. Mayfield has spoken before all age groups in more than 35 states and has appeared on radio and television in all sections of the country.

The first "Polled Hereford Beef Bowl" is also planned for the forum. Teams made up of four juniors will answer questions related to the Polled Hereford and beef industries. One team per state will compete.

Following the forum, buses will take everyone to Fun Valley Recreation Center. Along with a free picnic featuring buffaloburgers, organized games and the state "fun-rodeo" are scheduled.

Wendesday, July 22, marks the first show day. Judging will start at 8:30 a.m. and 10 heifer classes will be placed. Judging the show is a three-man team consisting of Dr. Ike Eller of Virginia Tech, Blacksburg; Ed Kalianoff of Kal-Kota Polled Herefords, Steele, N.D.; and Gene Wiese of Wiese and Sons Herefords, Manning, Iowa.

After a long day in the showring, the crowd will be welcomed to "The End of the Trail Cookout and Wild West Show", 7 p.m., on the fairgrounds.

An up-and-coming country western star, Ed Bruce, will perform at the cookout. Bruce was nominated for the "Newcomer of the Year Award" during the American Country Music Festival.

The heifer show will continue on Thursday morning, July 23, at 8:30 a.m., with 10 more classes. That evening an awards ceremony will be held. The winners of the computer cow game, the premier breeder, the best state exhibit, the outstanding state exhibitor and the National Junior Merit Award will be announced.

Thursday will be topped off with a junior mixer and dance at the fairgrounds and an adult social in the Holidome. Both will begin at 8 p.m.

The week's activities will climax Friday, July 24, with the selection of champions of what has become the largest junior show of its kind in the world.

IMPROVED!

LIQUID HAYLAGE-ACTIVATOR 16%

The basic ingredient in Haylage-Activator 16 is refined blackstrap molasses Molasses has been added to grass as it is chopped for many years to improve the resulting silage. Europeans were making grass silage in trenches in the mid 1800's, many times with very poor results Molasses was added to this grass silage with a tremendous increase in the quality of the silage For over 40 years our customers have been adding refiners molasses to greatly improve the smell, appearance, consumption and performance of the cattle fed this Haylage Several years ago we developed Haylage-Activator 16 which has been specifically formulated for the addition to chopped grasses, rye, etc. going into the silo. These are lacking in energy, many times are low in protein and are almost always lacking in certain minerals. Sometimes Haylage is not very palatable. Haylage-Activator 16 will corect all of these deficiencies of an otherwise excellent feed No "extenders" or non-nutrient carriers are added to Haylage-Activator 16. We have taken molasses, which has already proven its value as a grass silage energy additive, added additional protein sources and minerals which are lacking in grass to make a complete supplement for Haylage

4-H offers summer program for youth

NORRISTOWN — A new 4-H program called "4-H Action Program" will be offered for Conshohocken youth ages 8-14 at the Marywood Park in Conshohocken from June 30-August 11.

The main goal of the program is to involve youngsters in a project of their choice that will improve their neighborhood community, as well as themselves. In addition to doing a community service project, youth will have the opportunity to do crafts, recreation and other activities in a club setting.

Youth who enroll will be considered bonafide 4-H members, eligible to receive a 4-H membership card and to participate in a variety of other Montgomery County 4-H activities such as 4-H Camp and the 4-H Fair. Upon completion of the program, youth will receive 4-H Achievement certificate and merit ribbon.

The program, conducted by the Montgomery County Extension Service and Penn State University, will be taught by Janet Weymouth, 4-H Summer Assistant and a student at Kutztown State College.

Adults are especially invited to assist Janet with the program and may volunteer by calling her or Helaine Brown, 4-H Agent, at 277-0574.

Registration for the 4-H/CD program is required and a fee of $1.25 per person for materials for the entire six-week program will be collected at the first session.

4-H'ers hold Olympic Day

LEBANON — Over 200 Lebanon 4-H'ers ran, jumped, batted, and laughed their way through the 4-H Olympic Day held recently at the Lebanon Area Fairgrounds.

According to Gwen Bowman, 4-H Program Assistant, the whole event was planned and lead by 30 teen leaders. Through the experience, these teen leaders learned leadership and planning skills as well as having lots of fun.

Every participant had a chance to participate in four of the following: softball, volleyball, kickball, arts & crafts, crazy relays, individual contests, an obstacle course, and dodgeball.

The afternoon was highlighted by a free-time period where the participants could choose between free pony rides, offered by the 4-H Horse club members, dodgeball, folk dancing, volleyball, and parachute games.

A picnic supper, funds provided by the Lebanon 4-H Development

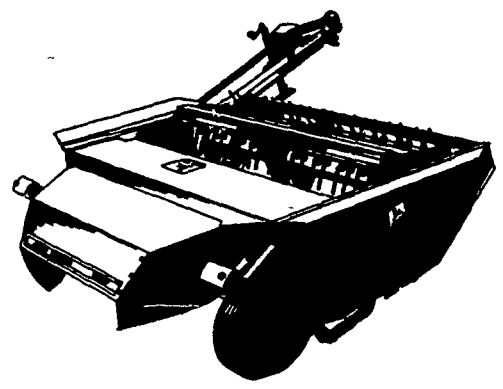
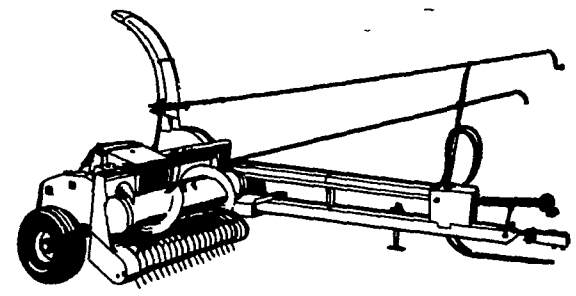
THE 7¼-foot-cut 1207..maneuverable enough to conquer your irregular hay fields



Crooked fence lines, uneven terrain, steep hillsides — they can steal your haying efficiency. Tackle them with our 1207 Mower/Conditioner — the compact machine with big-capacity features. Adjustable roll pressure, platform float, platform stabilizer, flotation tires tucked close to cutterbar, side-to-side and front-to-back balance...all combine to conquer small, irregular fields.

The 3940 Powr-Mizer Forage Harvester makes the most of your tractor's horsepower



The 3940's power-efficient design begins with our Dura-Drum™ cutterhead...uneven forage doesn't stand a chance against its 36 segmented knives. And if a knife gets damaged, you'll find it's easy and inexpensive to replace one of the short blades.

Easy-adjust controls help you keep running at peak performance. It only takes one wrench and less than 3 minutes to set the stationary knife at the proper clearance. No bending. No mess. No shield removal. It's so easy, you'll adjust it every time you sharpen the knives.

You can match a 3940 with harvesting units that best fit your operation. Select from one- or 2-row row-crop units, one-row ear corn unit, 5½-foot windrow pickup or the 6-foot mower bar. Let us show you how a 3940 can squeeze extra capacity out of your 80- to 130-hp tractor.

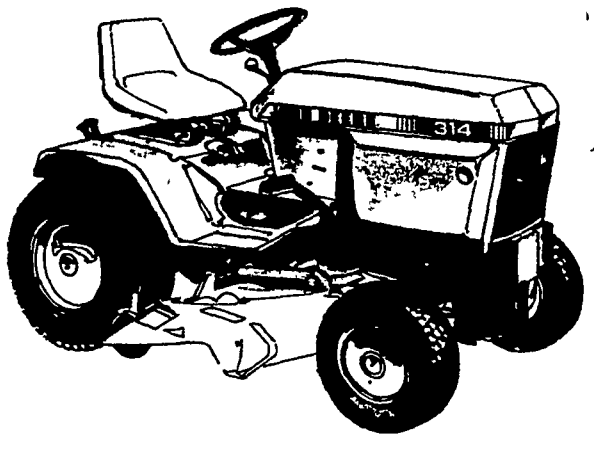
JOHN DEERE 300 SERIES TRACTORS



Two power sizes with hydrostatic drive and built-in hydraulic lift

Mowing...tilling...grading...or blowing snow. Whatever the job, John Deere 300 Series Tractors stand ready. Choose from two models — the 40-hp 314 and the twin-cylinder 17-hp 317.

Hydrostatic drive lets you control forward and reverse speed without clutching or shifting... lets you slow down for trimming around trees and flowerbeds without braking.

Hydraulic lift — single-function on the 314, dual-function on the 317 — gives you fingertip control of front-, mid-, and rear-mounted implements.

Color-coded controls are clustered for easy use.

John Deere 300 Series Tractors also feature padded high-back seat, sturdy footrests, and triple-safety starting. For added protection, there's a safety switch that shuts off the engine if you leave the seat with the PTO engaged.

Youth gain hands-on experience in Livestock Judging Clinic

BY DEBBIE KOONTZ

GUTHRIESVILLE — Intoxicated — that's the only way to describe them.

Intoxicated with exuberance and the desire to learn were the more than 150 youth and adults who gathered for the Second Annual Southeast Regional Livestock Judging Clinic last week at the Devereux Soleil Farms, here.

Displaying the zeal of showring winners, the participants took part in a mini-judging contest and a cattle fitting demonstration.

Providing an extra measure to project work was Robert Grove of The Livestock Breeders Journal who conducted the contest which offered each person a chance to test their judging skills.

According to Grove, the potential judges must look for the basics of size and scale, growth and muscling vs. fat and volume. These pointers help them not only in learning judging techniques but also in getting their own stock ready for showing.

Participants were required to judge Angus steers, bulls, Suffolk ewes and market lambs, and Crossbred market hogs.

Nancy Seyer, assistant manager and herdswoman at the Devereux Farms said of the animals, "We have Angus cattle here but the lambs were brought in by Bill and Joan MacCauley. They didn't bring hogs in however because of the pseudorabies threat.

Nancy further elaborated, "This day provides kids and adults with the opportunity to learn first hand how a judge would rate their stock, and it helps them learn how best to pick their animals for raising and breeding.

"There are a lot of people here from the local area, especially local breeders, who just like to go through the contest and see how they do. And we do award prizes," Nancy added.

The awards were given in three categories: —Adults, going to 1. Joanne Walker of Chester County, 2. Violet Beam of Chester County, 3. Ken Rarick of Berks County, 4. Ned Sayre of Hartford County, Md. 5. Marion Wilson of Lehigh County.

—Junior Division, going to 1. Ricky Hicks of Chester County, 2. Jay Reiff of Lancaster County, 3. Denise Ambler of Chester County, 4. Debbie Klair of New Castle County, Del. 5. Betsy Colket, Chester County.

—Senior Devision, going to 1. Ralph Danner of Lehigh County, 2. David Moore, New Castle County, Del. 3. Paul Strett of Hartford County, Md., 4. Steven Pierson of Montgomery County, and 5. Bernadette McMahon of Montgomery County.

Helping members gain hands-on experience was Ken Brubaker of Agri-Broadcasting, who conducted the cattle fitting demonstration.

Ken's advice to the young judges dealt mainly with clipping techniques.

"The most important tool in fitting is the clippers. Take care of them. If you borrow somebody else's and you mess them up, it will be the last time you borrow them-guaranteed," he warned.

As he began to clip a steer, Ken said to remember, "The more distinct a line is the more harm it will do in judging.

"Before you start, turn the clippers upside down on the steer's back and let him get used to the sound and the vibration. Let him know it's not going to hurt," he advised.

" To start, I take a streak down the center of the belly and clip it. It's under the belly, so then I can blend it.

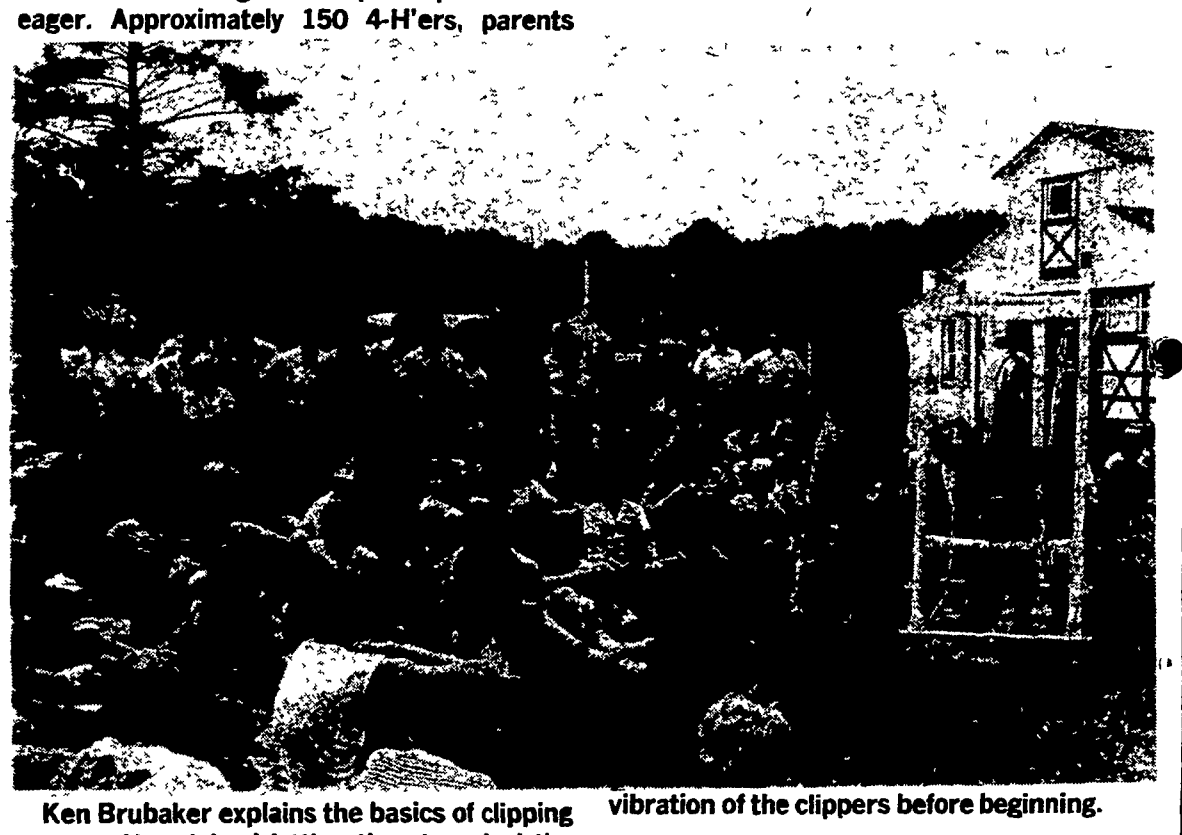
"As a safeguard when clipping, keep a first aid kit handy. When you're clipping along and you hurt your steer, get out the first aid kit and fix him immediately. You may want to show him soon and a cut will ruin your chances."

After a few minutes of demonstrating clipping on the belly, Ken made his way to the hind legs..

"The hind legs are the most important part you'll cut because they're the hardest spot to do. Judges know that and will judge

(Turn to Page C23)

The lunch line at the Livestock Judging Clinic was as long as the participants were eager. Approximately 150 4-H'ers, parents and neighbors participated in the day-long event.



Ken Brubaker explains the basics of clipping a steer. He advised letting the steer feel the vibration of the clippers before beginning.

The sheep were given an even billing at this livestock day. They were provided by Bill and Joan MacCauley as Devereux Farms raises no sheep.

About Devereux Soleil Farms

GUTHRIESVILLE — Though the livestock and the clinics at Devereux Soleil Farms are always the center of interest, the home base for these events often goes foolishly unrecognized.

The Farms are part of the Devereux Foundation, a nonprofit treatment center for emotionally disturbed and mentally retarded children and adults.

Devereux Farms is one of 18 campuses in Pennsylvania where some of the exceptional people live.

The Devereux Foundation has a program where 12 boys work on the farm under the leadership of manager Conrad L. Grove. Students learn the fundamentals of farming and can work on the farm with guidance from the staff.

Devereux Soleil Farms combines five Chester County farms into one working operation. The farms have been producing Angus cattle for thirty years.

The farms maintain a herd of 300 Angus breed cows for production of purebred breeding stock as well as high quality beef.

The weaned calves which are not used as breeding stock enter the feedlot phase of the operation. Here the calves are fed a corn, silage and protein ration until they reach slaughter weight.

As the cattle reach desirable market weight and condition (approximately 18 months of age and 1100 pounds), they are slaughtered at the Devereux Butcher Shop.

Some of the beef is used in the residential programs of the Devereux Foundation and the remainder is retailed as frozen for fresh orders.

The shop also slaughters hogs raised on the Glenmoore farm unit and sells the fresh and smoked pork, sausage and scrapple.

Eggs are produced on the Como farm and are used by the school and retailed by the Devereux Butcher Shop. It is open to the public and is located at the Devereux Brandywine Campus on Devereux Road in Glenmoore.

The feed needed by the cows, calves and feedlot cattle is produced on the farms.

Corn is raised on all Devereux farms and is either chopped for silage or shelled for high moisture corn and ground grain.

Barley and oats are raised and ground with corn for growing rations.

Alfalfa is used for both haylage in the feedlot and baled hay for young calves.

Credit goes to the Devereux Soleil Farms for opening their doors to the public and interested youth in an attempt to teach farming and livestock care. Clinics such as the one held last week are a boost to all 4-H'ers in southeast Pennsylvania.

This is the order in which Robert Grove of The Livestock Breeders Journal placed these Angus steers. First place is to your left.

Robert Grove studies the pigs he later judged. Grove served as official judge of the mini contest which gave each person a chance to test their judging skills.

Judging Clinic

accordingly," he said.

The learning and the hands-on experience picked up from Brubaker and Grove by those present did not go unmerited, however. Comments such as, "This is really neat," and "I didn't know that," were uttered throughout the day.

Diane Krause of Slatington who hopes to major in animal production at Penn State says she benefited from the day.

"It helps us catch up on the trends in judging, because they're always changing. I've showed steers since I was nine years old and I still enjoy it."

Jane Sikorski of Emmaus likes to learn the new terminology.

"I'm a senior now in high school and I want to major in animal production. Learning the new terminology can always help me in my work," Jane said.

A mother and son team found the day to be of special interest because, "it's a fun day to be together. We learn an awful lot because the day focuses on the animals for the coming season," Ginny Hicks of Coatesville said.

Her son, Ricky (who deserves special notice here for scoring higher than anybody present, both adults and juniors, and is in his first year of showing) replied, "I think it was a lot of fun. I learned how to judge sheep.

A group leader and past 4-H leader, Robert Sickler, had some deep convictions about the showing day.

"I think it's been a good day, especially for people who deal mainly with the retail martket," he explained.

"But I think a lot of people don't come that should. The parents should get involved more. There were good speakers here today and good experiences to be learned. Parents should be interested in what their kids do, then the kids will take an even stronger interest themselves."

But despite the pros and cons of the day, it was virtually a success for those who want to learn judging and showing. Robert Grove best summed up the thoughts of those attending when he uttered, "I really had a nice day today!"

Sheehe named Extension agent

UNIVERSITY PARK — Martha P. Sheehe has been appointed to The Pennsylvania State University's Cooperative Extension Service staff as assistant extension agent in home economics in Chester County.

Dr. Thomas B. King, associate dean for Extension, who announced Mrs. Sheehe's appointment, said, that she began her duties on June 1. She is responsible for organizing and carrying out an informal education program for youth and adults in Chester County.

Mrs. Sheehe is working with all family living aspects of the county 4-H program. She is also directly responsible for the [illegible] component of the Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program (EFNEP), a federally funded [illegible] developed to teach low income families and youth the basics of good nutrition and how to manage available resources.

A native of Pleasant Valley, New York, Mrs. Sheehe holds a bachelor of science degree in nutritional sciences from Cornell University. She is currently completing work for a master of science degree in nutrition from Penn State.

Before joining the Extension Service, she was a nutrition education specialist for the Montgomery County Intermediate Unit. Prior to that she was a nutrition education specialist with the University of Pennsylvania and Extension Associate at Cornell [illegible] graduate assistant [illegible] and Chester County Nutrition Council.

Summer Time Can Be Coliform Time

We may slow down on hot humid summer days, but bacteria do not. They love those hot mucky days, and they multiply wildly.

And where do we keep many of our cows on those hot summer days? Too frequently, we keep them in a barn which is insufficiently ventilated. If it is a free-stall barn, and if we have a fan running or a door open, we will probably find cows tightly huddled together at these breezy spots.

In otherwords, in an attempt to keep cows out of the hot sun, we keep them indoors where they are exposed to wet alleys and hot humid conditions. These are ideal spots for high bacteria counts. Exposing cows to these conditions can increase their chance for getting coliform mastitis.

I am not suggesting that you not keep cows indoors. Keeping cows in the barn during the heat of the day is still a good practice IF the barn is well ventilated.

Good Air Movement

You must have enough air movement to change the air frequently and to move air uniformly enough to discourage cows from bunching up. Notice that I said change the air - not just stir it around! Frequent air changes helps to remove excess heat and moisture, and it helps to keep the bacteria load in the environment to a minimum.

To do an adequate job of ventilating a free-stall barn naturally, requires LOTS of side openings AND a LARGE opening along the ridge of the roof! This is especially important for wide four-row barns.

Side openings should be AT LEAST 4 to 6 feet wide. They should be down at the stall level where it will benefit the cows; head level is better yet! And, they should be on both sides of the barn and run the full length of the barn.

The air movement should not be blocked by other structures. A twelve foot high eave and a steep pitch to the roof is far more superior to low, flat roofs and ceilings. The ridge opening should be at least two inches wide for every ten feet of building width.

Most free-stall barns I have seen do not begin to meet these criteria, and many of them become hot, stuffy and wet in the summer. A few farmers, in desperation, have improved the environment in their barn considerably by tearing off the siding for the summer.

When coliform infections strike, they strike fast, and without warning, and they strike hard! There are no elevated somatic cell counts. In fact, you may have been doing an excellent job controlling the usual strep and staph infections. When coliform mastitis does strike, it is important that you act fast, and work closely with your veterinarian.

Other Precautions

In addition to keeping the barn as fresh and dry as possible, there are many other things you can do. Remember, coliform mastitis is an environmental problem, unlike the contagious nature of staph and strep mastitis. So, a clean environment is very important, especially in summer when bacteria can multiply rapidly.

Keep the alleys and lots scraped regularly. Keep lots well drained. Fence off wet spots, swampy areas, ponds and other bodies of stagnant water. It is a very bad practice to let cows wade in ponds and swampy areas; coliform bacteria can easily enter the teat canal.

Sawdust supports heavy loads of coliform bacteria, particularly the Klebsiella type. And, it doesn't seem to matter much whether it is green, cured or kiln dried. Whatever the form, once it is added to the stall, the bacteria counts usually elevates to a maximum level about 3 to 5 days after application.

After the sawdust becomes soiled with manure and urine, the count usually starts to decline. This may explain why some dairymen seem to experience more problems a few days after they have bedded stalls. Changing to other kinds of bedding, especially during the summer, may help reduce coliform infections.

Provide cows with clean maternity areas. A clean pen, amply bedded with straw - not sawdust, or a clean pasture are ideal. Dry cow treatments are a good practice, but they offer no protection against coliform infections at calving time. Remember, you are trying to keep coliforms out of the teat.

At calving time, the cow may be leaking milk, and the teat seal has been broken. Exposing her to filthy conditions at this time greatly increases her risk of acquiring mastitis and reproductive infections.

At milking time, wash the teat end thoroughly. Avoid using excess water on the udder, and be sure to thoroughly dry the udder and the teat end before applying the milker unit. Use good milking techniques and avoid inflation slips.

These precautions will help prevent dirty water from being sucked in around the mouth of the inflation, and then being impacted against the teat end by vacuum fluctuations.

Change inflations frequently. Bacteria can thrive in the tiny cracks of old inflations. Hard inflations also irritate the cow's teat and make her more susceptible to infection. A good milking system, properly maintained and properly used, will do a lot to help prevent teat injury and udder infection.

Teat dipping is always a good practice. When coliform mastitis infections become a problem, it may be beneficial to switch from the usual germicidal type dips to a teat-sealing dip. The germicidal activity does not last long enough to give full protection against coliform invasions between milkings. Thus, a seal is needed over the teat end between milkings; it will have to be peeled off at milking time. The inconvenience of this has to be weighed against the cost of coliform mastitis.

I mentioned sanitation earlier. Let's also remember to be very sanitary when treating a cow for mastitis; let us be sure that what we are doing at infusing time is curing mastitis -- not causing a more severe form of mastitis.

Anything that can be done to reduce stress on a cow will probably increase her ability to fight off infections.

The holding area is one place cows are often stressed prior to milking. Ideally, cows should not be held longer than 30 to 60 minutes. Avoid overcrowding the cows, and be sure they have good ventilation.

I hope you escape the coliform problem. Observing some of the above precautions may help protect you from the problem, or help you recover from the problem.

Ag Progress Days to include hay show

UNIVERSITY PARK — One feature of Ag Progress Days this year will be the Pennsylvania Hay Show. Ag Progress Days is scheduled for August 25-27 at the Rock Springs Agricultural Center which is located 3 miles west of Pine Grove Mills on Route 45.

There will be three sections of hay in the show including: field cured, partially field cured and heat dried with no preservative, and partially field cured with hay preservative.

The premiums will include 1st-$5, 2nd-$3, 3rd-$1. Each place will receive a ribbon. The grand champion hay sample will receive a trophy. After each sample has been placed the top three will be stored for exhibit in the 1982 Pennsylvania Farm Show.

The judging will take place on Tuesday August 25, and the winners will be announced on Wednesday.

For more information or an entry form contact: John E. Baylor, 106 Agriculture Administration Building, University Park, PA 16802.

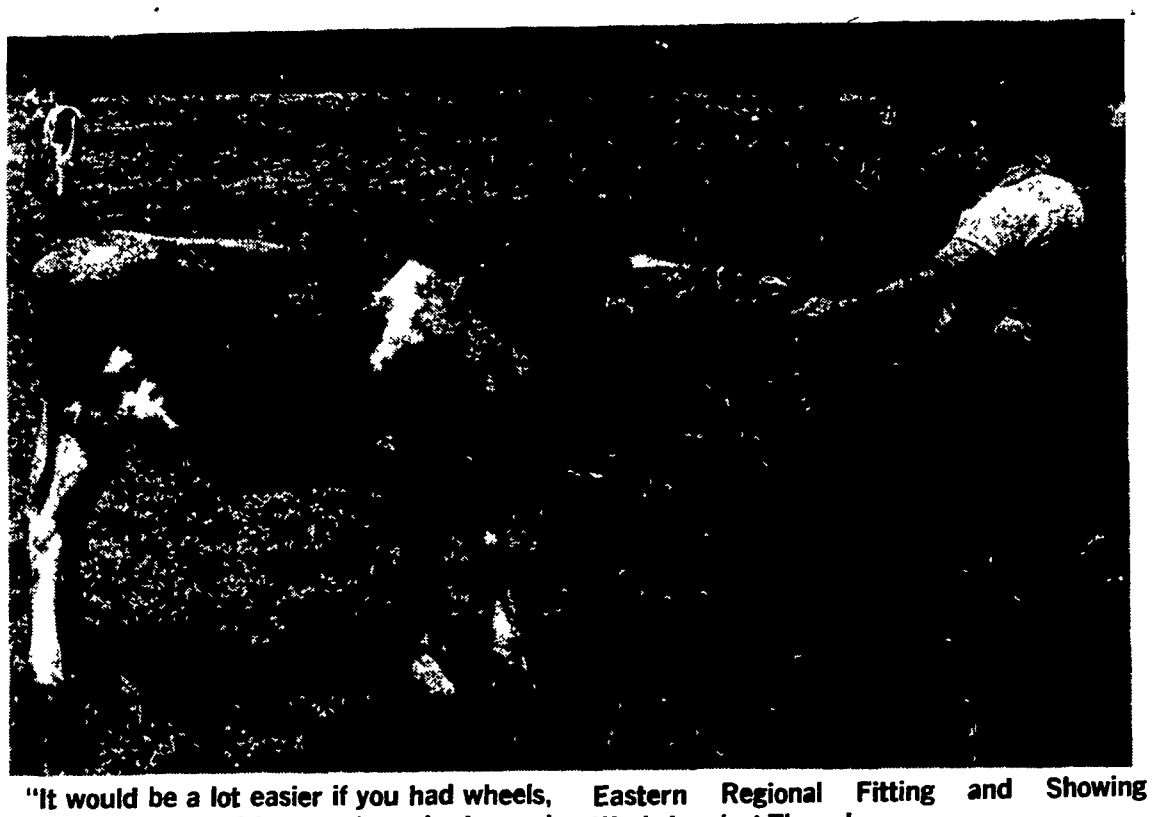
'Battle of wills and will-nots'

Who's teaching who?



"It would be a lot easier if you had wheels, heifer." Glenn Shirk exercises brain and brawn to outsmart his unwilling partner at the Eastern Regional Fitting and Showing Workshop last Thursday.

"Wait a minute...clipping your mother's fingers is not proper fitting technique." Fran Bushong grins and bears it as son Matt works with his heifer.

Tom Barley jumps in front of the others with a "head-start" in clipping his heifer.

Leslie King gets a lesson in physics. An inert object, especially in the form of an unbroken heifer, remains inert.

"What do you mean its over, we're just starting to look good."

SURGE OUTPERFORMS ITSELF...AGAIN.

Introducing the best lightweight, high capacity milker Surge ever designed. A full pound lighter than our popular Mini-Cup II, yet its 39 cubic inches give it more capacity than any other claw-type milker.

The new Mini-Orbit is also easier to carry, easier to attach and remove. Fits right in your hand.

Visibility's better, too. And larger, repositioned nipples coupled with larger stem inflations, proper balance and low center of gravity assure faster, more equal milking action.

We can make your cows worth more.

Getting started in farming

This is the second of a series of six articles on how to get into farming Subsequent releases will discuss selecting a farm, financing farm enterprises, managing finances, and budgeting for financial changes

LANCASTER — So you've decided to farm. To be successful, you need three things — financial backing, control of business decision-making, and a sound knowledge of farming. Eventually, you'll also want a farm of your own. How do you go about getting it?

There are several ways to get into the farming business, says University of Delaware extension farm management specialist Dr. Don Tilmon. Inheritance, marriage, purchase, lease or lease with purchase option can all lead to ownership. It's also possible to manage someone else's farm, if you aren't able to own your own.

Chances are that most people don't "get started" in farming. They remain there after growing up in a farm family. Even if they don't take over the actual farm, they inherit know-how, philosophy, and sometimes financial backing.

If you're in a position to inherit a farm or an interest in one, ask yourself these questions. Does the land constitute a viable economic unit? Do I have a good working relationship with other family members? Is there presently enough income for more than one household? If not, are there alternative sources of income?

Will I have a decision-making role before I inherit the farm? Will the place be mine alone, or will other heirs be in the picture, too? Will I have to buy them out? If that's the case, will I be able to do so? Has the estate been well-planned so that when I inherit the tax burden will be minimal, permitting efficient transfer of the farm assets to me?

Some farm operators have the opportunity to join compatible farms through marriage. If you find yourself in this position, ask yourself these questions.

Which family members will be in control? Will this matter to us? Will I have a compatible working relationship with my in-laws? Will I have as much say as I want in managing the farm? To what extent and in what form will I and my spouse be able to achieve ownership of assets? If there are young children, what will their eventual role be in management or ownership of the farm?

Outright purchase on the open land market is the most clean-cut way to enter farm ownership says Tilmon. The buyer of a commercial farm today must usually compete with other potential buyers. Some of them may want the land for residential or commercial development or other nonfarm uses.

Per-acre costs of up to $4,000 for commercial land aren't unusual. This price is probably more than a farming income can meet. This is why there's a big financial advantage to acquiring a farm through marriage or inheritance. Cost of land is a very serious restriction when you're trying to get started in farming.

"Purchases within the family may have an advantage over inheritance," says the management specialist, "providing appropriate terms can be worked out." This can limit the size of the estate by limiting the size of the mortgage. It also brings immediate control to the younger purchaser. At the same time, the seller (usually a parent or in-law) is protected through provisions of the mortgage.

Here are some questions to ask, if you're considering buying a farm. First, why is the place for sale? Why hasn't it already been bought by someone else — possibly a neighbor? Is it a problem farm — poor soils or other hidden conditions? Is it priced too high? Is there enough land for the type of farming I want to do? Can I lease with an option to buy, so that I can try the place out?

It might pay to discuss your interest in the farm with your county agent, extension farm management specialist, a representative of the Soil Conservation Service and personnel of other agricultural agencies before you commit yourself.

Money requirements for direct purchase of land, equipment and livestock often make leasing a farm a more likely way to get into farming than outright purchase.

If this idea appeals to you, take a look at probable leasing cost. Land — particularly cropland — is often leased by the acre. The rate will vary, of course. Low rent often implies a poor farm, while high rent suggests better land. Rent in a particular region will vary widely. You can expect to pay anywhere from $20 to as much as $100 or more per acre of cropland, depending on its location and local competition. Right now in Delaware the average rental price is $60 an acre.

Throughout most of the Mid-Atlantic and Northeast, renting farmland is cheaper than buying it. Renting could leave you with more working capital to improve your herd or some other aspect of your farm operation. Just remember that facilities often become outdated on farms which have been leased for several years. For example, a landlord renting a dairy farm may be reluctant to "keep up" the milking facility.

Annual verbal leases are common for straight cropland rentals. Written leases are more common when buildings or a dwelling are involved. Tilmon recommends all leases be written, to protect the interests of both parties involved.

An option-to-purchase clause is a lease provides an alternative to immediate purchase of a farm. This option provides an entry procedure which will permit you to test your ability to operate the farm and eventually earn a down payment. The option also benefits the landowner in that it provides an incentive for the lessee to take care of the place. After all, you may own it someday. An option to buy may or may not specify the purchase price. This can be an important consideration when land values are increasing.

Don't give up the idea of farming just because you can't afford to buy or rent your own land. There are also non-ownership ways to get into farming. The modern commercial farm is a highly specialized operation. Not only the type of farming done, but also the tasks performed call for special skills. Consequently, the farm with more than one worker often favors specialization.

You may find that being a highly skilled employee on a large farm is the most satisfactory way for you to become involved in farming. For a reliable, productive employee, work on a farm — including fringe benefits — could bring a return comparable to similar non-farm work. The fringe benefits may include housing and use of farm products. It's certainly an option worth considering, if you want to be involved in farming, says the specialist. It's also a good way to gain practical experience you may put to use on your own farm later on.

With the right skills and knowledge, managing a farm for someone else can be a satisfactory alternative to ownership, both in terms of income and professional challenge. A manager needs to be knowledgeable of most farming tasks and should also be able to perform bookkeeping and general management duties.

Tilmon has one final word of advice on this aspect of getting into farming. "Farm leases, partnership agreements, and employment contracts are all legal arrangements," he says. "You should always consult an attorney when entering any such farm agreements. Partnerships may provide a source of backing, but each party must fully understand the legal implications involved."

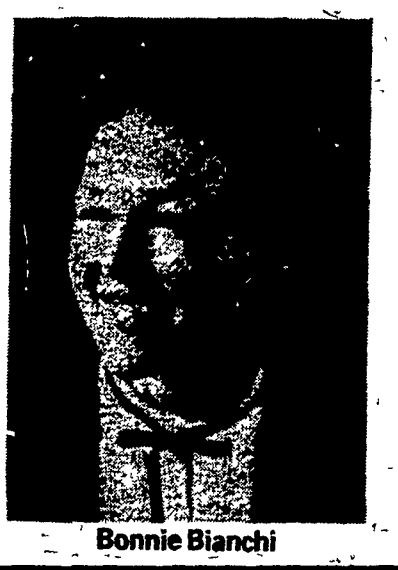
Holstein Association names Distinguished Junior Members

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. — Six young Holstein breeders have been selected as the 1981 National Distinguished Junior Members in an annual competition sponsored by the Holstein Association of America.

Those selected for outstanding achievements in the Holstein dairy industry are Bonnie Bianchi, Gibbon, Minnesota; Lisa Hasfurder, Eminence, Kentucky; Steven Mell, Waunakee, Wisconsin; Sherry Siemers, Cleveland, Wisconsin; Barbara Smith, Franklin, New York; and Mark Yeazel, Eaton, Ohio.

Each distinguished junior represents at least 10 years of dairying experience.

All of the young people are in college or planning to attend, with future plans to continue dairying in the Holstein industry.



Bonnie Bianchi

Lisa Hasfurder

The six winners are receiving an expense-paid trip to the national Holstein convention, this week, in Baltimore, Maryland, where they will be given awards at the Association's annual meeting.

BONNIE BIANCHI

Bonnie Bianchi, 18, of Black Eagle Farm in Gibbon, represents a special kind of dairy success. In less than 10 years, her family has developed a registered Holstein herd by first dispersing a herd of Brown Swiss, then buying and selling grade Holsteins and finally, establishing a registered herd from seed stock of purebred Holstein heifers. The present herd numbers 46 milkers and 60 head of young stock.

Steven Mell

Sherry Siemers

At Black Eagle farm, Bonnie says, "We've been using artificial insemination since the beginning of our registered herd. I study the sire performance sheets and help to make the selection of bulls for breeding the animals."

The young University of Minnesota freshman believes it's important to look for individual mating needs of every animal and to try to match these with the strengths of the sires.

Bonnie's cow, Ceresco Leader Shari, walked out of the showring as Grand Champion of the Minnesota State Holstein Jr. Show. Later, the cow was nominated Jr. All-American Aged cow.

Bonnie's leadership qualities have brought her distinction as president of her local FFA chapter, delegate to the national FFA convention and chairman of a FFA youth conference held in Washington, D.C.

"I've learned that in being a leader there is no greater happiness than knowing you've helped someone else to become a better person," she said.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Bianchi, Bonnie would like to hold a public relations position with an agricultural firm before returning to the dairy as a farmer's wife.

LISA HASFURDER

Lisa Hasfurder, 18, of Has-Lyn Holsteins in Eminence, is a fourth generation Holstein breeder who adds her own brand of enthusiasm and vigor to the responsibilities of making her family's farm more productive.

A national scholarship winner in the 4-H program, Lisa began winning awards at cattle shows at an early age. Along with her first blue ribbons was the Open Dairy Herdsman Award she won at the Kentucky State Fair when she was just 13 years old.

For five years, Lisa has been in charge of mating the entire farm herd, which includes both the Has-Lyn and the Wilsons-Meadows herds. She has a bull under contract at a U.S. artificial insemination firm and one under lease agreement at a bull stud in El Salvador.

Lisa believes advertising of the herd and sale animals is essential in today's dairy market. She helped the family begin its advertising campaign six years ago and the results have brought visits of dairymen by the bus loads, from as far away as Venezuela, California and Wisconsin.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Riley Hasfurder, Lisa has an unusual ambition. After her graduation from University of Kentucky, she would like to become a dairy sire analyst.

"It won't be easy," she admits, "because what I want to do has always been done by men." But, she adds, with the determination that is characteristic of her record, "if I study hard enough I know I can be the first woman dairy sire analyst."

Barbara Smith

Mark Yeazel

STEVEN MELL

Distinguished Junior winner Steven Mell, 19, of Waunakee, represents a fifth generation of a dairying family that dates back to 1852 when the first Mells arrived in Wisconsin from Norway.

As historical as this is, Steven is as modern as tomorrow. He is a fully-accredited artificial insemination technician who has conducted single flush embryo transfers on his own Excellent cow and her daughter.

Mell says he realizes embryo transfers are costly, but he feels he can justify this expense by getting exceptional heifer calves.

"Embryo transfer hastens the genetic growth," he says, "which increases the profitability of my herd."

But his aggressive spirit is not confirmed to the farm alone. Mell's leadership has been felt as president of the local 4-H and FFA chapters. A high school varsity football player, he has been president of the junior and senior class, president of two music groups, and a delegate to the school student council.

Mell's dairy awards include Dane County Holstein Boy, Wisconsin Distinguished Holstein Boy, and State Progressive Junior Breeder Award.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. David Mell, he is in his second year at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, in the dairy science program.

Steve wants to become a top-notch dairy farmer after he finishes his education. He thinks a business partnership with his father and his brother would be ideal.

SHERRY SIEMERS

As a growing youngster, Sherri Siemers, of Cleveland, has had to face the challenge of helping to run a large-size Wisconsin dairy farm.

On a 750-acre dairy, her family milks 240 registered Holstein cows and raises all of their own replacements, accumulating to another 280 head of cows.

Sherry, now 18, is concerned about making the farm an efficient and enjoyable place to live. Although she is involved in the total farm operation, her first love is centered around the showring. In charge of the farm's show string, she finds the showing of fine cattle exciting. Perhaps this accounts for her personal goal which is to become an accredited show judge.

Sherry has a good start. In her high school freshman year her state judging team finished in first place in competitions sponsored by 4-H, the Wisconsin Junior Dairyman Association, Junior Holstein Association, and FFA. As a senior, she was cited as high individual in a national FFA judging contest.

For the past two years, she has been an assistant coach for the county 4-H judging team, a team that has won first place in a series of 20 judging competitions.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Siemers, Sherry has won a national 4-H scholarship which she intends to use when she enrolls as a dairy science student at the University of Wisconsin next fall.

BARBARA SMITH

Barbara is a junior at Cornell University hoping to complete her four years of studies in three years so she can join her future husband on his Del-Rose farm after graduation.

Barbara divides her weekends between two farms, her family's Dairysmith farm and the Del-Rose farm, where she contributes her technical know-how to the dairy operations.

Somehow she still finds time to hold down a secretary's job at Cornell and to prepare for her heavy schedule of animal science classes.

Like other farm youngsters, Barbara learned personal committment at an early age — feeding calves, bedding animals, cleaning the barn and other farm chores. When she got her first calf she learned the ins and outs of "show business." Showing cattle gave her an introduction to Holstein activities which later culminated in her being elected president of the New York Junior Holstein Association.

Barbara is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Smith. She has few doubts about the future. "I feel no other scope of work could give me as much satisfaction and pride as being part of a farm dairy. The desire to breed and develop the perfect Holstein cow will always be my lifetime goal," she said.

MARK YEAZEL

The sixth national winner is Mark Yeazel, 20, of Eaton, who is a sophomore majoring in dairy herd management at Eastern Kentucky University.

Yeazel's formal history of dairying began when he went into a limited partnership with his father and brother at the age of 16 years. Mark says his father felt that a five percent partnership would account for the number of cows he could acquire on his own working time at the farm.

At present, Mark is a partner with 25 percent interest in the farm which includes responsibilities for fulfilling financial payments in farm loans. After he graduates from college, Mark will become an equal partner in business with his father and brother.

Recognized for his production records, Mark has won a dairy production proficiency award given by the Ohio Purebred Cattle Association. Yeazel has also won FFA's Star State Farmer award.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Yeazel, Mark looks forward to the day when he can do more to keep the farm producing at maximum efficiency each year. "I see many opportunities for success with our registered Holsteins and I believe that through them, my family can attain a rich and full life."

Block praises FFA program

WASHINGTON — Young men and women don't have to wait until election day to begin constructing the future of America, says U.S. Secretary of Agriculture John Block. They can start preparing for tomorrow through the Building Our American Communities (BOAC) program of the Future Farmers of America.

At a recent luncheon honoring the 10th anniversary of the BOAC program, Block said private involvement is essential to our nation's recovery.

President Reagan feels, "the answer to our problems in this country must lie in the genius and vitality of its people," Block said. "The youth of today have that genius and vitality."

Building Our American Communities (BOAC) is a national project of the Future Farmers of America, an organization of nearly one-half million high school vocational agriculture students. Through the BOAC program, FFA members carry out community development projects and build their leadership skills.

The BOAC program is sponsored by R. J. Reynolds Industries, Inc., with technical assistance provided by the Farmers Home Administration.

"I know the 10-year history of the BOAC program has made an impression on the United States Department of Agriculture," Block said.

"The Farmers Home Administration youth loan program resulted from observing your BOAC program. Farmers Home saw how energetic the youth are and decided the benefits certainly outweighed the resources that could be invested. As a result of our belief in this program, during fiscal 1980 alone Farmers Home provided over 1,100 youth loans amounting to $4.9 million."

FFA membership increases

WASHINGTON — The Future Farmers of America Organization is growing! FFA membership reached 482,611 for 1980-81, an increase of 935 members from last year. This increase reverses three years of declining membership.

"The increase in FFA membership is probably in part thanks to the 10-PLUS program and 100 percent recognition that was started this year," said Mark Herndon, National FFA President.

"High school enrollment has decreased over the past few years, but this program promotes the many benefits of being an FFA member so more vocational agriculture students join the organization. Through the 10-PLUS program, 1,585 chapters gained 10 or more members over last year. Nationwide, 2,600 chapters had an FFA membership equal to or greater than the number of vo-ag students, so they were named 100 percent chapters. Many graduate vo-ag students continue their FFA membership so their chapters achieve even more than 100 percent membership.

"FFA offers endless opportunities for every vocational agriculture student," Herndon said. "The Programs prepare members for careers in agriculture and agribusiness by teaching technical skills as well as communication and leadership abilities."

Puppy love

MOUNTVILLE — It was truly a case of puppy love when five members of the Mountville 4-H Community Club met the four German Shepherd puppies they will work with for one year to prepare them for a life as a Leader Dog for the blind.

Indeed, the four lively bundles of fur captivated everyone in the audience when they trotted down the aisle of the meeting room and walked right up to the waiting 4-H'ers.

It was a night of excitement not only for the 4-H'ers but also for the Mountville Lions Club who will co-sponsor the project and who have worked closely in getting the project off the ground in Mountville. It is the first time Lancaster County has been involved in the leader dog program.

Nancy Meyers, Lancaster County 4-H Agent, called it a proud moment in Lancaster County's 4-H history, saying, It will be a year of many new experiences - and frustrations. The 4-H'ers must put to a Calumet vacuum tank with soil injector

Liquid hog manure can save thousands of dollars in commercial fertilizer costs. So it makes sense to preserve that value with good management.

That's why Calumet recommends pairing our vacuum tank with a 2 or 4-shank Calumet soil injector. Soil plow down retains about four times the nitrogen lost with surface spreading, plus reduces odor and runoff.

Stop in to see the full line of Calumet vacuum tanks — in capacities from 1180 to 4500 gallons and choice of two vacuum pumps. And ask about the benefits of using a Calumet 2 or 4-shank soil injector.

themselves into the puppies so they will become the eyes for a blind master."

Nancy pointed out that the 4-H youngsters will not just be raising the puppies, but will be producing puppies who have gone through a socialization process and be exposed to various environments to prepare them to be eyes for blind masters.

The 4-H'ers will be taking their puppies to shopping malls, on public transportation, to meetings and anywhere a blind master might take his dog. "There are a lot of things a puppy must go through to get to the Leader Dog School," Nancy said. The Leader Dog School is in Rochester, Michigan.

At the end of a year, the puppies will be tested to see if they are eligible to continue extensive training at the Leader Dog School. If they cannot be trained further the 4-H'ers who raised them will have first option of keeping them. Donors will have second option.

The separation at the end of the year could be heart-breaking, but Nancy said, "The bond of friendship between the puppy and the 4-H'er must be broken to form a new bond between the puppy and its master."

Raising the puppies will be Belinda Enders, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Enders, 3203 Horizon Drive, Lancaster; Carrie and Rebecca Fasolt, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Terry Fasolt, 2961 Kings Lane, Lancaster; Amy Neustadter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolf Neustadter, 1132 Mill Mar Road, Lancaster; and Sara Settle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Settle, 630 Walnut Street, Columbia.

Scott Brenneman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brenneman, 705 Darby Lane, Lancaster, is acting as a standby to take the puppies when other families are vacationing or have other commitments.

Nancy said the Mountville Club was selected because of the interest of its leader, Hal Enders, in the Leader Dog program. Enders said the 4-H'ers will have Leader Dog project books and the five members will be meeting regularly for special training.

Three of the dogs are seven weeks old and were bred at The Pennsylvania State University through the Leader Dog 4-H program. They were brought to Mountville by Jody Sweeney, 4-H Leader Dog coordinator and Chris Shaub, assisting in a work-study program. The Leader Dog program was begun two years ago as a pilot program, but this is the first year it is operating in an extensive way. There are 40 leader dogs in 4-H programs in eight counties.

The fourth dog is nine weeks old and was donated to the program by Mr. and Mrs. Donald Jefferson, Doylestown in Bucks County, who drove to Mountville Monday to present their dog with the others.

The Mountville Lions Club is working on a campaign to educate the community about the training program so that the 4-H'ers and their puppies will be welcomed into stores and other public buildings. They provided dog boxes built under the supervision of Tom Coyle and assembled feeding dishes, collars, and leashes. The sewing leaders provided each puppy with a special "Leader Dog" blanket.

Vaccines have been provided by Penn State and will be administered by the Columbia Animal Hospital which is cooperating with the program. The 4-H families will be providing all the food for the puppies unless donors are found.

While leader dogs can also be labradors, golden retrievers and some crossbreeds, Nancy explained that the Penn State program is breeding only German Shepherds because 4-H'ers in the Michigan area near the Leader Dog School have been raising other breeds for many years.

Lions Leader Dog Chairman Paul DeLong, congratulated Lancaster County 4-H on its new venture and said, "Leader dogs provide independence and mobility to those who are legally blind."

He explained that the dogs will be trained for 16 weeks at the Leader Dog School and then will work with a new master for 25-27 days. He pointed out that dogs have personalities and the trainers will learn that personality and then try to match it with the personality of the blind masters. There is no upper age limit for those wishing to get a leader dog, but blind masters must be at least 16 so they and the dog can be matched according to size.

The puppies are now in their new homes, getting acquainted with the families who agreed to raise them. But all the members of the Mountville 4-H Club are participating in this growing experience as they eagerly anticipate reports and regular visits from the puppies. It was announced that the Club hopes to make the project an annual one, and judging from the response to the four friendly puppies, there will be many youngsters eager to make a home for them and provide an important part of the training in the Leader Dog program. - SB

BALTIMORE, Md. - Ivan K. Strickler, Iola, Kansas, completes a second term as president of the Holstein Association at the organization's 96th National Convention here this week.

Strickler, who is a veteran of Holstein affairs, has served as vice president of the dairy breed organization. He was a director of the national Holstein board from 1964 to 1972. He has also been president of the Kansas Holstein Association.

In 1978, Strickler was recognized as Man of the Year at World Dairy Expo, Madison, Wisconsin, where he received a citation signed by President Jimmy Carter.

His many dairy interests have included service as secretary of the corporate board of Mid-America Dairymen, the second largest milk cooperative in the country and president of the National Dairy Shrine Club.

The Kansas dairyman is a recipient of the Ford Foundation Dairy Farm Efficiency Award. A graduate of Kansas State University, he had been named to the Dairy Hall of Fame there.

Strickler manages a top herd of 120 registered Holsteins which averages 19,000 pounds of milk annually. He has judged national cattle shows in Brazil, Argentina and Ecuador and several state shows in this country.

He and his wife, Madge, have three grown sons: Steven, Thomas and Douglas.

As president, Strickler helped determine policies for the largest dairy breed association in the world. Headquartered in Brattleboro, Vermont, the organization registers nearly 300,000 Holsteins each year and provides genetic data and special assistance for 40,000 members.

PURINA®
BIO-4®
FEEDING PROGRAM

A program of feeding pullets and layers precisely the amount of nutrients they need to grow and produce eggs efficiently. Now such precision is possible with the Bio-4 rations. Five levels of feed fortification for five intake levels are provided in the series of rations. Bio-4 ration options allow even greater flexibility to meet specific needs in your particular operation. Also, from Bio-4 concentrates, complete Bio-4 rations can be mixed.

The Bio-4® Feeding Program:
- ★ Promotes optimum performance
- ★ Eliminates expensive nutrient wastage
- ★ Improves feed efficiency
- ★ Permits egg size control
- ★ Provides flexibility to changing conditions
- ★ Compliments benefits of other Purina programs

For more details about the Purina Bio-4 Feeding Program, ask your Purina Salesman or Dealer, or request Purina Bio-4 Feeding Program (P1702) from Purina. If you have specific nutrient needs in your operation, ask about the Bio-4 options. If you have milling facilities available, ask about the Bio-4 Concentrates from which any complete Bio-4 ration can be mixed.
